M'INTOSH AND MAYES ARE BOTH INDICTED BY THE GRAND JURY

Grim's Bridge Fight Among the Many Things to Receive the Attention of Court at Lisbon.

Lisbon, October 9.—(Special)—The grand jury returned the following additional indictments yesterday afternoon:

Henry Miller, Wellsville, burglary and larceny.

George Mayes, East Liverpool, shooting at Frank Crawford with intent to kill in a disturbance at Grim's bridge near Calcutta.

Batista Speinnella, Lisbon, two indictments for cutting J. Begona with intent to kill and wound during a brawl in an Italian colony at the old McKinley homestead, west of here Labor Day.

Albert McIntosh, stabbing and cutting Albert Thompson with intent to wound in the Grim's bridge melee.

Ten of the jail prisoners were arraigned in court yesterday afternoon on the indictments against them.

Seven pleaded not guilty as follows: Charles Hutton, burglary; Robert Cooley, burglary; John Brown, robbery; Richard Howard, larceny; Edward Allen, pocket-picking; Charles Neeley, larceny; George R. Tate, larceny; Charles Garwood, of Columbiana, pleaded guilty to two indictments for larceny and was sentenced to the Canton workhouse 30 days for each indictment, to stand committed until the cash in each case is paid. He is the man who, while in the employ of Travers Cope, a Fairview township farmer, admitted a confederate to Mr. Cope's feed store, making himself a party to the theft of a large quantity of prepared meat. Garwood also pleaded guilty to stealing a pocket book, jewelryand other valuables from Maggie Houtelle, who was employed as a domestic at Cope's.

Ray McCalmont and Ellis Stoffet, Wellsville boys, pleaded guilty to larceny and were sentenced to the Can-

THE PATOS ISLAND "TEMPEST IN A TEAPOT."

Though it scarcely appears to be worth quarreling over, it is a fact that the tiny island of Patos, near Trinidad, may involve the United States and England in serious complications. England has seized Patos, which Venezuela claims as her own. Herbert W. Bowen and W. H. D. Haggard are respectively the American and British representatives in Venezuela.

PROFITABLE SESSION HELD BY U. P. SYNOD HAS COME TO AN END

Business Meetings Held Today Show Great Prosperity—Spicy Remarks About a Lay Brother.

The two days' session of the United Presbyterian synod of Ohio held in the First church of this city closed this afternoon after completing one of the most beneficial and interesting meetings ever experienced by the small army of members of the organization.

The place chosen for the next convention of the synod is Birmingham, Mich., which is located about thirty miles from Detroit. Before adjournment heartfelt resolutions of thanks were prepared and ordered to be presented to the members of the church of this city for the kind and admirable way in which they have treated the visiting ministers during their stay in the city.

The session this morning opened with devotional exercises conducted by Dr. Bell. Following a report of the finance committee was heard. The report was correct and compiled in a business-like manner. It showed the church's financial standing to be brightening, and the synod feels that this part of the work has been a success.

The committee on the Muskingum college rendered a report, and it was also very satisfactory. During the past ten years the attendance at the college has increased 90 per cent. The old debt which stood against the church for years has been wiped out, but there is yet a balance of $9,000 to be paid for the erection of the new building. A friend of the college has volunteered to duplicate every dollar given toward that end.

The synod endorsed a plan to have the young people's society of the church contribute to the cause. Dr. W. H. Vincent, J. C. McMunn, J. A. Wilson, D. K. McKnight J. T. Caldwell, and Elders W. S. Head and James

STREET CARS STRUCK LOADED WAGONS

DRIVERS OF VEHICLES NARROWLY ESCAPED BEING KILLED.

Two Similar Accidents at the Scene of Railroad Work at Ralston Crossing.

A kind fate saved two men from being either killed or seriously injured between 8 and 9 o'clock this morning on the lower river road, near Ralston Crossing. Luckily no one was injured.

Just where these accidents occurred the river road is being widened. Wagons containing filling from the excavating on the Cleveland & Pittsburg railroad are unloaded near Ralston Crossing, and it frequently occurs that a wagon is allowed to stand close to the tracks of the street railway. This morning two of these wagons were struck by cars as they were being unloaded and their drivers had very narrow escapes from being injured.

The drivers were unloading their wagons, while standing on the ground between the horses and wagons. One of these wagons was struck by a street car with such force that the driver was knocked down at the feet of the horses. Naturally the horses became somewhat frightened at the suddenness of the shock and came near tramping upon their driver. He was somewhat scratched by striking the wagon as he fell, but was not injured.

A similar accident happened to another wagon about half an hour later in practically the same manner as the first accident. As in the first case, the driver was not injured. Those who are employed unloading these wagons claim that sufficient care is not used by the motormen in passing this part of the road, but no motormen is going to run into a wagon and injure a person just for the fun of the thing.

Labor Party Campaign Meeting.

A meeting of the Central committee of the Labor party was held last evening in rooms in the Golding block. Plans for the coming campaign were talked over, and reports from the various soliciting committees were read. Arrangements were made to have a full meeting of the central committee of this party at City Hall tomarrow evening, at which time it is expected that District Secretary Thomas, of Alliance, will be present.

McMullen-Bittner.

At the parsonage of Rev. John William Gorrell this morning, Charles H. Bittner, of Pittsburg, and Miss Louise McMullen, of this city, were married. The young couple were attended by several friends from this city and Pittsburg. Mrs. Bittner, in company with several sisters, has been employed in one of the potteries for many months. The couple had a license from the Mahoning county courts.

CLIFFORD'S HURTS HAVE PROVED FATAL

MAN WHO FELL FROM A BRIDGE DIED IN AGONY.

Efforts of Physicians Were in Vain And the End Came Today at Noon.

James Clifford, the unfortunate man who fell from the railroad bridge in the West End early yesterday morning, and who received bad injuries, died this afternoon at 12:15 o'clock in terrible agony.

Since meeting with the horrible accident he suffered intensely and was unconscious most of the time. His attending physicians did all within their power to prevent death, but their efforts were of no avail.

On the 4 o'clock train this afternoon the remains were shipped to Cleveland, his home. Mr. and Mrs. Clifford, father and mother of the ill-fated man, arrived in the city last evening from Cleveland and were with him at the time of his death. The mother was heart broken.

This morning Clifford was removed from Miller's undertaking establishment to 211 College street, where he expired.

CASE DISMISSED

ITALIAN JUMPED FROM FREIGHT TRAIN AND LOST LEGS.

Cannot Recover Damages, as Railroad Company Was Not at Fault.

Lisbon, October 9.—(Special.)—The case of James Navarre, an Italian, who had both legs cut off by an Erie train on June 2 and who brought suit against the railway company for $1,999.99 dabages, came up in court yesterday afternoon. Judge Hole took the case from the jury and dismissed it on the ground that there was no testimony showing the railroad company or its employes to be at fault.

The plaintiff alleged that he had boarded a freight train to ride to Cleveland and that the conductor and brakeman, who were on the caboose, four cars from him, motioned for him to get off and shook their fists at him. Jumping, he fell on an ash heap and rolled under the wheels.

The unfortunate man was a pitiable sight when he was carried into court in a chair. He cannot speak English and gave his testimony through an interpreter. He is said to have been well-to-do and supported a family in Italy.

DOWN TO WORK WITH ALACRITY

Joint Conference Code Committee Is Busy Both Day and Evening Now.

PING-PONG SECTION OUT

Belief Is Now That the Legislature Will Be Able to Adjourn Sine Die Next Week—Senate Has a Lively Session.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, October 9.—The joint conference committee is displaying commendable alacrity in its work on the code. It organized yesterday afternoon by electing Senator Longworth, of Hamilton, president, and Representative Denman, of Lucas, secretary. One of the first things the committee did was to emasculate the Cole anti-ping pong gambling provision from the code. This was regarded as somewhat nonsensical. The Bracken amendment prohibiting the employment of girls under 18 as public messengers was also taken out. The section relating to free hospitals and independent libraries was changed so as to place these institutions under the countrol of council. The differences between the house and senate curative acts were reconciled by making slight changes in the phraseology of the house act. The matter remains in practically the same shape. The conference committee expects to report back by not later than the middle of next week. Work was begun again at 9:30 this morning. Afternoon and evening sessions will be held. The legislature will probably be able to adjourn sine die the latter part of next week.

The senate was busy yesterday. The Burnham light bill was discussed during the most of the afternoon session. It seeks to repeal the Jones arc light bill passed last winter. The senate considered it in committee of the whole. A motion to recommend the passage of the measure lost. Further

A BUILDING UP AND WIRES DOWN

This Is the Program of the Bell Telephone Company in This City.

BURYING THE BIG CABLES

Preparatory to Removing Wires And Poles From the Streets Is Now in Progress—Work on New Exchange to Start at Once.

After weeks, months and even years of waiting the Central District Printing and Telegraph company is at last to commence work upon the erection of its new central telephone building, at Market street and Drury lane. This announcement was made today by one of the officials of the construction department, who was in the city. The money for this building has been appropriated, having been granted several months ago. Other work contemporary with the erection of this new building has been in progress for almost a year, and now that this is about finished, work on the building is to start.

Since the first of the week employes of the construction and cable departments have been busy in this city placing the large lead-covered cables containing 200 wires, underground. So far eight large coils of cable have been used, but before the task is finished many more coils will be used. After the cables have been taken from the coils, or wheels, the latter are rolled to the property of the company on Market street, where they will be allowed to remain until shipped to New York.

After all the cables are placed under ground comes the tedious part of the work, that of making the various connections. A dead end of the cable is at the corner of Drury lane and Market street, and the matter of running the wires into the new central office will be comparatively easy work after the building is completed. Today the cablemen were engaged in running the cables from the underground conduits to the central office on Washington street. Just as soon as all the cables are connected, connections will be made with the central office.

Then will follow the destruction of all overhead wires of the telephone company in this city. After the wires have been taken down the poles will also be taken from the ground and probably sent to other towns where no underground system is in use.

DAZED BY HIS HURTS WALKED 15 MINUTES

Rendered unconscious as the result of a heavy blow received upon his head, John Nisson, the well known bridge worker of Sunnyside, who is assisting in the erection of the new bridge for the Pennsylvania company in the West End, performed one of the most peculiar feats ever witnessed in this city last night.

Notwithstanding that he was out of his senses and in a condition preventing his feeling pain, he walked around in the immediate vicinity of the place where he was hurt for at least 15 minutes, not uttering a word, before his fellow employes realized that he had even been injured.

When the effect of the shock began to subside and a reaction commenced he staggered and fell prostrate to the ground, giving the first evidence of suffering from the blow. Several workmen hastily ran to his assistance and took him to his home, where, after the application of an emetic and other medicines, he revived and it is thought he will recover without any serious results.

Mr. Nisson has charge of a derrick being used in hoisting the many heavy articles incident to the construction of a bridge, and it was while performing some work of the kind that he met with the accident. He had hold of a rope guiding the hoister when the rope broke, and a heavy hook on one end of the rope fell, striking him on the head.

NEAR VICTORY

Pittsburg Papers Comment on Mercer And Carey's Work on the Diamond.

Well, well, just to think of it! "Win" Mercer, formerly of the Third ward, came near pulling a victory out of the fire for his All-American base ball club at Pittsburg yesterday, but failed. That was good enough, but then that old-time politician, George Carey, helped Mercer's club to lose the game, and that was all there was to it. In the ninth inning in the game with the Pittsburg Pirates yesterday afternoon "Win" went to bat for Joss, the Cleveland twirler. Mercer got a hit. He got first base. Then he walked to the 'bus to ride to his hotel. That ended the game. There were but three hits made in the game and Mercer got one of them. Carey got a goose egg and had one error which is listed as a fatal one.

All Pittsburg players speak well of Mercer and also of Carey. Of course, a few warm ones are handed out, but still that is in the game, and who cares? Frank McQuiston, of the Dispatch, says this of Mercer:

"Mercer could have scored had he but started when the ball was hit, but he loafed and the game was a shutout, for Leach and Ritchey took good care of Davis at second when Wallace hit the ball."

"Win Mercer was counting money in the club house yesterday when he was called to go in and bat."

"Big Larry will be in the fuss Friday and Saturday. Perhaps Mercer would not have mortgaged his house and lot in East Liverpool if he could have had him for an hour yesterday. It might have made a difference."

FIRST OF THE SEASON

The Cricket, a Passenger Boat, Expected Up the River Today.

The steamboat Cricket will be up the river this evening. This is the first passenger boat of the season. The Greenwood usually made this run, but the Cricket is better adapted to low water. The Cricket will return tomorrow evening, and will stop at East Liverpool for passengers.

The boat goes down as far as the Kanawha river, which it traverses.

Suing Her Son.

A replevin action has been entered in the court of Justice A. T. Moore, of St. Clair township, by Mrs. Salina Chamberlain against her son, William B. Chamberlain. The plaintiff desires that numerous household goods and some farming implements be returned to her. The case will be heard Saturday afternoon. Attorney James Davis, of the East End, represents the plaintiff.

WORK TO BEGIN IN THIRTY DAYS

Unlimited Capital Back of It And Rights of Way Secured.

Columbiana, October 9.—(Special)—An important meeting of capitalists was held here Wednesday for the purpose of pushing the construction of the Youngstown and Southern railroad passing from Youngstown to Columbiana, passing through 30,000 acres of coal lands. The charter and right of way were secured by General A. W. Jones and John H. Ruhlman.

Prominent capitalists from New York and Cleveland went over the route and were very much pleased with the project. Unlimited capital will be furnished and rich farming country will be given an outlet for its produce and big coal fields will be opened up. It is confidently asserted that work on the new line will be commenced within 30 days.

BLAMES BILLINGSLEY

Received Moore's Reason For Delay In Settling Lisbon Bank Claims.

Lisbon, October 9.—(Special)—Concerning the petition of creditors for a final settlement of the Lisbon First National bank affairs the receiver, Judge J. G. Moore, publishes a statement to the effect that the delay is due to his inability to settle the bank's claim against Judge N. B. Billingsley.

He asks the creditors if they want a settlement now which would necessaraly absolve Mr. Billingsley from his obligations.

SPECIAL ELECTION

On Road Bonds Is Petitioned For By St. Clair Township Voters.

Lisbon, October 9.—(Special)—St. Clair township people are again eager for a vote on the proposition to pave with brick the Calcutta road from Calcutta to the Liverpool township line.

A petition for a special election has the names of 115 property holders, 15 more than the required number.

Mr. Hawkins Has Appealed.

Lisbon, October 9.—(Special)—The McGarry real estate agency sued Etta Hawkins for $56 and costs, which was held due for breach of contract in the sale of East Liverpool property. Judgment was rendered for the full amount and the defendant has appealed.

Petition In Error Filed.

Lisbon, October 9.—(Special)—A petition in error in the road case of James Faloon et al. against John Matthews et al. has been filed in common pleas court.

WITH THE WORKMEN IN THE CLAY PLANTS

COMMERCIAL PHOTOGRAPHY.

In all business enterprises photography, in these days of advancement, is more or less used. From the detection of crime to the selling of merchandise photography is serviceable. But never before was photography so extensively used by the manufacturing potters of the country as now. How rapid the advancement in this particular line of business in this city has been, the general public knows very little. One large photograph, showing several designs of ware made at a pottery, will result in the taking of several orders, thus taking the place of a salesman. Of course these miniature salesmen cost money, and not a month passes but some improvement is made in the making of the pictures. In the past two years wonderful advancement nas been made in the production of these photographs by local photographers. Employment is given to more people in this line of work than is generally supposed. The manufacturing potters of this city send out large books of photographs representing all classes of ware made at a pottery. One of these books is given to a salesman. Frequently photographs are used instead of the actual samples. A firm frequently sends a bunch of photographs to a far-off prospective customer, perhaps located in the west. Although single photographs may cause the expenditure of several dollars, the returns are probably a hundred fold. Of course the class of goods put out by a manufacturer often has much to do with the order-getting work of the photograph. The picture must always be backed up by good ware. The making of the individual photograph is an interesting study. The picture shows the piece of ware as it actually is, colors of decoration and all. To make a picture like this requires no little work. Many colors are used, and the results that are obtained by an up-to-date photographer in this line of work are little short of wonderful. The use of isocrymal plates in the making of these photographs was first introduced in this city by Robert E. Spencer. Before these plates were brought to East Liverpool three fourths of all commercial photography orders, it might be said, were sent from the city, either to Chicago or to St. Louis. It is now said that owing to the advances made in this city the work is done at home, with a possible exception of one or two who send their orders from the city. While this city has been making strides in the manufacture of pottery, advancement is being made in the photograph line at the same time.

When a bunch of ware is sent to a photographer to photograph, with the decorations intact, that certain piece of ware cannot be sold. It may do for a sample in the sample rooms but it will never be disposed of unless to a person who is looking for a job lot. There is a reason for this. But one side of the piece of ware is glazed. The other is in a vitreous state, and is decorated just as the glazed side is. Unless this is done a good photograph cannot be made. The glaze throws too much light upon the photograph. In photographing the unglazed side of the ware, perfect pictures are secured. These are then developed, and while the different colors of the decoration is shown on the photograph, they are placed in the hands of young ladies who "touch them up," and within a few days they are ready to be made into books and delivered to the local manufacturer. It must be understood that not only has the local pottery manufacturer photographs of his ware made in this city, but samples from all over the country to be photographed. This shows conclusively that the fame of East Liverpool photography is national. The young ladies that are engaged in "touching up" these pictures are well paid for their work, receiving from $5 to $12 a week. Frequently these girls take their work home with them, and when working by the piece, are enabled to make very good wages. It frequently occurs that their wages are considerably more than $12 a week. Fillers-in make the best help in this particular department. They are used to that sort of work. They are sent here every month many samples of goods put up by firms outside of this city. As an example, samples of coffee and tea sacks which are put up for the retail trade are sent to this city to be photographed. Trade in this line is especially good. Besides this, quantities of glass ware of all description and hundreds of glass lamps are also sent here to be photographed.

'TIS A GOOD THING.

Some time ago there was published an article in this column relating to the establishment of an oil kiln at the plant of the American Ceramic Art pottery on Second street. In commenting upon this innovation in kilns in this city an eastern trade paper contains the following: "It would seem as if some practical means of heating a kiln by oil might be found, either by direct fire or by gas from the oil. All the illuminating gas used used in New York city is made from oil, and is cheaper than coal gas. Why not thus make gas for firing pottery? An attempt to fire with oil direct resulted in failure; but no one, so far as we know, has tried to make gas from oil and use it as natural gas is used."

MT. PELEE WARE.

A few days ago there was received in this city 10 samples of ware made at the new McCoy Art pottery, at Roseville, a few miles from Zanesville. Never before was there such odd ware shown in this city. Resembling old metal, this ware is moulded into all sorts of shapes while in the soft clay state. Only the samples of the ware to be made at this pottery have been turned out. Some of the ware, it would seem almost impossible to make. It contains a black glaze, while the body is almost snow white. This can be seen by looking at the bottom of some of the pieces. The soft glaze of which was caught on the bottom of a sagger. There is no doubt in the world but what the new ware will command a high price, equal to that demanded for Rookwood ware. The ware was sent here to be photographed, and as soon as this is done the firm will be notified, and a packer will be sent here fro mthe factory to repack the samples, and send them to the pottery. The ware is very delicate.

NEW PLANTS AT COLUMBUS.

The Columbus Pottery company, which will build a plant several miles north of that city, has had the tract on which it will be located approved by the county commissioners. It has been designated "Chaseland." It consists of 608 lots with a reservation of 15 acres for the pottery site. The plant is to be erected within a year. The employes will build homes on the lots. The company will make ware similar to that made in Zanesville. The tract owned by the Bell Pottery company is situated just east of the city and is known as "Beliwood." The work of excavating for the new plant is being hurried. If all goes well Columbus will have two potteries in operation by this time next year.

SITUATION SERIOUS.

Trenton's manufacturing interests are now facing a crisis in connection with the coal strike. Notwithstanding the fact that nearly all the potteries at a great expense, reconstructed their kilns for the burning of bituminous coal they are now wrestling with the difficulty in obtaining a sufficient supply in order to keep contracts with those who are waiting for orders. Soft coal is being shipped to the potteries mostly in two car load lots, and unless there is a sudden change in the situation the coal strike will cause a loss of many thousands of dollars here. With the potteries, especially those dealing in general ware, this is about the busiest time of the year, as most of the ware which is now beng made is to supply the holiday trade.

STARTING FOUNDATION.

The work of building the foundation of the new decorating kilns for the Wallace & Chetwynd pottery was commenced yesterday, and it is expected the entire kilns will be completed and ready for use within 30 days. The new kilns will be erected on the site of the old ones, which were recently demolished. In the rear of this kiln, it is said the new printing press will be installed, exclusive mention of which was made in this paper several weeks ago. By installing this machine the company will employ three printers, and as orders for decorated ware are coming in rapidly for this plant, the decorating departments will be kept running in full.

LOOKED UP RELATIVES.

E. F. Hanna, of Baltimore, Md., who travels for the American Pottery Supply company, of that city, was in Salem this week on business. He is making a trip west, calling on the pottery trade in Ohio and Indiana. While in Salem Mr. Hanna incidentally looked up some of his relatives who live in that vicinity whom he had never seen. A branch of his family is connected with the Barnes and Hanna families of Ohio, having migrated to Ohio from the east.

GAMES ARE WANTED.

It is announced that the football club, composed of players employed at the Buckeye pottery, desires games with any pottery team in the city. Some one has started the report that the Buckeye team would like to play the team representing the Laughlin potteries in the East End, and would be willing to play for $25 a side. However, it is said that the Laughlin team does not propose to play for any stakes just at this stage of the game. It may be that the boys from the Buckeye may be able to get a game with some other pottery teams fro mthis city, as the boys desire to arrange for games at any time.

HORSELESS MAIL WAGON

MAIL CARRIER BEVINGTON INTRODUCES AN INNOVATION.

Will Make His Collections Hereafter By the Aid of a Small Automobile.

Mail Carrier Bevington is without doubt one of the up-to-date mail carriers in the country. He has started an innovation in this city. Instead of using a horse and a small mail cart in making his usual collections during the day, Mr. Bevington has decided that an automobilie is a better means of covering his territory. He will use his domesticated horse no more, at least, for a few days. Yesterday Mr. Bevington received from an eastern firm an auto-quad, a miniature automobile, which cost, according to the list price, $450.

The machine is unlike any other ever seen in this city. It is propelled by gasoline and it has four wheels. Over the front wheels is a seat capable of holding two persons, or the seat can be replaced with a box, which will be used for letters and other mail matter while they are being collected. At the front of the two rear wheels is a seat similar to that used on a bicycle. It is there that the mechanism of the machine is located.

The machine is so made that the springs which support the passenger seat allow the axle carrying the seat to rise and fall laterally, so that all four wheels remain on the ground when passing over irregularities in the road. Both the front wheels are steered upon separate centers by means of rods jointed to the end of the steering post controlled by the handle bar. The mechine is propelled by a three and one-half horse-power motor.

CROWDS ATTENDED

The Mill Creek Presbyterian Celebration a Success in Every Respect.

The crowd in attendance at the one hundred and eighteenth anniversary of the Mill Creek Presbyterian church, observed yesterday under auspicious circumstances at the church, was much larger than expected. People were there from long distances and those living within a radius of four miles were there to a man. East Liverpool was well represented, it being estimated that there were over 200 from this city present.

The program as given in the News Review was carried out in detail and was highly interesting.

Young Married Couple the Recipients of Much Attention from Practical Jokers.

Practical jokers and rice throwers had their fun with Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bence when they left on their bridal tour yesterday afternoon. On the train yellow hand bills were distributed, reading: "Watch for them at the next station. Just married. They are young and giddy, but good looking. You'll know them at sight. Speak to them; they are anxious to make your acquaintance, but too bashful to approach you. Be kind to them."

The happy couple bore their persecution with patient good nature, but evidently were glad to get away.

Benefit Game of Ball.

It is reported that a benefit game of base ball is being arranged for by the members of the East Liverpool team and the Y. M. C. A. team. The teams are fairly well matched and an exciting game would without doubt be played by them. If the game is played it is said that "Toadix" Carey will play first base for the Y. M. C. EAST END

THOSE ASSESSMENTS

AN EAST END CITIZEN ON PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE MATTER.

The New Road a Benefit to the Whole City And Not to a Small Section of It.

To the Editor of the News Review.

Kindly permit me to speak a word or two through your columns relative to the wisdom and policy of the recent assessments laid on East End property for the improvement of Pennsylvania avenue.

There are some institutions which belong alike to the general public and to no one portion of it, as a public hospital, library or park. To this class we can properly assign this splendid avenue. Some one has well observed that it sustains the same relation to the city as a public park. It is virtually the city's only driveway. The excellence of it, its local picturesqueness and attractive scenery make it specially desirable for this purpose. It may be called a park road, and, no less than a park the expense of it should be borne by the city.

The improvement of this avenue, in one important particular, ought not to be confounded with the improvement of city streets generally; for there are no persons to be benefited residing on it, from one end of it to the other—that is, the improved portion in question—and to say that one end of the city is benefited and the other is not is supremely absurd. In point of fact, from a business and financial standpoint, this thoroughfare is of far greater advantage to the city proper than it is to the East End. It needs no argument to show that the effect of it is to draw business away from the East End to the city.

It is, too, worthy of note that the East End is made up principally of working people, or people in humble circumstances. With but few exceptions the owners and operators of the extensive business plants do not reside here. To require the former to bear the great expense of the improvement in question or to compel them to pay the assessments which have been laid upon them is as burdensome as it is unjust.

May we not hope that a sense of justice and fair dealing will prevail in the final settlement of this question.

EAST END CITIZEN.

Fidgety

people are lacking in nervous strength. The weak, care-worn, melancholy, headachy, and low-spirited men and women are easily excited, impatient, fidgety, and unable to sleep at night. Worn-out nerves must be built up, and the vitality of the whole system replenished before relief can come.

"The least bit of noise or sudden jar would nearly drive me crazy, and I was just too fidgety for anything. I was so nervous that I could not rest or sleep. The first dose of Dr. Miles' Nervine brought me sleep, and after that I got well fast."

GOING EAST AGAIN

Few Anthracite Miners Who Came to This Locality to Work Now Remain.

Practically all the miners who came to this section of the country several weeks ago to work in the mines of the Norris Coal company at New Salisbury, have returned to their homes, or else to Pittsburg and the coal districts in the vicinity of Johnstown. There are but three or four of these miners now in this city, and it is predicted that they will remain here only a week or so longer. These miners who are remaining in the city are employed by Contractor Thomas McLaughlin on the grading work for the Cleveland & Pittsburg railroad in the vicinity of Ralston Crossing. Instead of working digging the earth these men are employed in dumping the dirt from the wagons on the river road.

Quite interesting persons these men are and they tell of conditions in the anthracite coal regions that have not been thought of. Among those who came to this part of the country at the solicitation of General Manager Burnside, of the Norris Coal company, many were not satisfied with conditions as they existed at New Salisbury, and after working there a few days left for Pittsburg and this city. One of the miners stated this morning that if they had remained there that they would have to work for at least four months before they could have any money that they could call their own. That was not all, the miner said, and he said that conditions were misreprsented to them before they left the east.

Another miner, an elderly man, is known to people in this city. He has several grown up children working in the local potteries and a daughter came here but a few months ago and secured a good position. This miner said that his wife was coming to East Liverpool, but he expected to return to the mines as soon as the strike was settled. However, the four miners working here now are well satisfied with their lot. They are hard workers, and they would make their homes here for the winter if they could get good positions in any of the local mines.

Six of the miners who were working for Mr. Laughlin left the city Tuesday for Pittsburg, where they secured work. In fact, they were promised employment before they left this city. A better set of workmen never came to this city than the miners now working on this excavation work. They mind their own business and talk very little about the conditions at their eastern homes. One miner said this morning that at his home, where a riot had been reported, there was "nothing doing" in that line at all. A crowd of non-union miners came to the town and a crowd of children gathered about them and commenced to hammer tin cans. The miner said that the next morning the eastern papers said that a riot had been in progress.

New Addition Planned.

It is expected that not less than 25 acres of the McKinnon property on Pennsylvania avenue, on the road between the city proper and the East End will be sold soon, and will be plotted and sold in lots. It is also the intention of the promoters of the scheme to have several sites laid off for factory purposes, there being several deals with this end in view. The company, which has a capital stock of $20,000, has been incorporated and is composed of S. T. Herbert, J. N. Hanley, J. T. Herbert, Willis Davidson and W. C. Supplee. This will add another connecting link between the East End and the city proper.

Cottage Prayer Meetings.

Cottage prayer meetings will be held in the homes of five members of the Second United Presbyterian church tomorrow evening. The East End has been laid out in five districts, and a meeting will be held in each at the following homes: Mr. and Mrs. Archie Searight, Pennsylvania avenue; Thompson Andrews, Sr., Pennsylvania avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ralston and Mrs. Eliza White. It is thought also that a meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mayes. These meetings give promise of being very interesting.

Dragon Boy Moved.

PATH OF OCEAN CABLES.

Submarine Tablelands That Stretch Across the Atlantic.

There seems to be no logical reason why cables cannot be laid across any section of the oceans of the world, no matter how great the depth. Some portions of the Atlantic cables are three miles below the surface, and this is not necessarily the extreme depth, for the cable may and probably does pass from the top of one submarine hill to another without drooping materially into the deep valleys between, says Lippincott's Magazine. The greatest known depth of the sea is 40,036 feet, or 7 3-5 miles, found in the south Atlantic midway between the island of Tristan da Cunha and the mouth of the Rio de la Plata. Soundings have been made to the depth of 27,480 feet in the north Atlantic south of Newfoundland, and about 34,000 feet, or nearly 6½ miles, is reported south of the Bermudas. Even such enormous depths as these need not hinder cable laying so far as the theory is concerned, but in practice, for reasons of economy in maintenance and otherwise, it is found best to take advantage of favoring conditions in the ocean's bed. To illustrate, all of the cables between the United States and Europe run up along our coast until they reach the neighborhood of Newfoundland before starting across to their destination in Ireland or France. The reason for this is found in the range of submarine tablelands, forming an ideal cable bed, which lies between the three latter countries.

PURE SUNLIGHT AND AIR.

Places Here Which Shame the Old World's Favored Climes.

We have often heard of "sunny Italy" or the "clear light" of Egypt, says the Desert; but, believe me, there is no sunlight there compared with that which falls upon the upper peaks of the Sierra Madre or the uninhabitable wastes of the Colorado desert.

Pure sunlight requires for its existence pure air, and the old world has little of it left. When you are in Rome again and stand upon that hill where all good Romanists go at sunset, look out and see how dense is the atmosphere between you and St. Peter's dome. That same thick air is all over Europe, all around the Mediterranean, even over in Mesopotamia and by the banks of the Ganges. It has been breathed and burned and battle smoked for 10,000 years.

Ride up and over the high tablelands of Montana—one can still ride there for days without seeing a trace of humanity—and how clear and scentless, how absolutely intangible, that sky blown, sunshot atmosphere! You breathe it without feeling it, you see through it a hundred miles, and the picture is not blurred by it. Once more ride over the enchanted mesas of Arizona at sunrise or sunset, with the ragged mountains of Mexico to the south of you and the broken spurs of the great Sierra around about you, and all the glory of the old shall be as nothing to the gold and purple and burning crimson of this new world.

To my surprise it removed all pain and soreness and the injured parts were soon healed." For saly by Alvin H. Bulger.

TWELVE PAGES.

W. J. Foley, of East Palestine, Democratic candidate for congress, must be a cheerful sort of a chap. In his letter accepting the nomination he talks of "high position and great responsibilities" as glibly as if both were in sight. The honor of being sent up Salt River in November is not so great that there has been any pronounced scramble for it. Indeed, several Democrats of more or less prominence have shown a conspicuous eagerness to get away from it. But if Mr. Foley is pleased nobody should grumble.

At last a Democratic prophet has arisen who has the courage to tell the truth and speak his convictions. At a Democratic mass meeting in Youngstown the principal speaker admitted that James Kennedy would be elected to congress. There were 100 people present, but enthusiasm was lacking, as at most Ohio Democratic campaign meetings.

One district of England has shipped 100,000 tons of pig iron to the United States in the past nine months. Last year 3,500 tons were shipped in the same period, and two years previous, nothing at all. It is plain that the benefits of American prosperity, although beginning at home, do not end there.

Letting well enoug alone is well enough, but it won't do to neglect campaign work. Ohio should give a magnificient Republican majority this year, and it will if every Republican voter does his duty.

The codes with which the Ohio legislature is wrestling are now reduced to two and will doubtless reach the minimum in time to allow the legislators to go home and vote.

W. H. Truesdale, president of one of the coal roads, has no coal in his cellar and can't buy any where he lives. Poetic justice has'nt gone out of business yet, it seems.

Considering the small amount of worrying that he seems to be doing, Speaker Henderson must have a supply of coal for the winter piled away in the cellar.

General Bragg, of Wisconsin, who while consul general at Havana, wrote indiscreetly and used uncomplimentary language about the Cubans, has been deposed from his job and given another at Hong Kong. There are those who hold that the punishment does not fit the crime.

If Pennsylvania could get a new set of anthracite coal operators it might fare better. Aany change could scarcely be for the worse.

The silence of David B. Hill's platform as regards silver is as eloquent and expressive as a slap in the face of Bryan would have been.

There will be five tickets on the Ohio ballot this fall. The only close contest is who will be last in the race.

Senator Hanna refuses to help Tom Johnson attract crowds to his circus. He is not in the humbug business.

The man who has money to burn is not in it. It is the man who has coal to burn whom people now envy.

This may be the Indian summer, but it is very satisfactory to white men whatever it may be called.

OBITUARY

Mrs. William B. Ross.

Mrs. William B. Ross, aged 83 years, who resided with her daughter, Mrs Thomas Aughinbaugh, on Seventh street, Wellsville, died at noon yesterday of heart failure and old age. Mrs Ross had resided in Wellsville nearly all her life. Her husband, who died several years ago was a prominent business man there. She was a prominent member of the First Presbyterian church. She leaves two children Mrs. Aughinbaugh and Mrs. Rev. James Snowden, of Washington, Pa. The funeral will be held at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon at the house, Rev. L. F. Laverty, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiating. Interment will be in Spring Hill cemetery.

SALVATION ARMY HOME

Solicitors Will Start Out To Raise Funds to Pay For Property Purchased.

The Salvation Army, of East Liverpool, is about to build its own home on Third street. It requires $4,000 to pay for the property, of which sum about one-half is already pledged. It is for the purpose of raising the additional sum necessary that appeals are being made by the trustees and solicitors are at work.

The Army has benefitted many people in this city both by its charitable and its religious work, and confidently looks for hearty encouragement for its project of establishing a permanent home and increasing its sphere of usefulness. Solicitors will start at once to gather money to swell the building fund, and practically everybody in the city will have a chance to contribute.

AT THE THEATER

"When We Were 21," will be seen at the Grand on Monday evening, October 13. It is a pure, clean story, clever in its arrangement, interesting in its conclusions. It is well calculated to receive that attention and approval at the hands of the theater goers that is so justly deserving. One seldom witnesses a more evenly balanced company that the one in charge of the presentation of "When We Were Twenty One."

The Bennett-Moulton company gave another interesting performance at the Grand last evening, the play being "The Daughter of the South." A large audience was present and the play was quite an interesting one. The specialties were clever and pleasing. "The Pay Train" is the bill for this evening.

Brown were elected trustees of the college.

A communication was received from the Federation of Ohio churches, asking that the synod be represented at the next meeting, which is to be held in Columbus December 4. Rev. J. A. Kennedy, J. H. Hutchman and Thomas Balph were appointed delegates to attend the convention.

A motion that a young people's convention be held next year, owing to the fact that there will be no national convention, was lost.

The committee on the Allegheny Theological seminary rendered a favorable report after which the matter of electing a board of directors for the seminary was introduced to the synod. Before the election took place there was, however, a sensational happening. It was caused by Rev. Dr. Littell, of Wheeling, who, being tendered the floor made a speech which evidently did not strike a popular chord among the members of the synod, they by a vote turning down his suggestion and subsequent motion. He told the synod that, inasmuch as Dr. J. C. Taggart, of East Liverpool, Dr. W. H. Vincent, of Detroit, and W. J. W. Cowden, of Wheeling, had been members of the board for a time, he thought the time had come to oust them and elect a new board.

"It is not that I have anything against Dr. Taggart, or Dr. Vincent," said Dr. Littell, "but it is because one member of the board, Cowden, is not fit to be a member. Furthermore, I believe in the resolution adopted in Allegheny last year which advises the synod to make a change in boards, in order that each member of the synod may in time get a perfect understanding of every portion of the church work."

The doctor then made a motion that three men, naming them, be elected. Another member of the synod arose and made a motion that Drs. Taggart and Vincent and Mr. Cowden be elected. The nominations were then closed and the moderator ordered a vote taken.

Dr. Littell immediately jumped to his feet and, upon being recognized by the moderator said:

"Brethren, I think it absolutely wrong to allow the name of Mr. Cowden to come up before the convention. He is a drinking man."

At this juncture the moderator silenced the Wheeling minister by stating that the church and the time were not proper to discuss Cowen's character. Much chagrined, but with an air of content in having thrust his dagger Dr. Littell sat down and allowed the voting to continue. The result of the ballots showed Drs. Taggart and Vincent and Mr. Cowden the choice of the synod. Mr. Cowden is a prominent attorney of Wheeling.

The session of the synod of Ohio, of the United Presbyterian church, yesterday afternoon was one of the most interesting ever attended by the members of the vast army of Christian workers. Rev. J. A. Kennedy, moderator, conducted the session in a manner very commendable and every feature of the program was carried out in a most satisfactory manner.

The attendance of clergymen is large and the synod meetings give promise of being most interesting and profitable.

Detroit Presbytery: W. H. Vincent, First Detroit; L. M. Campbell, Bruce; A. M. Martin, Fair Grove; L. S. Clark, Southfield; M. B. Maxwell, Birmingham; O. A. Kech, Commerce; L. G. Littell, Martin; W. H. M. Peak, Port Huron; Edwin McClintock, Second, Detroit; J. D. Palmer, J. B. Wilson and A. N. McLeod.

Mansfield Presbytery: R. J. McCrea, Avondale; J. L. Caldwell Iberia; W. H. Hubbell, Dalton; F. D. Findlay, Mansfield; J. C. Pinkerton, Ontario; W. J. McClintock, Fredericksburg; W. L. Garges, Savannah; W. A. Littell, Wooster; David Livingston, Utica; J. C. Harby, J. A. Wilson, S. C. Habell, A. McDowell, F. M. Proctor, J. F. Frederick, Canton.

Muskingum Presbytery: I. N. White, Fairview; R. C. Wyatt, Norwich; J. C. Campbell, Northfield; J. A. Kennedy, Second, New Concord; J. S. McMuen, New Salem; J. A. Shrader, Salt Creek; E. E. Cheland, East Union; S. B. Johnston, Caledonia; J. H. Hutchman, Zanesville; William Duncan, New Concord; A. J. Hanna, Jonathan's Creek; R. W. McBride, Clear Fork; S. W. Lonier, Mt. Hermon; L. D. Edgar, First Cambridge; J. G. C. Webster, Bloomfield; G. O. Miller, Second Cambridge; L. E. Kerr, Rush Creek; W. H. McFarland, A. H. Caldwell.

Steubenville Presbytery: J. C. Taggart, East Liverpool; J. G. Madge, Carrollton; L. H. Warring, Steubenville; D. E. McKnight, Mechanicstown; L. L. Gray, Knoxville; W. B. Campbell, Calcutta; W. M. Glasgow, Wellsville; D. J. White, Pine Fork; W. R. Jamison, Scio; W. B. Gillis, Chester; W. H. Clark, New Jefferson; F. E. Dean, Salineville; R. B. Caldwell, Toronto; D. W. McQuiston, Second East Liverpool.

Wheeling Presbytery: W. G. Waddell, Unity; T. Balph, St. Clairsville; W. M. Coleman, West Alexander, W. M. Butler, Cadiz; W. M. Hopping, Uniontown; C. P. Proudfit, Bellaire; A. R. Robinson, Martin's Ferry; Morris Watson, High Ridge; Chas. H. Robinson, First Wheeling; J. H. Littell, Second Wheeling; John Atcheson, Roney's Point; W. O. Fisher, New Athens; W. S. Boice, Thomas Love.

After a business session, Rev. W. G. Waddell, D. D., was introduced and in a logical address interested the audience for an hour on the subject, "Dearth of Power in the Church." He pointed out in many ways why the church has lack of the power which it should have, but confined himself to explaining where it lacks. Rev. W. M. Butler was the next speaker and his subject was the cause of the dearth of power. To the satisfaction of his listeners Dr. Butler spoke at length and told in an able manner of the many causes to which the dearth is attributed. He was followed by Rev. J. C. Pinkerton, who well expressed himself on a remedy for the dearth. His remarks were confined strictly to the subject and were highly entertaining.

"Among the Membership," the subject chosen by Rev. W. J. McClintock, was most interesting. He gave some logical advice to his brother ministers as to what course to follow in bringing the proper results among their congregations and also demonstrated how the congregations can help in the work.

At the conclusion of the address a report from the committee on reform was read by A. R. Robinson, of Martin's Ferry. The report showed the reform work in all lines as being steadily moving forward and its progress unprecederted. The synod accepted the report and passed a flattering resolution for the manner in which it was arranged.

There was a large and attentive audience at the last evening's meeting. C. R. Watson, corresponding secretary of the National Board of Foreign Missions of the United Presbyterian church, whose residence is at Philadelphia, gave a very entertaining report. He told the delegates that the church had made satisfactory progress in the Christianizing of India. There had been 8,000 people brought from the pale of heathenism to light of Christian intelligence.

He also told of the magnificent work that had been done by the church in following up the Soudan. A number of missions have been established along that stream, the United Presbyterians having made commendable progress in pushing into the dark continent of Africa.

The gentlemen presented statistics to show the importance of the missionary movements, and greatly pleased the large audience by the manner in which the subject was presented.

Rev. R. L. Hay, of New Brighton, Pa., was another speaker whose address attracted general attention. He reported for the board of church extension, and gave interesting facts in the number of churches constructed. His report was adopted.

FOUR CASES SETTLED

Minor Suits In Common Pleas Court Disposed Of Without a Hearing.

Lisbon, October 9.—(Special)—Four cases in common pleas court were settled today without a hearing.

The case of Latitia Sheraw against J. S. Faloon, of Hanover township, was settled at the costs of the plaintiff.

The case of Letitia Sheraw against George St. Clair, of Hanoverton, was settled by each party paying his own costs, in addition to which the defendent paid the plaintiff $35. The concerned the rent of a store room.

W. J. Adams' suit against the Dungannon Creamery company was settled, the defendent paying the plaintiff $35 and costs. The suit was over a wage contract.

The cases of Stewart brothers et al. against Wernet & Wilson, in which the plaintiffs claimed that they had not been paid for bailing and hauling a quantity of hay, was dismissed at the plaintiffs' cost.

J. S. Faloon's suit against Henry J. Winter was dismissed, termes of settlement having been practically agreed upon.

ONE OF THE SMART SET

His Pugilistic Proclivities Make Him a Candidate for the Workhouse.

After consuming considerable more booze than he could carry and yet walk a straight line, George Brown, a young man of perhaps 21 years, who dropped into town several days ago from Elizabeth, N. J., created a disturbance in the Diamond last evening which will likely result in his spending time in the workhouse at Canton.

Evidently considering himself the "cock of the walk" he first made himself conspicuous by pouncing upon two local characters, Charley Hoskins and Robert Black, both of whom took pity on the youth and let him off without the usual thrashing administered to the smart set which comes to the city. Hoskins even allowed the fellow to land several blows without interfering.

While in the midst of his sport Brown was arrested by Officer Dawson and landed in the city jail. He was charged with being drunk and disorderly and fighting. The officer also inscribed on the slip, "This young man is of the smart set." He will be given a hearing this evening.

WELLSVILLE

ON TO CAIRO MEETING

Great Preparations for It—Candidate James Kennedy And R. W. Tayler to Speak.

Elaborate arrangements are being perfected by the mayor and other city officials for the big public "On to Cairo" meeting which is to be held next Tuesday evening in the third floor of the city building.

An invitation has been sent to the Republican nominee for congress, James Kennedy, of Youngstown, and an effort is being made to have him present at the meeting. Congressman R. W. Tayler and other prominent men have also been invited. Mr. Tayler has consented to come and will be one of the orators of the evening. An invitation, reading as follows, has been sent by the city clerk to several of the prominent citizens of the town:

"You are hereby requested to attend an 'On to Cairo' meeting at the city hall, Wellsville, October 14, 1902, at 7 o'clock p. m., to make a short address in favor of this improvement. As this is a matter of great interest to all concerned, we think you should attend."

A representative of the Pittsburg Dispatch is expected to be present and deliver an address.

The most important issue of the evening to be discussed will be the locating of dam No. 8. It is claimed that if it is located below the city instead of above, as at first planned, both this city and East Liverpool will be improved, while if it is located at Walker the Crockery City will be the only one to be improved.

SHORTER HOURS WANTED

By the Grocery Clerks of Wellsville. No Agreement Reached.

The regular meeting of the Retail Clerks' union was held last evening in Potters' hall. The existing difficulties between the grocers and the grocery clerks was talked over, but on account of so few being present, no action was taken.

The grocery clerks want shorter hours. Under the present arrangement they start work at 6 a. m. and quit at 6:30 p. m. They hold that these hours are too long and think that the closing hour should be 6 o'clock, thus shortening their day's work one-half hour.

The grocers do not look at the matter in this light, but if the union takes action at their next meeting in favor of the clerks, the grocers will probably submit to the proposition. The next meeting will be held on the 23d of the month.

SET THREE TIMES

Fracture of Clarence McFall's Collar Bone Pronounced a Very Bad One.

Clarence McFall, who had his collar bone broken in a foot ball contest Tuesday afternoon between the Bruno Athletic club and the High School, has since that time had the bone set three different times.

Dr. Holland, who is the attending physician, says it is one of the worst breaks that he has ever had experience with. With the least motion of the left arm the broken bone slips out of place.

The Brunos are now arranging with the High School for another game next week, the proceeds of which are to go to the disabled player.

Missionary Lecture.

A missionary lecture was delivered last evening at the Second Presbyterian church in the West End by Miss Aiken, a lady missionary who belongs to the Steubenville Presbytery Missionary society and who has worked in Siam and other foreign countries. A large crowd was present, no admission being charged. The lecture was very interesting and was enjoyed by all. Miss Aiken very thoroughly explained the manners and customs of the inhabitants of Siam and also told about their religion.

Rat Killing.

A trap of five live rats were turned loose at 9 o'clock this morning on the public square. They were killed by two rat terrier pups in less than three minutes' time. Quite a crowd gathered at the square and witnessed the killing, which was quite interesting.

Street Grading Started.

Work was started this morning by Contractor Rinehart on the grading of Steubenville street, near the intersection of Kelly avenue, in accordance with an action of council a few days ago.

Run Over By a Wagon.

The 2-year-old daughter of Israel Craig, of Nevada street, was run down at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon by a horse and buggy driven by a small boy at the corner of Sixteenth and Main streets. The little girl had been playing and ran into the street directly in front of the horse. When picked up it was found that she had received a serious cut on the forehead and was otherwise shaken up. Four stitches were required to close the gash in her head.

VERY COMPLETE
Is What People Say of Our New Store.

There is one part a great many people do not know the completeness of.

It is our Carpet Department. Do you know that there are only two or three larger departments in the city of Pittsburg than you will find here within sight of your home?

If you are looking for the cheapest things you can buy we don't think that you'll make much money by coming here---you'll find them everywhere.

But if you are looking for "goods of quality," goods which have wear and style to them, goods which will cost but a trifle, if any, more than cheap stuff, and if you want to see not a few samples, but a variety, you'll find it here.

At any rate, come and see the

Mrs. E. C. Baxter went to New Cumberland yesterday afternoon to see her sister, Mrs. Lee O. Smith. She returned last night.

Mrs. Harry Chapman returned here from Mingo Junction yesterday. The family will move their household goods there today.

A Remarkable Petition.

The keeper of the menagerie at Versailles during the reign of Louis XVI. had orders to administer six bottles of burgundy every day to a dromedary which had grown feeble with old age and which the king was very anxious to keep alive. In spite of this ultra generous treatment the animal died, to the great despair of his nurse, who petitioned the king with a view of obtaining the "succession of the dromedary"—that is to say, all the advantages attached to his person.

Odd Ideas.

Some of the Virginia applicants for registration as voters give queer answers to the questions asked them. One negro thought the general assembly was "you three gentlemen sitting there," with a bow to the registrars. Another thought it was "a place in the woods where they went to worship the Lord." A third negro was asked to explain the freedom of the press. "When you get in a crowd, shove as much as you please," he replied.

Women In Command.

In several villages of Finland the woman has authority, for a religious sect exists there whose disciples are forced to marry and to take a vow to submit to the wife in all things. The women choose one of their number for governing head, whose duty it is to see that the men behave themselves and to punish them if they transgress. Similar are the "Purificants" of Liberia, who also recognize the supremacy of women.

Reward of Merit.

Papa—Where did you get that dollar?

Little Son—That's the one you gave me on my birthday.

Papa—My, my! And you haven't spent it? Here's another dollar.

Little Son—Thank you. I hope mamma won't borrow this one, like she did the other. She just paid it back.

Two Signs.

"To snuff a candle out accidentally is a sign of marriage."

"Yes, and to turn down a lamp intentionally is a sign of courtship."

Perhaps the reason a woman doesn't keep a secret is because she's afraid some other woman will tell it first.—Chicago News.

MITCHELL MET QUAY AND PENROSE

Held Conference With Pennsylvania Senators. In New York.

SILENT AS TO WHAT OCCURRED.

The Senators Refused to See Reporters, After the Meeting Was Over. Mitchell Announced Receiving Word That 260 Locals Voted Unanimously to Stay Out—This Left Not More Than 40 or 50 to Hear From. Even Strikers Not Members of the Union Decided to Remain on Strike.

New York, Oct. 9.—President John Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers' association, arrived at the Pennsylvania depot in Jersey City last night, having come on a Lehigh Valley train from Wilkesbarre, Pa. With him were District Presidents Nicholls, Fahy and Duffy. They went immediately to the Ashland house, this city.

At 10 o'clock Mr. Mitchell called up Wilkesbarre by telephone, the reason being that he had expected some telegrams which he did not find awaiting him. Shortly after this he turned to the newspaper men and said:

Men Resolved to Remain Out.

"Information has been conveyed to me by 'phone that a total of 260 local unions have reported unanimous votes against resuming work. The men are not deterred from going to work through any fear of bodily harm, but are resolved to remain out until the differences between them and the operators are arbitrated, or until they are ordered to return by their leaders.

"This leaves not more than 40 or 50 local unions to hear from yet. The unanimous action includes the votes of strikers not members of the union, but who were present at the meetings and voted with the union men."

At 11 o'clock President Mitchell and two of the district presidents went from the Ashland house to the Fifth Avenue hotel, where Senators Quay and Penrose, of Pennsylvania, and Louis N. Hammerling, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., were registered.

Mitchell, Quay and Penrose Confer.

President Mitchell's conference with Senators Quay and Penrose lasted for an hour and three-quarters. At its conclusion Mr. Mitchell returned to the Ashland house. He declined to say a word as to his talk with the senators, and the latter left word with the clerk at the Fifth Avenue hotel that they would not see anyone, instructing the clerk to refuse the cards of any persons who might wish to interview them.

Manufacturers' Committee Issued Notice Coal Men Were Unable to Meet Them.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—The visit to this city of the committee representing the National Association of Manufacturers for the purpose of conferring with the presidents of the anthracite coal carrying roads, who last week met President Roosevelt and the officials of the miners' union at Washington, appears to have been fruitless. The committee arrived here early yesterday morning and spent the greater part of the day at the Manufacturers' club awaiting the appearance of the presidents, but none of the latter answered, in person at least, the request of the committee for a conference. Last night the committee issued the following vague statement:

"The committee of the National Association of Manufacturers came to Philadelphia after meeting John Mitchell and his associates at Buffalo on Tuesday, for the purpose of considering measures by which the coal strike could be ended, and this committee will meet again Oct. 14.

Baer Knew Nothing of Committee.

After the members of the committee had breakfasted they dispatched a messenger to the office of President Baer, of the Reading company, announcing that they were ready to meet the presidents. The nature of Mr. Baer's reply is not known, but in answer to a question the railroad president said: "I know nothing about the committee." He declined to make any further statement.

President Parry said invitations to meet the committee had been sent to all of the presidents who had met President Roosevelt last week and that favorable replies had been received from three of them. He would not, however, divulge their names.

During the afternoon President Parry, in an interview, said: "The strike has reached what we now believe is the crisis. We were in hopes of meeting the operators today, but owing to the short notice they received they were unable to be present."

THIS, IT IS SAID, IS THE LISBON RAILROAD'S DESTINY.

A Line from Minerva to East Liverpool a Part of Contemplated Plans.

The report that the Goulds have purchased the Lisbon road and propose to extend it to East Liverpool has been confirmed in a part at least, says a Cleveland dispatch, and now the movement is taking a new turn. It is said, for instance, that instead of making the connection with the Wheeling & Lake Erie at Steubenville, as was first announced, that a road will be built from Minerva, on one of the spurs of the Wheeling, to East Liverpool, where valuable freight connections will be made. In fact the whole line is to be a freight feeder for the Gould lines and by this connection the Goulds are hoping to get into the iron district of the valleys.

The recently purchased road brings them to New Castle, and other extensions will be built which will give them some of the iron tonnage of that district. It is also possible that a line will be built from Minerva to Navarre to complete the through line to the west. These reports are all in the rumor stage as yet not having received official confirmation of any kind. As reasonable propositions, however, they have a certain credence attached to them.

LETTER CARRIERS' MEET

Election of Officers By Local Association—Coming Social Events.

At the October meeting of the local branch of the National Association of Letter Carriers No. 577, held in its rooms in the Ikirt building, much business was transacted, among which was the election of officers for the ensuing year as follows: Alsinus Swaney, president; W. M. Carey, recording and financial secretary; P. F. McCloskey, vice-president; John W. Suter, sergeant at arms; John W. Sellers, treasurer.

By a unanimous vote of the carriers, Postmaster W. H. Surles was elected an honorary member of the branch.

The local organization has in view many social events for the coming winter, and contemplate giving its initial ball in the early part of the New Year. The boys have placed their orders for winter uniforms, caps and leggins with a firm in Cincinnati and expect to don them November 1.

PUSHING THE WORK

Force Increased on the New C. & P. Bridge at the Flint Mill.

W. M. Ford & Co., Cleveland, contractors for the new C. & P. bridge near the flint mill, are pushing the work as fast as possible. Considerable delay has been caused by the scarcity of men and the failure of the needed material to arrive.

Contractor Ford now has a force of about 50 men at work upon the masonry, but it is doubtful if the work will be finished by the first of January. Thirty-five men arrived from Pittsburg Monday morning and were put to work upon the job.

Gained Thirty Pounds in Thirty Days.

For several months our younger brother had been troubled with indigestion. He tried several remedies but got no benefit from them. We purchased some of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and he commenced taking them. Inside of thirty days he had gained forty pounds in flesh. He is now fully recovered. We have a good trade on the tablets. Holley Bros., Merchants, Long Branch, Mo. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger.

QUICKLY DECIDED TO SETTLE CLAIM

JAIL DOOR CONFRONTING HIM, McBEE CHANGED HIS MIND.

Non-Support Case From the East End Compromised By Mutual Agreement.

Having refused since the third day of July last to contribute to the support of a minor child, Frankie, aged 15 months, when he has had steady employment at good wages and is well able to do so, Jesse McBee, a cooper at an East End pottery, was arrested last evening and taken before 'Squire McCarron.

The affidavit causing his arrest was sworn to by his mother-in-law, Mrs. Sarah J. Wise, who alleged that she had taken care of the child since the date named and had not received one cent from its father. She also alleged that McBee has owed her $15 for necessaries, such as potatoes, meat, etc., for over a year. The latter claim, however, was not considered in the charge as preferred.

When arraigned McBee pleaded not guilty and attempted to show the court that he was innocent. He said that he and his wife and baby had lived at the home of his sister-in-law prior to the time that the baby was taken in charge by Mrs. Wise and that he had paid the board for all of them in full, and even paid $6 to his sister-in-law the week after his wife left, with the understanding that it suffice for the keeping of the child. He also stated that on last Saturday night he paid $1.50 to his wife, expecting her to pay it to Mrs. Wise.

Mrs. Minnie McBee, wife of the defendant, corroborated the testimony given by Mrs. Wise, and inasmuch as McBee acknowledged that he had only paid $7.50 toward the support of the child and that not to Mrs. Wise, the court held that he was guilty of felony and bound him over to common pleas court in the sum of $300.

The seriousness of the charge then became apparent to McBee and he commenced to weaken, especially after the 'squire read the law pertaining to a case of non-support. According to the revised statutes a man convicted of the crime can be sentenced to the penitentiary for three years and be made pay an enormous fine. Before giving Constable Powell orders to commit McBee to the city jail, preparatory to his being sent to the county jail at Lisbon, the 'squire informed the defendant that if he and the plaintiff could compromise the affair the case would be dropped.

McBee was only too willing to settle the matter, and when Mrs. Wise stated that she would be willing to care for the child for $1 per week he agreed to pay that much to the 'squire each week. The costs in the case amounted to $5, and McBee gave an order on the firm for which he works for the amount.

Brain Food Nonsense.

Another ridiculous food fad has been branded by the most competent authorities. They have dispelled the silly notion that one kind of food is needed for brain, another for muscles, and still another for bones. A correct diet will not only nourish a particular part of the body, but it will sustain every other part. Yet, however good your food may be, its nutriment is destroyed by indigestion or dyspepsia. You may prepare for their appearance or prevent their coming by taking regular doses of Green's August Flower, the favorite medicine of the healthy millions. A few doses aids digestion, stimulates the liver to healthy action, purifies the blood, and makes you feel buoyant and vigorous. You can get the reliable remedy at Charles F. Craig's.

Always in the Lead.

The Union Pacific was the first line to introduce Dining cars, Vestibulted cars, steam heat, Pintsch light, Buffet smoking and Library cars, Tourist cars on Trans-Continental trains west of the Missouri river, and contiues to lead. Is first in equipment; first in speed; first in important improvements; first in stupendous engineering enterprises; first in historic interest; first in scenic attractions.

It again leads by introducing an electric lighted train throughout, "The Overland Limited," with Observation cars, barber shops, bath rooms and telephone service.

This famous train makes the run from Omaha to Salt Lake City 12 hours quicker, from San Francisco 16 hours quicker, and from Portland 16 hours quicker than any other train.

MILITIA IN ANTHRACITE REGION.

Whole Pennsylvania Guard Now In Strike Section—Strikers Not Disposed to Annoy Them.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—The entire national guard of Pennsylvania was camped last night in the anthracite coal regions, the last regiment from the western part of the state having arrived late yesterday afternoon.

Contrary to expectations the troops were well received and there was no disposition on the part of the strikers to annoy the soldiers. There was only one instance during the day of any show of feeling, and this was manifest at Bethlehem, when some boys stoned the second section of the train bearing the First regiment from Philadelphia.

Universal quiet reigned throughout the entire region. Brigadier General Schall, who arrived in Tamaqua yesterday afternoon, telegraphed to Major General Miller that there was no disturbance of any kind in the district. The soldiers who arrived yesterday were all scattered throughout Schuylkill, Luzerne, Carbon and Northumberland counties.

Where Troops Are Placed.

The first brigade is quartered as follows:

First regiment and a detail of Battery A, at Hazleton; Second regiment and a detail of Battery A, New Philadelphia; Third regiment, Minersville; Sixth regiment and City Troop, at Tamaqua. The latter organizations will take care of the operations in the Panther Creek valley.

The second brigade is quartered as follows: Tenth regiment, Shamokin; Fourteenth regiment, Mahanoy City; Fifth regiment, Ashland; Eighteenth regiment, Shenandoah.

The fact that all the locals throughout the anthracite region have voted unanimously to continue the strike would indicate that the presence of the troops will have but little effect upon forcing the men to return to work, and from present indications it would seem that the settlement of the strike is no nearer a solution than it has been for many weeks.

ACTION AGAINST COAL RAILWAYS

Philadelphian Wants Anthracite Roads' Combination Declared Illegal.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—Frank H. Thompson, of this city, began proceedings yesterday in the United States circuit court to have the Philadelphia and Reading railway, the Central Railroad of New Jersey, the Lehigh Valley railroad, the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad, the Delaware and Hudson railroad and the New York, Ontario and Western railroad companies declared an illegal combination, because they are engaged in an unlawful restraint of the anthracite coal supply.

Mr. Thompson also requested that the representatives of the companies "be restrained and prohibited from meeting together for the purpose of fixing the rate of coal or market price thereof."

M'KINLEY MEMORIAL TRUSTEES.

To Hold First Annual Meeting, Saturday, Oct. 25.

Cleveland, Oct. 9.—The first annual meeting of the trustees of the McKinley National Memorial association will be held in Canton, on Saturday, Oct. 25. The president of the association, former Secretary of State William R. Day, has issued the call. A full attendance of the trustees is already assured.

The association's first anniversary date is Oct. 10. On that date last year it was formally organized in the office of Senator Hanna, in this city. The annual reports of Treasurer Myron T. Herrick and Secretary Ritchie will be submitted at the coming meeting, together with reports from the auxiliary associations in the several states and territories. These reports will show the collections by divisions and in the aggregate for the country at large. Subjects of interest to the association and its work for the coming year will be discussed. The tomb of the late president will be visited and in all probability the site for the memorial will be chosen.

'TIS TRUE

The Proof Lies In East Liverpool Testimony.

It is not hard to prove the claims made for Doan's Kidney Pills. Scores of people in East Liverpool testify to their merit. Surely the evidence from friends and neighbors, plain statements of their experience, is better proof than the testimony of people residing in some far-away place. Read the following:

Mr. William Torrence, fireman at engine house No. 1 says: "For some time I was annoyed with symptons of either weakened or over-excited kidneys. I had noticed more than one recommendation made byp eople living in East Liverpool about Doan's Kidney Pills, and thinking that if the medicine performed half what it promised it might help me, I bought a box at Larkins' Drug Store. The treatment cured me."

Sold for 50 cents per box by all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

RECOVERY IN PRICES OF STOCKS.

Brought About by Relief From Credit Contraction by the Banks, Tuesday.

New York, Oct. 9.—There was decided relief yesterday from the pressure of the credit contraction by the banks, and the result was a sharp recovery in the prices of stocks. The demand to cover short contracts by the bears was a considerable factor, as the recent heavy declines have made operators on that side of the market bold and quite active. There was some show of enthusiasm in the early buying and considerable gains were established.

The enthusiasm, however, did not last the day out and the bears regained some confidence and ceased their efforts to cover. Some points of strength persisted to the last, notably Union Pacific, but the market generally became somewhat apathetic and closing prices were generally below the best. A stiffening in the money rate late in the day to 15 per cent and a heavy selling movement in Amalgamated Copper helped to unsettle the late dealings.

MAY FINISH WORK TOMORROW

Ohio Legislative Conference Code Committee Worked on Bill Yesterday and Last Night.

Columbus, O., Oct. 9.—The conference committee on the municipal code bill was in session during yesterday afternoon and continued its meeting last night. The section providing for the retention of the present franchise laws, with the unconstitutional features eliminated, was accepted, as was also the curative act, as passed by the senate. This regrants the Cincinnati Traction company its franchise. The senate act, which was accepted by the committee, does not differ from that of the house, except in brevity. The prospects are that the committee will conclude its labors on the code tomorrow.

RIOT IN NEW ORLEANS.

More Than 100 Shots Fired—Incident to Street Car Strike.

New Orleans, Oct. 9.—The attempt yesterday morning of the New Orleans Railways company to start cars on its lines, which have been completely tied up for about 11 days, precipitated a long impending conflict between the strikers and those who attempted to fill their places.

Although 100 shots were fired, nobody was killed. Among those more seriously injured were six policemen, a dozen non-union men and one striker.

Mayor Capdevielle, who requested Governor Heard to order out the militia, was advised that Major General Glynn, in command of the First military district, would report to the mayor this morning. The street railways company announced its determination to run its cars today.

SOME TRI-STATE EVENTS.

Burglars blew open the safe in the ticket office of the Pittsburg and Western station, in Allegheny City, Pa., and got away with between $600 and $800. There is no clew.

The conference between representatives of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers and the American Tin Plate company, at Pittsburg, ended without any wage agreement being completed.

One negro will die and three were badly hurt as a result of a blast in the Wabash tunnel, at Pittsburg, going off prematurely.

Two borough councilmen of Bellevue, near Pittsburg, got into a fist fight and for a time pandemonium reigned in the session of the city fathers.

Thomas J. Stewart, an aged employe of the Allegheny Valley railroad, was killed at Hulton, Pa., by a southbound passenger train.

One Fatally Burned In Beaumont Fire.

Beaumont, Texas, Oct. 9.—Reports received yesterday estimated the loss by Tuesday night's fire in the oil fields from $100,000 to $250,000. Rumors of loss of life have proved untrue, although one man was probably fatally burned while working at the top of a derrick.

Two Negroes Lynched.

New Bern, Tenn., Oct. 6.—Garfield Burley and Curtis Brown, negroes were lynched here last night by a mob of 500 persons. Burley shot and killed D. Flatt, a well-known farmer near Dyersburg, last Saturday. Flatt had traded horses with the negro and later Burley demanded that the trade be declared off. Flatt refused and Burley killed him. Burley named Brown as his accomplice.

Harry Tod Killed by Train.

Youngstown, O., Oct. 9.—An automobile containing Harry Tod, John Cod, Frank Silver and Charles Stitt was run down by an Erie train yesterday. Harry Tod was instantly killed and Charles Stitt received slight injuries. The others escaped injury. Harry Tod was a son of Harry Tod, a prominent capitalist, and a grandson of the late Governor Tod, of Ohio.

Ohio Woman's Suffrage Association.

Cleveland, Oct. 9.—At yesterday's session of the Ohio Woman's Suffrage association the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton, Warren, president; Mrs. Sarah A. Bissell, Toledo, vice president; Dr. Carrie Chase Davis, Sandusky, recording secretary; Edith E. Root, Kinsman, corresponding secretary; Dr. Sarah M Siewers, Cincinnati, treasurer; Mrs Anna M. Hobson, Athens, auditor; Mrs. Frances M. Casement, Painesville, honorary president.

Sleeplessness and indigestion are the result of an impoverished condition of the blood. The system does not receive the proper nutrition from what little food that is forced upon the unwilling stomach, and a weakened condition in general follows. Improper digestive functions also have a depressing effect on the bowels, and quite natural constipation is added to the list, and so on troubles multiply until matters become indeed serious. It's never too late to take Wright's Celery Tea because if a cure is possible this efficient remedy will bring it about. It is a combination of the curative, healing properties of the celery plant and many other highly remedial herbs, which acts on the proper cause and restores perfect health. Pleasant to take. Claimed Killed Wife During Fit.

Traverse City, Mich., Oct. 9.—After being out 22½ hours, a jury yesterday found John A. Hargraves guilty of manslaughter. Hargraves last April choked his invalid wife and beat her to death with a club in a bedroom of their home in this city. The principal defense was that if he had killed the woman it was while he was having a fit, to which he was subject, and he could remember nothing of it.

BEN TRAVATA

Don't Fail to get in with the Train Loads Bound for the New City that's to be built upon Pottery by the greatest China Producing Industries in the World.

Derry, Pa.

46 miles East of Pittsburg, on main line P. R. R.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 11

THE plant of the Derry China Company, now being built, covers 20 acres of ground, networked with tracks from the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad, whose train yards are at this point, making it the congregating center for at least 1,000 railroad men. The first building the Derry China Company will have finished is 500 x 132 feet, and many other buildings will compare favorably in size with this first structure.

There will be five immense potteries to start with and 2,000 people employed. There will also be the Keeling & Ridge Brick and Tile Co.'s big works, which will employ several hundred men and turn out from 75,000 to 125,000 bricks daily besides an enormous amount of fine exterior and interior tile products. There will also be a splendid electric light plant to supply the streets and busines houses, factories and homes with illumination. There will be a number of other industries, as negotiations are in progress between the Derry Land Company and several big corporations who desire to locate in Derry.

You will understand how things are progressing when we tell you 1,000 men are now at work giving the city metropolitan improvements—streets are being sewered, graded, paved, curbed, and provided with sidewalks. Purchasers who may purchase business sites before the improvements have been finished will be guaranteed improvements in the contracts. Street cars will run from Derry to Johnstown, Blairsville, Saltsburg, Indiana, Latrobe, Greensburg, Jeannette and Pittsburg. The line is now being projected. Another thing investors, and especially home-seekers should not forget is that Derry will have the finest water supply in the state, if not in the United States. The great natural lake, fed by mountain springs, contains 178,000, gallons, enough to supply a city of 500,000 population. This is more water than Highland Reservoir No. 2 in Pittsburgh holds, and in addition to it Derry has two large mountain reservoirs. Her water supply is inexhaustable. Not only inexhaustable but pure.

Government Statistics!

YOU get a true conception of what this extensive pottery industry will do for Derry when you stop to look into the facts which built up East Liverpool. Thirty-two potteries there paid out a large volume of wages in one year than any other thirty-two industries in the United States with the same amount of money invested. This truth was incorporated in the United States Goverment Statistics for the year 1901.

Of the 4,109 voters in East Liverpool, which has a population of 21,000, 3,000 are either buying or already they own homes in which they live. But there's a tremendous difference between the opportunity at East Liverpool and the opportunity at Derry. Derry is only at the beginning of her destiny, and on this aecount real estate prices are at a depth which affords investors a chance to come in and get rich. They can buy at ground floor prices impossible in a town that is already built up, and when the works are completed they have made a profit on their lot that would take them ten years to earn, should they buy in a city that has reached its commercial supremacy.

Therefore, the future for the potter, the clay-worker, or investor, is at Derry, where he can purchase property at one-fifth the prices it is selling for at any other pottery center, and he is sure of extra good employment, because the field of labor is not overcrowded. Derry's cry for help will not go out from the throats of the artisans, but from the employers who need artisans. Who can say that such a place is not the ideal spot for a man with a little money to plant a few dollars in and then live within his cherished garden until its fruits make him independent.

When Isaac A. Harvey and Isaae A. Knowles erected the first pottery in East Liverpool, little did they dream that the town wonld grow and create the wealth that is now there. Yet every potter center that has been founded in America since that time has opened the eyes of the world and astonished the British, Austrian, and German nations, who in former years had a monopoly of the American Market.

Big Wages!

AS a rule a potter earns better wages and lives better than any other class of workmen in the United States. His hours of employment are the shortest. He starts to work at 7 A. M. stops for a second breakfast at 9:30 to 10 A. M., goes to dinner at noon, and quits work at 4 P.M. This gives him leisure moments for shopping, out door sports and and society. These leisure hours make hin the greatest liver on earth and as a consequence the greatest shopper. Where there are potteries of magnitude there are always a large number of good stores. This is a point investors and business men, who desire to locate in a new town where they can build up a splendid business, should not overlook. If you get in now you can pick some great store sites on Harvey and Owens Avenues. We are sure that any of these sites can be resold before spring at an advance of $1,000 over present prices. Very choice lots that you can purchase today at $750 will be worth not a dollar less than $3,000 by next June and may go to $4,500 or $5,000.

These statements may seem erratic, but when you look at the pottery town of Sebring, Ohio, which can never have the future that the recently discovered, unequaled natural resources will establish at Derry, you begin to realize that we are printing facts based upon precedent—statements that can be relied upon. If there be an investor who doubts the authenticity of this assertion the Derry Land Company is in a position to make the matter clearer in a personal interview, as there are projects on foot which which would take more space to print than is at our command.

TERMS

Ten per cent. down, balance three per cent. per month, ten per cent. discount for cash when paid within sixty days.

These terms and prices are subject to change on any of the lots remaining unsold after date of the

FREE EXCURSION

as the object of this sale is to get building operations started at once, so that the men who come to work in the Derry China Company's immense new plant will have roofs to cover them. In fact, no such quality of property was ever offered before in a positively locality at the figures that will be the sensation of this occasion.

Some business lots on Harvey and Owens avenues and a few residence lots are commanding a view of the great lake of

will be offered at prices a little higher than $600, but in no case will the prices asked approach the sum that the lots can be resold for after the excitement of the early hours has subsided and investors realize how subsfantial a community is to be established.

Brief Notes of a Personal Nature And of Matters About Town.

Child's Shoulder Broken—Emma, the little daughter of Daniel Woods, of Waterloo street, fell from a merry-go-round where she was playing and broke her shoulder.

To Entertain the Society—Mrs. W. H. Vodrey will entertain the members of the Girl's Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church at her home next Saturday afternoon.

For National Trustee—Among the nominations for national officers of the Daughters of Liberty convention at Cincinnati is that of J. E. Anderson, of this city, for national trustee. He is unopposed.

Camera Club Exhibit—The Camera club has been granted the lecture room of the Carnegie Public library. On November 10 the members will hold an exhibition in this room which will b free to all, and will last a week.

Attending the Fair—Mayor Davidson and quite a number of other local lovers of horse racing left this morning for Steubenville to attend the fair. Several East Liverpool horses are scheduled to race today, and it is predicted that they will come out with a good share of the prize money.

COMES WITH YEARS.

The best trade does not drop down on a store all at once. It comes with years. It comes when the store has proven beyond a doubt its trustworthiness to each best customer. We invite you to allow us the privilege of proving this to you. We want your trade, but all we ask is a chance to demonstrate that we deserve it because of the superior satisfaction that we give to our customers.

consideration of it was postponed until next Tuesday, when it will come up for final action. The house bill making available the next year's salaries of the members and providing for an appropriation to cover the pay due the legislative attaches for services rendered during the special session was passed. Resolutions were adopted as follows: By Archer, authorizing a committee to purchase at a cost of $300 each, portraits of Lieutenant Governors Caldwell and Nippert; by Godfrey, setting apart two rooms in the relic department of the state house for the use of the state library; by Beal, urging congress to reinstate Col. William Welch, of Cadiz, to his former rank in the army. Bills were passed authorizing the trustees of the Boys' Industrial Home to grant paroles and re-hear cases to trial judges; permitting Lake Erie fishermen to catch and market black bass; correcting the lines of a special school district at Sherodsville, Carroll county. The house amendments to the Harrison library bills were concurred in.

Unless the Democrats recede from the position they have taken there will be no police court legislation at this session. The Republicans cannot pass a bill to provide for this without help from the Democrats. Unfortunately all the police court laws have been repealed, and unless the Democrats yield all such judicial districts will be abolished after November 15.

Hon. I. B. Cameron, state treasurer, will deliver an address on the subject, "Public Funds," before the Ohio State Bankers' association, which will meet in annual session at Cincinnati on October 16. A number of distinguished speakers will be present, among whom will be Former Secretary of State Daniel R. Ryan, who is connected with some of the leading business enterprises of the state.

EXCITING BOWLING MATCH

Played Last Evening By the Imperials Against a Picked Team of the City.

An exciting bowling contest was engaged in by the Imperials and a picked team on the Craig-Carnahan alleys last evening. A large crowd of fanciers of the game were present and witnessed the defeat of the picked team. The individual and total scores follow:

Picked team—Hancock, 123, 146, 158; McBride, 153, 141, 141; Shultz, 138, 117, 146; McCord, 165, 160, 107, Firth, 140, 128, 127.

Another contest will likely be played this week. The Wellsville team, which landed the championship of the county last year, is also negotiating for a series with the Imperials. They will probably play some evening next week.

BIG CUT IN PIANO PRICES

The Lane & Brown Business to Close Up In Ten Days. Every Piano And Organ to be Sold Regardless of Cost. Store in Hands of Factory Agent.

The Sale Begins Today And Lasts Ten Days Only. A Rare Chance to Buy a High Grade Piano or Organ At Factory Cost.

The Kimball, Steger, Cable, Royal, Singer, Arion And Other Pianos.

Some time ago I shipped to Lane & Brown, of this city, a beautiful new stock of high grade pianos, and find, owing to Mr. Brown having accepted an engagement elsewhere, it will be either necessary to reship or close out this big stock of pianos and organs. To reship this stock would be expensive, and after looking over the situation carefully, I have decided to offer the entire stock to the citizens of East Liverpool at a price that will insure the sale of every instrument in short order.

The makers of pianos above enumerated will need no introduction. The guarantee on them is solid and perfect satisfaction will be warranted in every instance.

To assure you that I mean business, I shall offer and sell high grade first-class pianos, usually sold from $400 to $600, at $287, $293 and $337.

First-class medium pianos, regularly sold at $300 to $400, at $187 to $226.

A No. 1 upright piano, regularly sold at $200 to $300, at $137.50 and $182.

Splendid six-octave organs, regular price from $75 to $135, will go from 57.50 and downwards.

Navigating the Elbe.

A curious means of moving boats is employed on the river Elbe—a chain 200 miles long at the bottom of the stream, which is too swift to navigate in the usual way. The boats are 180 feet long and provided with 200 horse-power steam engines which turn a drum fastened on the deck. The chain comes in over the bow, passing along on rollers to the drum, around which it is wound three times. The chain is then carried to the stern, where it drops back into the water. The steamers tow five barges containing 1,500 tons.

STRIKERS ARE FIRM.

Anthracite Miners' Lodges Voted to Not Return to Work.

MITCHELL ANSWERS ROOSEVELT

Miners, In Resolutions, Offer to Help Maintain Peace—Praise Roosevelt's Efforts—Denounce Stone's Action. Express Confidence in Mitchell.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 9.—Unless President Mitchell's hurried visit to New York bears fruit, the end of the mine workers' strike seems a long way off and the prospects of sufficient coal being mined to satisfy the public demand is extremely poor. Every local union of the miners' organization through the length and breadth of the hard coal belt held special meetings either Tuesday night or yesterday and resolved to remain on strike until the mine owners granted them some concession.

Mitchell Replied to Roosevelt.

And while the reports of these meetings came pouring in to Wilkesbarre by telegraph, train and messenger, President Mitchell dictated a letter to the president of the United States, in which he gave his answer to the proposition that the strikers return to work and trust to have their condition improved through an investigating commission. What was the answer of the miners' chief he refuses to divulge, but it is difficult to conceive that with the replies of the local unions piled around him how he could do otherwise than respectfully decline the president's proposition. Mr. Mitchell sent his letter to Washington before he had heard from all the locals, and at 3 o'clock in the afternoon he packed his grip and, accompanied by the three district presidents, left for New York.

His Mission a Secret.

His mission there is also a secret, and his sudden departure caused much speculation. As New York is the headquarters of the coal operators a rumor spread that a settlement was in prospective, but as Mr. Mitchell and his colleagues would not say whom they expected to meet, all eyes are for the time being turned toward the metropolis.

It was a busy day for the miners, especially the officials, about headquarters. From early morning until late last night the returns came in constantly. Last evening the corps of newspaper correspondents stationed here were invited to examine the reports, and not one was found that was not couched in firm language.

Contents of Miners' Resolutions.

Briefly stated, the resolutions in these reports affirm the confidence of the men in the integrity and judgment of their president, praise President Roosevelt for his efforts to end the strike, denounce the presidents of the coal carrying railroads for their alleged abuse of the chief executive at the conference in Washington, denounce the employment of the coal and iron police, offer to assist the authorities in maintaining peace, thank all organizations and citizens throughout the country for the financial assistance given, regret the presence of the troops, denounce Governor Stone for sending them here, and some of the resolutions say the men will remain away from the mines all winter, or "until the bluebirds call again." Excepting those from the Hazleton district, which were almost identical in phraseology, the resolutions were different from one another. Nearly every one, however, contained a sentence to the effect that the men are not afraid to return to work because of the alleged lack of protection, but will remain out "though all the troops in the United States were sent here," and until they are granted some concessions.

DEMAND SEIZING OF MINES.

Philadelphia Central Labor Union Committee Tells Gov. Stone That Was Best Strike Remedy.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 9.—Formal demand was made upon Governor Stone yesterday to seize the hard coal mines in this state and operate them in the interest of the people. The governor referred the matter to Attorney General Elkin and it is expected that official will furnish the executive with a written opinion when he returns from Indiana.

The demand was made in the form of resolutions adopted by the Central Labor union of Philadelphia and was presented by a committee from that organization.

The committee told the governor that the best means of a speedy settlement of the strike was to enforce that clause of the constitution which prohibits railroad companies from mining coal.

ORDERED TO MEET GUIDI.

Paya Told to See Him at Manila, Even if He Has to Disappoint Chapelle.

Rome, Oct. 9.—Archbishop Guidi, apostolic delegate in the Philippines, on his own responsibility, has instructed Rev. Santiago Paya, provincial of the Order of Dominicans in the Philippine islands, who is at present in Spain and who intends to shortly proceed from there to Manila, to meet him on his arrival at Manila, even if he has to leave without seeing Archbishop Chapelle, the apostolic delegate to Cuba and Porto Rico, who in a recent communication begged Father Paya to await his approaching arrival in Rome, as he wished to confer with him.

Archbishop Guidi is anxious to confer with the provincials of all the orders, so as to hasten the solution of the questions concerning the friars in the Philippines as much as possible.

BISHOP FITZGERALD.

the first session for the reason that only about half the ministers from the five districts embraced in the Pittsburg conference were present.

A meeting of the conference board of examiners was held in the afternoon, at which candidates for the ministry were listened to.

The conference was informally opened last night by the Rev. D. B. F. Beazell, of the Blairsville conference, who offered up a prayer. Addresses of welcome were made by the Revs. E. R. Donehoo, W. R. Thompson, R. B. Davidson, T. J. Gaehr and by John Weaver. Responses were delivered by the Rev. Bishop J. N. Fitzgerald, of St. Louis, the Revs. H. L. Chapman and J. W. Miles. Captain John A. Wood presided at the meeting.

ALTOONA MERCHANT ACQUITTED

Decision In Conspiracy Case, Caused by Wages Attachment.

Hollidaysburg, Pa., Oct. 9.—John H. Miller, an Altoona merchant, was acquitted in the Blair county court yesterday in a prosecution against him alleging conspiracy with W. W. Rogers, of Wheeling, W. Va., to attach the wages of his debtors in violation of the laws of Pennsylvania. Miller had assigned his store accounts against Pennsylvania railroad workmen to Mr. Rogers, who began attachment proceedings against the railroad in the West Virginia courts.

Sixty other merchants are being prosecuted on similar charges. This is the first trial of this character in the state. Almost 1,000 attachment cases, involving claims for $125,000, have been brought against railroad workmen who reside in this county.

PRESIDENT SAW G.A.R.

Rode In Carriage Along Line of Old Soldiers In the Parade.

VETERANS' STEPS WERE FIRM.

Hardly a Faltering Marcher Seen In Whole Line—Providence Blessed Them With Perfect Weather—Spectators Were Enthusiastic.

Washington, Oct. 9.—The parade of the G. A. R. veterans yesterday was the climax of the thirty-sixth encampment of their order. Beginning at a few minutes past 10 o'clock, when the head of the column moved from its station at the Capitol, it was almost 5 o'clock when the last squad in the line had passed the place of disbandment, west of the White House. None of the soldiers were marching any great part of the time, for the entire line of march did not exceed two and a half miles in length, but those who composed the rear detachments were on their feet practically all day, much of the time being consumed in waiting to take their places in the line. The route of the parade was down historic Pennsylvania avenue, along which many of them marched as raw recruits in going to the war in 1861 and 1862, and many others on the occasion of the grand review after the close of the war in 1865. The participants in the imposing pageant entered with life and vigor into the spirit of the occasion. Each countenance bore evidence of the joy the experience brought to the individual, and it was plainly evident that there was in the occasion much of the restoration of youth for most of them. The "old boys" for the time being evidently were re-living the days of their youth. Not many of them exhibited traces of age in their marching. Almost without exception they walked along with alacrity and kept step with precision.

Providence Gave Perfect Weather.

Providence bestowed upon them perfect weather. The spectators were limited in numbers only by the capacity of the broad sidewalks, the stands, the parks, the windows and the house tops along the line of march to hold them. The government departments and the schools were closed for the day, and practically the entire population of Washington turned out to do honor to the veterans, along with the hundred thousand visitors to the city.

The president of the United States had himself driven up and down the line in a carriage. The unusual interest thus manifested was appreciated by the old soldiers and the president was everywhere received by them with loud applause.

More than five hours' time was consumed by the procession in passing the reviewing stand in front of the White House.

There were at least 25,000 men in line and the estimate of Commander-in-Chief Torrance ran as high as 30,000 men.

Last night the veterans held camp fires in the big tents in the White House lot.

GEN. STEWART IN THE LEAD.

Pennsylvanian May Be G. A. R. Commander—Cities Now After Encampment May Not Get It.

Washington, Oct. 9.—The three active candidates for the honor of entertaining the G. A. R., at the next annual encampment of the G. A. R. are Saratoga, Atlantic City and San Francisco. There seems to be quite a sentiment in favor of choosing some city between the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, and it is said that the encampment may go to neither of the three cities named if a city in the middle west actively pushes its claims.

The leading candidates for commander-in-chief are General Stewart, of Pennsylvania; General John C. Black, of Illinois; Colonel McElroy, of Washington, and General Daniel Sickles, of New York. General Stewart is thought to have the lead at present, though General Black's friends claim about an equal number of delegates pledged. For senior vice commander the race apparently lies between J. M. Smith, of Ohio and H. M. Orahood, of Colorado, with Mr. Shaw, of West Virginia, Assistant Adjutant General Averill, of West Virginia, and Mr. Calkins, of Oregon, contesting for the honor of being junior vice commander-in-chief.

Mitigating Circumstances.

"Are you aware of any mitigating circumstances in your case?" asked a magistrate of a negro convicted of stealing a coat.

"Yes, sah; lots ob 'em. Ef I had time, jedge, I could talk to you for a week on dat subject."

"If you know of any mitigating circumstance, please state it."

"Yes, sah; I'll tell you ob one right now, sah. How easy would it have been for me to bring my family inter disgrace and misery, sah. I jess remained single. I nebber married, sah. Anudder mitigatin' circumstance am"—

"Officer, remove the prisoner."

Their Boss Forbids All Discussion of the Great Question Involved In Ohio's Vote For 21 Members of Congress—Nothing But His Fad to Be Talked About.

What is the matter with the great national questions, that the Ohio Democracy dodge them? Why has their new boss, just out of New York, passed the word along the line that there must be no talk about anything except his taxation theory, that is itself contrary to the constitution and statutes of the state?

Can it be that the party of Bryan and Cleveland and all the intervening shades of opinion, no longer cares to control the next congress? Perhaps the presidency itself and the preparation for the next campaign for that great office now have no attraction for the Tom Johnson Democrats. If so, why are they afraid to talk about the issues involved in the election of members of congress, 21 of them to be chosen in Ohio next month?

The "just taxation" of steam railroads and "home rule" are the only two topics about which Tom Johnson talks, or his accidental parson. Both are only state affairs, and both of these speakers in their campaign keynotes absolutely ignore all great national questions and refuse to touch upon them. The same seems to be enjoined upon the spell-binders of the Democratic party throughout the state, and we are blest with the precious spectacle of a party trying to elect candidates for congress who shall decide upon policies affecting every section of the nation and our relations with the entire world, but yet nothing said by the Ohio Democracy upon any question that will come before congress.

Home rule is a humbug in this case, for by Johnson's own words it has narrowed down to the question whether he shall be mayor of the city of Cleveland with power to do as he pleases without interference to the political machine he is building up and its $700,000 increase in the city's expenses in the past year. Home rule is a nice thing to be talked about in Ohio by a man who claimed New York as his residence less than two years ago. Home rule again is nice and proper when the mayor of Cleveland goes into the other counties of the state and dictates to their local Democracy in regard to their own candidates and tells who they shall support and who shall be bolted.

As to the just taxation of the steam railroads, the utter humbug of that was completely exposed to Johnson's face at his Columbus meeting by his own orator and advocate, "my friend, Mr. Clark," the Cleveland gold Democrat.

CAMPAIGN ETCHINGS.

They Eat Into the Metal of Johnson and His Parson.

Senator Hanna will find the full dinner pail here when he comes, and General Prosperity in charge of the ceremonies.—Iron Register.

When the tariff is revised the work should be done by protectionists, and not by the free traders, who threw the country into a panic a few years ago.

Tom Johnson says he is for Bryan, but not for Bryanism. Thus Tom admits that the Republicans are right on the money question.—Van Wert Bulletin.

Those who witnessed the Tom Johnson display here have come to the conclusion that it was being run simply in the interests of Tom Johnson.—Bowling Green Tribune.

We predict that 25 per cent of the Hancock county Democrats will stay at home on election day next November. They are happy as it is, and willing to let well enough alone.—Findlay Jeffersonian.

In 1890 there was $1,524,844,506 in deposits in the savings banks of the country. Last year the aggregate was $2,597,094,580. There is a prosperity argument which cannot be overcome—Toledo Blade.

While the Republican party is going ahead in all the ways of progress, the Democratic party is forever hanging onto the coattails of the world, crying "Whoa!" with all its might.—General Charles Grosvenor.

The Hon. John R. McLean of Washington and Bar Harbor, according to Tom Johnson, is a "nice man personally," and there is "no objection to him on that score," but he "stands for nothing but boodle in politics." Mr. Johnson's code of ethics seems to wabble a little.—Chicago Tribune.

The Democratic party in this state does not propose a measure by which things are to be improved, and not one of them has a probable betterment in view. The main object is: Place us in power, so that things may be done our way. Very properly the people will consider whether their officials and their way would make things better, and will say to themselves: Better let well enough alone.—Piqua Call.

TWO PERORATIONS.

From Hay's Eulogy on McKinley and Blaine's Eulogy on Garfield.

It is a curious coincidence that on Feb. 27, 1882, and on Feb. 27, 1902, a secretary of state of a murdered president delivered a eulogy of his dead chief before the houses of congress. Mr. Hay, primarily a writer, showed the essayist in his oration on McKinley. Mr. Blaine, primarily a speaker, showed the orator in his oration on Garfield. Here is the peroration of Hay's eulogy of McKinley:

There is not one of us but feels prouder of his native land because the august figure of Washington presided over its beginnings; no one but vows it a tenderer love because Lincoln poured out his blood for it; no one but must feel his devotion for his country renewed and kindled when he remembers how McKinley loved, revered and served it, showed in his life how a citizen should live and in his last hour taught us how a gentleman could die.

Blaine's oration on Garfield ended with this famous passage:

As the end drew near his early craving for the sea returned. The stately mansion of power had been to him the wearisome hospital of pain, and he begged to be taken from his prison walls, from its oppressive, stifling air, from its homelessness and its hopelessness. Gently, silently, the love of a great people bore the pale sufferer to the longed for healing of the sea to live or to die, as God should will, within sight of the heaving billows, within sound of its manifold voices. With a wan, fevered face, tenderly lifted to the cooling breeze, he looked out wistfully upon the ocean's changing wonders, on its far sails, on its restless waves rolling shoreward to break and die beneath the noonday sun; on the red clouds of evening, arching low to the horizon; on the serene and shining pathway of the stars. Let us think that his dying eyes read a mystic meaning which only the rapt and parting soul may know. Let us believe that in the silence of the receding world he heard the great waves breaking on a farther shore and felt already upon his wasted brow the breath of the eternal morning.

THE PARADISE FISH.

One of the Wonderful Piscatorial Rarities Found In China.

The oddest of all piscatorial rarities is the paradise fish of China. Like the German canary and one or two other species of bird and fish, this little finny beauty is the product of cultivation only, there being no place in the world where it is found in a wild state. In the land of the dragon they are kept and cultivated in ornamental aquariums, each succeeding generation of the little oddities exhibiting more diversified colors. The male is the larger of the two sexes, measuring when full grown three and a half inches. The body is shaped very much like that of a common pumpkin seed sunfish, its color surpassing in brilliancy any fish heretofore cultivated for the aquarium. The head of macropodus (that's his generic name) is ashy gray, mottled with irregular dark spots. The gills are azurine blue, bordered with brilliant crimson.

The eyes are yellow and red, with a black pupil. The sides of the body and the crescent shaped caudal fin are deep crimson, the former having from ten to twelve vertical blue stripes, while the latter is bordered with blue. The upper surface of the body is continually changing color—sometimes it is white, at others gray, black or blue. The dorsal and anal fins are remarkably large, hence its generic name—macro, large; podus, fin or foot. Both fins are shaped alike and are striped with brown and bordered with a bright blue. The dull colored ventral fins are protected by a brilliant scarlet colored spine, extending three-fourths of an inch behind the body of the fin. The pectoral fins are well shaped, but transparent and colorless.

Mounting a Horse.

A careful bicyclist learns to mount from either side of the wheel, since the emergency may arise at any moment, says the London Chronicle. One would think that the horseman would be equally careful to provide for possibilities and accustom himself to mounting indifferently from the off side and the near side. But if he were to venture to mount on the right side—which is the wrong side—in a hotel stable yard the hostler would probably demand the price of a gallon as the statutory fine, and the horse would collapse with surprise. What is the meaning of this convention? It appears in odd places. Not only does the trick horse in the circus canter from right to left, but the after dinner wine passes the same way. "The way of the sun" is the current explanation, which is absurd.

Willing to Go Without.

Henry Clews, perfectly bald, was once traveling on a western railroad. Sitting directly behind him was a coarse looking man with a rough shock of hair the color of brick dust.

Tapping Mr. Clews on the shoulder, the fellow remarked:

"Guess you wasn't around when they gave out the hair."

"Oh, yes," was the answer, "but I was a trifle late, and there was nothing left but that stuff you wear, so I told them I'd rather have none."—New York Times.

Pa Elucidates.

"Well, that's it."—Indianapolis News.

NOTE THE CONTRAST.

National Record of Both Parties on the Trusts.

The Law Praised as Effective, Was Formed, Passed, Signed and Executed by Republicans—Democrats Did Nothing, Even When In Full Power, and Still Block the Way.

A verbatim report of the speeches at the Tom Johnson meeting in Columbus would bring out a number of interesting points. Of course it is very easy to recall the dignified and high-toned manner of the hero of the evening when he repeatedly referred to Representative Gear, from Wyandot county, as a dirty blackguard. One scarcely wonders that one of the local Democratic papers in referring to this editorially explains to its readers that its present party leader in Ohio was not in a barroom and was sober. Evidently it fears that the demonstration of gentlemanly conduct on his part might mar his chances with the few people who still think that the dignity of George Washington better befits a presidential aspirant than such rowdy rudeness.

Among the weightier remarks of the evening that ought to be preserved in their identical language was that part of the speech of the gentleman whom Mr. Johnson called "my friend, Mr. Clark," (John H. Clark, the Gold Democrat from Cleveland, known in northeastern Ohio as one of the shrewdest lawyers of that section), in which Mr. Clark very emphatically praised the Sherman anti-trust law as so shrewdly drawn that it had defied the efforts of a number of the greatest lawyers in the country to evade its provisions. He pointed out its efficacy when vigorously enforced, and altogether showed that the statute is one of the strongest laws of the United States upon any subject.

Agreeing at once to all this, it is interesting to add to Mr. Clark's commendation some facts that he might easily have given, for he is a well informed gentleman. To summarize these briefly, we note that this was the outgrowth of official recommendations of a Republican president of the United States, Benjamin Harrison; that it was the first bill introduced in the senate of the Fifty-first congress by the great Republican leader, John Sherman of Ohio; that it was reported for immediate consideration in the House by William McKinley of Ohio; who was certainly Republican enough to satisfy the most exacting. The opposition to action upon it in the house was by the Democrats, through their great leaders all making speeches against it as impracticable and proposing the same old free trade that they are still talking about as their own and only impossible remedy for trade combinations.

July 2, 1890, President Harrison promptly signed this bill, and as expeditiously as its enforcement could be had cases under it were taken to the courts, and in several instances strong combinations were broken up by its use, the United States supreme court sustaining the prosecutions. Under President Harrison a combination of Kentucky coal mine owners and of Nashville, Tenn., coal dealers to control the trade of that city, was effectually enjoined. Under President McKinley, in the case of the United States against the Joint Traffic association, the supreme court broke up that great combination. Similar combinations were thwarted by the courts in the cases against the Addyston Pipe and Steel company and the Chesapeake and Ohio Fuel company. Under President Roosevelt cases have been commenced against the Northern Securities company to prevent that great merger of railroad systems in the Northwest, and against the beef trust, and are now in the courts for a hearing, which will be promptly secured.

Thus, under the three Republican presidents who have had to do with this law since its enactment, each of them has found it effective and has accomplished important results with it, but under the "four years of Grover," President Cleveland and the entire Democratic administration did nothing, and tried to do nothing, succeeding in this last most completely.

Mr. Clark might well have shown this very wide distinction between the two parties in their administration of this law, Republican in its origin and entirely Republican in its enactment, and absolutely Republican in its enforcement, with not a thing done by the Democrats to get it on the statute books, nor to use it after it was got there. That is the record of the two parties.

Third Wage Increase This Year.

The Columbus Railway company will increase the wages of its employes one-half cent an hour, beginning Friday. A notice to this effect was posted some time ago. This is the third increase of a similar amount this year. The men are now receiving within a small fraction of 20 cents an hour, counting the regular dividend, beside uniforms, which amount to about one-half a cent an hour. The increase adds $10,000 to the pay roll, the company claims.—Columbus Dispatch.

Tom Johnson calmly admits that he made his money by taking advantage of alleged bad laws or laws loosely enforced. Mayor Tom may inspire some retired, well fixed, burglar to start out in a crusade in favor of more stringent laws against grand and petit larceny.—Youngstown Telegram.

THE SAUERKRAUT PEDDLER.

A Character Common to the German Section of New York.

The regular and popular visitor to the German inns and taverns of the east side is the sauerkraut man. He brings his calling with him from the old country and finds a more profitable field in New York than in Berlin or Hamburg. His equipment is quite curious. He wears a blue or white apron running from his neck nearly to the ankles, and from his shoulders is suspended a circular metal box which goes half around his waist. It has three large compartments, two of which are surrounded by hot water. In one are well cooked frankfurter sausages and in the other thoroughly boiled sauerkraut. In the third compartment is potato salad. He carries in his hand a basket in which are small plates and steel forks. One sausage and a generous spoonful of sauerkraut and potato salad cost 5 cents. All three articles are of good quality, well cooked and seasoned. He finds his best customers in the bowling alleys, where the exertion demanded by the game produces large appetites. Next to these are the taverns which do not supply food with their drink. Last of all are the halls and meeting rooms where different societies assemble. His nightly stock consists of fifty sausages, seven pounds of sauerkraut and as much more of salad. On bad evenings he takes only half as much stock as on fair ones. Some of the more fortunate peddlers have arrangements with clubs which pay them a very fair profit upon their goods. Others are free lances who visit every place where they think they can effect a sale.

The metal boxes are very ingenious and are made in Germany. The metal is some variety of pewter, and the fitting of the compartments and of the entire affair to the body is very accurate. The covers are so well hinged and snug at the edges that when the owner falls down he is not liable to spill any of the contents. The contrivance costs some $3 in Germany, and about $5 in New York. A few of the peddlers appeal to educated palates and carry with them cervelat, bock, reh, leberwurst and vienna, as well as frankfurters. These fancy sausages usually bring 10 cents instead of the regulation 5.

The forks are washed after the customer has finished his little meal, and from repeated cleansing and use are as bright as silver. The plates, on the other hand, are so banged and bruised that they might be easily mistaken for crackle wear.—New York Post.

The Wrath of the Bee.

At the end of winter most hives have exhausted their stores and become dangerous. When this is the case, woe to him who touches the hives. Smoke has lost its spell, and you shall scarce have emitted the first puffs before 20,000 acrid and enraged demons will dart from within the walls, overwhelm your hands, blind your eyes and blacken your face. No living being except, they say, the bear and the sphinx atropos, can resist the rage of the mailed legions. Above all, do not struggle. The fury would overtake the neighboring colonies. There is no means of safety other than instant flight through the bushes. The bee is less rancorous, less implacable, than the wasp and rarely pursues her enemy. If flight be impossible, absolute immobility alone might calm her or put her off the scent. She fears and attacks any too sudden movement, but at once forgives that which no longer stirs.—Harper's.

A Safe Age.

The insuring of one's life is one of those things which one is most apt to put off. There are few, however, who postpone what ought to be the inevitable until so late a period in life as did the tough old smack owner of Grimsby. When he presented himself at the insurance office, he was naturally asked his age. His reply was, "Ninety-four." "Why, my good man, we cannot insure you," said the company. "Why not?" he demanded. "Why, you are ninety-four years of age." "What of that?" the old man cried. "Look at statistics, and they will tell you that fewer men die at ninety-four than at any other age."—London Business Illustrated.

Their Branch of Service.

"To what branch of the military service do captains of industry belong?" asked the recognized yet surviving joker of the party.

"I give it up," replied his victim wearily.

"To the artillery, because they're all 'big guns.' See? Ha, ha, ho, ho!"—Syracuse Herald.

Cool Trees.

It is not shade alone that makes it cooler under a tree in the summer. The coolness of the tree itself helps, for its temperature is about 45 degrees F. at all times, as that of the human body is a fraction more than 98 degrees. So a clump of trees cools the air as a piece of ice cools the water in a pitcher.

A Cheerful Wait.

A laborer applied to the foreman at some building's workshop for a job: "Can yez do anything fur a poor fella at all in the shape ave work?"

Foreman—Oi hev nothin' the day. Cum back agen. There is a drunken carpenther workin' on the top, and Oi'm waitin' ivery minit till he falls and gits killed.

Certainly a Clever Lawyer.

The trusting shoemaker is apt to get beaten out of his boots—Philadelphia Record.

BIZET AND HALEVY.

The Story of the Origin of a Popular Air In "Carmen."

Bizet, the composer of the world famous opera "Carmen," and Halevy, his librettist, once occupied apartments whose outer doors opened on the same landing. As soon as he had finished an air Bizet would hasten to submit it to his neighbor, who subjected it to the most severe criticism. From morning to night the piano resounded in the composer's apartments. One night Bizet finished a dramatic bit in which he flattered himself he had successfully sketched the pride of a triumphant toreador after a successful bullfight. But Halevy listened in silence and showed but a moderate enthusiasm. Bizet, somewhat piqued, asked the cause of this coldness.

"It's good, I admit," said Halevy. "In fact, it's too good. It lacks movement—it lacks snap—in short, it's not popular enough."

"Not popular enough!" shouted the piqued composer. "Do you want to write for the slums?" He went out in a huff, but soon relented and in an hour returned with another air. "Listen to this," said he; "here is my toreador idea written down to your popular level." It was indeed the song of the toreador, and the only one which on the first night received an encore and seemed to move the first night audience from its torpor.—Chicago News.

He Saw Them.

"Yes," replied Spifkins sadly; "I played cards with a couple."

SILENCE!

The instinct of modesty natural to every woman is often a great hindrance to the cure of womanly diseases. Women shrink from the personal questions of the local physician which seem indelicate. The thought of examination is abhorrent to them, and so they endure in silence a condition of disease which surely progresses from bad to worse.

It has been Dr. Pierce's privilege to cure a great many women who have found a refuge for modesty in his offer of free consultation by letter. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Doctor R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Your kind advice for home treatment helped me wonderfully. Thanks to Dr. Pierce."

ALL HE SAID FALSE.

So a Democrat Declared About Tom Johnson.

And That, Too, Was His Own Chosen Orator From His Own City and on His Own Fad of Steam Railroad Taxation.

Wrong by 20 per cent. in his statement of the tax valuation of the Nickle Plate railroad in Indiana, exaggerating it by that much; wrong again by 75 per cent. in his statement of the tax valuation of the same road in Ohio, understating it by that amount; completely and absolutely wrong in his suppression of any statement of the vital fact of the entire dispute, that the Nickle Plate road pays as many dollars of taxes per mile in Ohio as in Indiana, was Tom Johnson's record at the Democratic mass meeting held for him at Columbus the other night.

The mask was torn from him and he was openly convicted of these falsehoods by the Democratic orator who had been brought down from his own city of Cleveland especially to speak until Johnson could arrive and be ready to address the meeting. John H. Clark, who was a gold Democrat in 1896 when Johnson was opposed to Bryan's free silverism, had made his speech, had called upon the faithful to support the Johnson candidates, and was listening quietly when Johnson used the Nickel Plate road "of my friend Mr. Clark" as an illustration of his entire argument of just taxation of steam railroads.

Mr. Clark, as attorney for that corporation, was completely informed upon the subject and arose and stated that Mr. Johnson did not know what he was talking about. He said that the New York, Chicago & St. Louis road is assessed in Ohio at $22,000 per mile instead of $13,000, as quoted by Johnson; that it is assessed in Indiana at $30,000 per mile instead of $36,000 per mile, as quoted by Johnson; and that it pays as many dollars a mile taxes in Ohio as it does in Indiana.

With Johnson thus convicted openly by one of his own supporters of as many misrepresentations as he made statements in the case of this railroad, what may we fairly presume to be the size of the mistatements in which he has indulged where he had no "friend" at hand to correct him? May we not reasonably judge that this is only a sample, and probably a mild one, of the entire falsehood of his whole crusade upon this subject? If he has deceived the people in this thing what is there of truth that they can depend upon from him in regard to any matter?

"LET WELL ENOUGH ALONE."

In '94 when Cleveland signed the Wilson bill—a blight
Fell on our happy nation and depression dark as night
Drove labor and prosperity and money out of sight
And the danger of Democracy was known.

But in November '96, these hard times passed away,
For Democracy defeated, turned the darkness into day,
And labor, cash and confidence returned without delay,
And the wisdom of Republicans was shown.

Since '96 we've prospered as we never have before,
With work for all and labor high and happiness in store;
And to have these times continue and to prosper more and more,
We'll just "Let Well Enough Alone."

For six bright years the times have grown still better day by day,
And even tramps and Democratic growls have passed away,
And all Republicans who wish prosperity to stay
Will "Keep On Letting Well Enough Alone."

This year our usual victory we're very sure to score,
Next year we'll work for Hanna, and for Roo-se-velt in '4,
Then Foraker in '5 and so we'll prosper more and more;
And "We'll Keep On Letting Well Enough Alone."

Unsought, far distant lands have been committed to our care;
And where our Flag is human rights and Liberty are there;
As we "Keep On Letting Well Enough Alone."

Queer Logic.

In his Lima speech Tom L. Johnson admitted that he had been a monopolist all his life, but said that because he had taken advantage of the law in force was no reason monopoly was good for the people. In other words Johnson freely confesses monopoly is a good thing for Johnson, but not good for other people. Such logic should secure his ticket votes to the number of 0000 with all thinking people.—Youngstown Telegram.

Republicans who are not registered in the city precinct in which they live should bear it in mind and get their names on the books at the earliest opportunity.

IT MADE LEMAITRE SIGH.

A Gesture and an Accent That He Could Not Reproduce.

The Figaro relates the following anecdote about Frederic Lemaitre: "He had acted with marvelous success in a play by D'Ennery and Marc Fournier when one evening after the second or third performance he was suddenly addressed by a stranger, 'How much will you take to be ill tomorrow, the day after tomorrow and for a month?'

"Lemaitre dragged the unknown under a street lantern and looked at him. He was a well known writer. 'It is you!' said the actor. 'Why do you wish me to be ill?'

"The other hesitated slightly as he explained his strange proposition. He was inspired by an insane hatred toward Marc Fournier and had sworn to avenge himself on his enemy by all conceivable means. 'Help me to wreck his drama,' he concluded, 'and I will make you rich. I have the means to do it. You earn a great deal. I will give you ten times as much for six months longer than your piece will last. Will you agree?'

"Lemaitre had quickly recovered himself. He seized the man by the collar, shook him hard for a minute and then, with a vigorous kick, thrust him away, crying: 'How much will I take? Thirty pieces of silver, Judas!'

"An old actor who told the story added, 'How often has Frederic Lemaitre sighed in my presence when he recalled the episode, "Alas, I shall never be able to reproduce the gesture and the accent of that moment!" '"

Do Not Sleep on Your Left Side.

When a patient complains of a bad taste in his mouth every morning on waking up, says a physician, the first question I ask him is as to the position he assumes when going to sleep. An immense number of people sleep on the left side, and this is the most common cause of the unpleasant taste which is generally attributed to dyspepsia. If a meal has been taken within two or three hours of going to bed, to sleep on the left side is to give the stomach a task which it is difficult in the extreme to perform. The student of anatomy knows that all food enters and leaves the stomach on the right side, and hence sleeping on the left side soon after eating involves a sort of pumping operation which is anything but conducive to sound repose.

The action of the heart is also interfered with considerably, and the lungs are unduly compressed. It is probable that lying on the back is the most natural position, but few men can rest easily so, and hence it is best to cultivate the habit of sleeping on the right side. It is very largely a matter of habit, and the sooner it is acquired the better for the sleeper and the worse for the physician.

The Bucket Shop.

The name bucket shop is said to have originated in Chicago when legitimate brokers would not handle an order for less than 5,000 bushels, and a lot of places sprang up where men of small means could speculate on a trifling capital, as small as a dollar, and these speculators were spoken of contemptuously as buying and selling wheat by the bucket full. The term was eventually applied to all brokerage in stocks and grain when the amounts dealt in were smaller than legitimate dealers or brokers would handle and more particularly to places where there were really no legitimate transactions, but where the proprietor and customer simply bet on the market, the proprietor allowing the customer to take either end of the bet in consideration of a commission, which in reality is his percentage in the game.

Men and Salutes.

A recent writer says: "The Chinaman bends to the very ground when he salutes; the Russian, farther west, takes off his hat and scrapes with it his very path; in Prussian Konigsberg, always farther west, the passersby salute each other by taking off their hats or caps very low; in Berlin the head covering is raised but little; in Paris still less, in London not at all or with a difference. The American keeps his hat on immovably and never bends, but all civilized nations, of course, take off their hats to the ladies."

A Heathen's Idea.

A Chinaman who acted as secretary to a former Chinese minister to England has published a book in which he says:

"There is nothing which an American won't say, there is nothing which an Englishman won't eat, there is nothing an Italian won't sing, there is no measure to which a Frenchman won't dance, and there is nothing Russians won't covet."

Wouldn't Lose That Pleasure.

"So you never talk about people behind their backs?"

"No," answered the woman, with a grim expression. "If I know anything which would annoy a friend, I always tell it in her presence. I wouldn't miss seeing her embarrassment for anything."—Washington Star.

A Synonym.

"What is a synonym?" asked a teacher.

"Please, sir," said a lad, "it's a word you can use in place of another if you don't know how to spell the other one."

Much In a Name.

Both Were Shocked.

Little Elsie was a faithful attendant at Sunday school and had listened earnestly when plans for a coming Christian Endeavor convention were discussed, her interest increasing to enthusiasm over the mysterious affair when she learned that her auntie was to attend as a delegate.

Coming into the library one day, auntie saw the little maid busily engaged in writing a letter to a cousin with whom she kept up a juvenile correspondence. She scrawled industriously for a moment; then stopped. There was a puzzled expression on her fat, ink stained face as she dangled her short legs and wriggled uncomfortably on her high perch.

"Auntie," she said, "how do you spell 'devil?'"

"Oh, Elsie," said her auntie, "I am shocked! Why are you using such a word as that in your letter? Nice little girls never say such things."

It was Elsie's turn to be shocked.

"Why, auntie," she cried, "I'm only telling her about the Christian and devil convention!"—Harper's Magazine.

What Adam Was Doing.

It was midnight. Suddenly in the Adam residence there was a cry, then a series of howls, and one of the neighbors, passing by, heard the head of the house use language that was calculated to loose the thunderbolts of heaven on the whole neighborhood. She stopped, ran up to the door and, pressing the button, listened eagerly at the speaking tube. "What in the world is your husband doing?" she asked as the dulcet voice of Eve inquired her errand.

"Oh," replied Eve, "he is merely raising Cain. It requires strong language to raise a child like that."

And thus an expression was coined which promises to outlast history itself.—Portland Oregonian.

Little Creatures About Our Homes

By LE ROY WELD

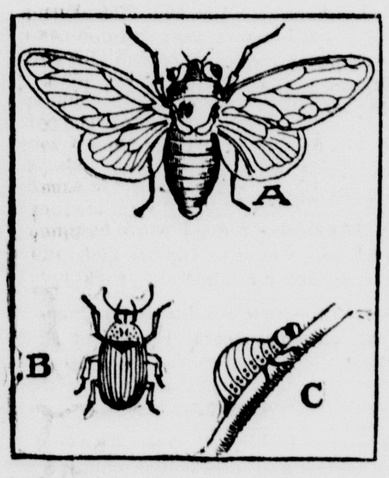

V.—A Few Bugs and Beetles.

IF a naturalist were to add a thousand new species of beetles to his collection every year, he would have to live far beyond threescore and ten years before his collection could be complete, even though he were to begin as soon as he reached the years of manhood. The exact number of species is not known, as many have not yet been classified, but it is about 100,000. The number of species of bugs is much smaller.

Bugs differ from beetles in several important particulars. Beetles have one or more sets of strong jaws for biting and masticating their food, while bugs have these mouth parts converted into a sucker for piercing and sucking up the juices of the plants or animals on which they feed. In beetles the metamorphosis is complete, while in bugs the darva and the adult insect are very much alike. In some cases the only difference is in the addition of wings, and some have no wings at any time of life. Beetles use only the hind pair of wings in flight, while bugs use all four wings. The front wings of beetles are used merely to balance the body in flight and are folded over the hind pair to protect them when at rest. In some species of each of these orders only the males have wings, while the females are wingless. The front wings of beetles are horny throughout their whole length. In bugs the fore part is horn and the remainder membranous. Some of the bugs have no hard part to any of their wings, and all are used in flying.

Many of the beetles are called bugs. The common potato bug is probably one of the best known beetles. It is the Colorado beetle, so destructive to the potato plant. This pest was hardly known until about forty years ago. It is a native of the Rocky mountain region, and up to the time of the introduction of the potato into Colorado it fed upon a species of wild potato called the sand bur, but since that time it has spread over the whole country in such numbers as to be one of the worst of the insect scourges.

The mother beetle lays from 500 to 1,000 eggs in a season. These she deposits, eight or ten in a place, on the under side of a leaf—the potato leaf, of course, for the females instinctively place their eggs where the young will find plenty of the food upon which they thrive best. Insects sometimes make mistakes in this particular. For example, flies sometimes lay eggs on the carrion plant because it has the odor of putrid meat. The eggs of the Colorado beetle hatch in six or seven days, and the larvæ at once begin to eat and keep on eating for about two weeks. They then crawl down to the ground and bury themselves for eight or ten days, during which time they pass through the pupa stage of existence. Later they come forth to continue their work of destruction in not only devouring the potato plant, but by laying more eggs for another brood. These insects hibernate, or lie dormant, during the winter and come forth the following year. They consequently increase with great rapidity. Their ravages are checked by spraying the potato plants with a diluted solution of some of the arsenic compounds.

The tumblebug is a common beetle which, the better to protect them, deposits its eggs in a ball composed of earth and dung. In rolling this ball to the hole where it is to be buried the female goes ahead and pulls and the male pushes. Their fore legs are differently made for this purpose. When the ball is buried, the female is buried with it. She eats her way to the center of the ball and there deposits her eggs. These hatch into young grubs, which feed upon the organic matter of the ball for a time.

The beautiful little ladybug, sometimes called the ladybird, is also a beetle and is very useful to man, as its larvæ live almost entirely on plant lice, scale insects and the eggs and larvæ of other insect pests. These little globular beetles, red or yellow, with black spots, should not be destroyed, as they sometimes are, under the impression that they injure the plants upon which they are found, for, on the contrary, they are there to lay their eggs where the grubs can feed on the plant lice. These larvæ use their fore legs to carry their prey to their mouths. Watching this process through a magnifier makes one feel as though he were in some tropical jungle where much larger animals of strange form were preying upon the weaker denizens of the forest.

The firefly is a very interesting beetle, of which there are several species. The female of one species has no wings, which fact probably gave rise to the name glowworm, as during the night-time she emits a bright green light to attract her mate. She has the power to make this natural torch shine or disappear at her will. The male and female of some species of fireflies differ so much in form that at one time they were thought to belong to different species. Of the fireflies of the northern part of the United States both the male and the female have wings, and both emit light, though that of the female is the brighter and of a slightly different color. In tropical America and the West Indies the firefly seems to have reached its maximum development. Eight or ten "cucuyos," as they are called by the Creoles, placed in a glass bulb will furnish enough light to read by very comfortably. The Creole women make use of them as ornaments when attending a soiree. They keep them in little wire cages and feed them on sugar cane.

Strange as it may seem, one of the beetles spends the first, or larval, stage of his life and also the imago, or perfect, stage in the water. It is called the water beetle. The pupa stage only is passed in the ground. The larvæ are carnivorous creatures and feed on insects and snails, and when hard pressed for food they will prey upon one another. This beetle is about one and a half inches long and has smooth, black, shining elytra, or fore wings. It breathes air, for which it frequently rises to the surface of the water. Like other beetles, it has no lungs, but the air circulates all over the body, even through the delicate wings, in tubes called tracheæ. These tubes are kept from collapsing by closely wound spiral fibers which form the middle layer of the walls. Beetles do not take in the air through the mouth, but through little openings along the sides of the thorax and abdomen. The veins in the wings are double tubes. The inside tube is an air tube, and the space between the two is filled with blood, and the blood is aerated there. Among the more interesting beetles are the Goliath beetles of Africa, some of which are over 5 inches long and 2 inches broad, and the little blistering beetles used by physicians to produce blisters. These are so small that it requires about 6,000 of them to weigh a pound. As they formerly came from Spain, they are commonly called Spanish flies.

The name bug means filthy and was first applied to the bedbug; but, in spite of that, there are some very interesting bugs. There are also some very destructive ones. The aphis is one of the most remarkable, one of the most interesting and at the same time one of the most destructive bugs. There are many species of plant lice. Their fecundity is extraordinary. Professor Owen, a most excellent authority, says that a single female of one species of aphis may have a progeny of a quintillion individuals in a single season. This seems improbable, but Latreille, another good authority, tells us that one female during the summer months will produce twenty-five offspring daily, all of which are females, and that these in turn do the same for seven, nine or eleven generations, according to the species. The last generation, however, is about half males and half females. The females lay the eggs, which are hatched the next spring and which produce viviparous females having the power of spontaneous reproduction for several generations. All these little creatures have compound eyes fully developed as in other insects. The wings when developed are four in number. The sucking beak springs from the under side of the head, and with this soon after birth the insect pierces the plant on which it finds itself, begins sucking its juices and keeps on sucking during nearly all the remainder of its life. Most species of aphides have on the upper part of the abdomen two little tubular processes, from which the insect ejects a sweet, sirupy fluid of which ants are very fond and which is commonly called honeydew. The rose bug is probably the best known species of aphis. Tobacco is the poison which has been most successfully used in destroying this insect. House plants may have a paper sack drawn over them, and tobacco smoke freely blown into these sacks will kill every insect.

The chinch bug is one of the worst pests the farmer has to contend against. It is said that in one year, 1864, the damage done by this little insect in the single state of Illinois amounted to nearly $75,000,000. The name of this species is devastator. The chinch bug is not longer than a grain of wheat, but the damage done by it to the wheat and corn crops is enormous. The eggs are laid in the ground, and the chinch bugs come forth to attack the wheat about the middle of June. No practical means for their extermination has yet been devised.

The bedbug and louse, two wingless species of hemiptera, or bugs, are too well known to need any description here. They are both fond of human blood, and they will probe the skin and suck away as vigorously as an aphis on a rosebud. The best preventive against them is perfect cleanliness, for they are fond of filthy places. If bedbugs do get into a bedstead, as they sometimes will despite our precautions, a free use of gasoline will usually destroy them. Corrosive sublimate will also kill them, but it is a virulent poison and should be used with great care.

The cochineal insect is a bug which feeds on the cotton plant and yields a beautiful red dye. The females are only used for this purpose. The dried bodies of 70,000 of these insects weigh only a pound.

The Wonderful Starfish.

There are scores upon scores of different forms of marine animal life that come within the category assigned to starfishes, but the most singular specimen in the whole group is the splendid astrophyton—the "sea basket" of the sailors. It is truly a wonderful specimen of marine life, having hundreds of long and short, straight, twisted and curled tentacles, and but for the geometric precision of the plan upon which the starlike "body" is fashioned might be mistaken for a miniature, circular specimen of the devilfish. The center of the creature, the "hub," from which the five stout arms radiate, is the body, head and "thinking machine" of our curious astrophyton.

The whole, not including the labyrinthine tentacles, which branch to all the points and intermediate points of the compass, looks for all the world like an animated Fourth of July firewheel. The five main arms are divided into three each within a short space from the astro's body, and these three are almost immediately subdivided into innumerable other arms and tentacles, the whole forming a net by means of which it captures its prey and holds its victims until the life has been sucked out of them.

Saws That Cut Each Other.

A proverb has been defined as "the wisdom of the many and the wit of one;" but, clever as this definition is, it is scarcely borne out by a comparison of the most familiar of our proverbs. The following are some of the most striking: "Penny wise and pound foolish" is the exact opposite of "Take care of the pence and the pounds will take care of themselves;" so "Birds of a feather flock together" and "Two of a trade never agree." "Absence makes the heart grow fonder" and "Out of sight, out of mind," are just as contradictory as "Many hands make light work" and "Too many cooks spoil the broth." So, too, "Delays are dangerous" is the flat opposite of "Second thoughts are best," while the philosopher who invented the axiom "The early bird catches the worm" had apparently never heard of King Alfonso's world renowned saying that "All things come to him who waits." On this particular subject the opinion of the worm and the bird might be worth having.

Surprised His Wife.

A story is told of a Pennsylvania farmer who wore his old suit until every one was tired of it, and his estimable wife was almost ashamed of the hustling man who had been inside it so long. But one day he went to town to sell his produce, and while there he determined to buy a new suit and, happy thought, surprise Eliza. So he bundled a neat suit into the wagon and drove homeward.

It was after night as he hurried homeward, and at a bridge over a river he stood up on the wagon and "peeled" and threw the despised old suit in the water. Then he reached for his new clothes. They were gone—had jolted out of the wagon. The night was cold and his teeth chattered as he hurried home. He surprised Eliza even more than he anticipated.

Worth Trying Again.

The impecunious author passed over the manuscript with a faltering hand. The aged but truthful editor started.

"Er—Mr. Wrightly," he said, with the air of a man who has just become saddled with a great thought, "did you ever hear that Walter Scott received the suggestion of his first successful novel while he was washing his hands?"

"I—I believe I read of it," stammered the impecunious author, slipping his hands into his pockets. A faraway look came into the face of the aged but truthful editor.

"I was merely throwing out the suggestion," he said softly.

It is true that "Blood Wine" is a wonderful medicine. Wonderful, because of its great breadth of cures. "Blood Wine," soon to be America's most widely known and popular medicine, kills the germs of disease that are in the blood. All diseases that have their origin in the blood or that are spread by germs, come under the curative powers of this great French discovery. "Blood Wine" is the medicine for you to get today; take it now, before the diseases of winter weather are upon you; before you are in the grasp of rheumatism, grip, lung trouble, kidney disorder and many other diseases so common to the American people. "Blood Wine" cures

READ LIKE MIRACLES

Mrs. Irving Mack, of Cambridge, Mass., says:

"I had the grip, and it left me a perfect wreck. My appetite was all gone, my nerves were all unstrung. I was wasted to a skeleton. Everybody said to me, 'You look like a ghost.' I couldn't sleep. I struggled against my sufferings, despite their growing intensity, but I failed completely, and I made up my mind that unless I soon received help I must die. The medicines I took seemed to do me no good, and I was truly a pitiable object. I was white as a sheet and so weak I could hardly walk along the street without staggering. My friends were constantly telling me that I had consumption or some mysterious incurable disease. At length, through the blessing of Divine Providence, I heard of the discovery of a medicine which would do wonderful things. This medicine was 'Blood Wine.' I sent for some of it and began to take it, and the result was simply marvelous. As true as I live, that medicine alone entirely cured me and made me a well woman. Lots of my neighbors who know all about it will stand by me in everything I have said. My health now is excellent and I do my work with a light heart and a strong body."

CURES RHEUMATISM

Because it removes the poisons from the blood. It abstracts the acids; dissolves the crusts about the joints and stops the pain. Read the following from Mr. F. S. Talmadge of 78 Woodside St., Springfield, Mass.

"My son Elton had suffered for a long time with an aggravated case of rheumatism, which caused him most intense pain, and which daily grew worse in spite of careful medical treatment.

"Many remedies were suggested, and were given a careful trial, but without good result. A friend recommended 'Blood Wine,' and although our experience with other preparations had been such as to cause us to doubt whether it would benefit him or not, we were delighted to find that, after Elton had taken two bottles he showed signs of improvement; and now, after having taken several bottles more, he is well and strong again. I cannot say too much in favor of 'Blood Wine,' and heartily recommend it to all suffering from rheumatism."

CURED OF CONSUMPTION

"Last winter I caught a cold which settled on my lungs, and for weeks I was unable to get out of the house. As spring drew near, the cold wore off, but left me with a rasping cough, which caused me the greatest alarm. Nothing seemed to stop it; physicians told me that I had developed consumption, and that they could do little for me, except to make my life easier unless I should go to another climate. I was very weak, my skin feverish and my appetite absolutely gone. A friend advised me to try 'Blood Wine,' and from the very first it helped me. My strength came back slowly but surely. I began to enjoy my food. Life became worth living, and today I am absolutely well."

WAS ALMOST DEAD WITH KIDNEY TROUBLE

He also had liver complaint and was a total wreck. This was the condition of J. R. Sickles of Tiffin, Ohio, when he ran across "Blood Wine." He says:

"I have been a sufferer from general debility, liver and kidney complaint, chills and fever, headache and lameness of the joints, cold hands and feet. I was a physical wreck; had been treated by some of as good doctors as could be found, and taken nearly all kinds of patent medicines, but it all availed nothing. I have spent hundreds of dollars trying to find a cure. This is a case of twenty years' standing. I got so far gone that I could not work more than six or eight hours per day, when I would become perfectly exhausted. I was recommended by Messrs. Clyne & Laney to try 'Blood Wine,' which I am glad to state has proved very satisfactory. I have gained strength, health, vigor, and am able to carry on my daily labor with the greatest ease. I would say that if this should reach the eyes of any sufferers from such complaints they should try 'Blood Wine,' which is a safe and a sure cure, full of toning value, without danger of disturbing the action of the heart or stomach."

FREE BLOOD TEST.

You can have an expert bacteriologist examine your blood under the microscope, and give you a thorough and authentic report of what your blood contains, free of charge, by sending your name to the Louis Daudelin Co., Worcester, Mass. Don't neglect this opportunity. It was never offered to the public before. Remember that the blood reveals all. "Blood Wine" costs fifty cents a bottle.

The Sun Myths.

It was in Bayard Taylor's day that the sun myth had its vogue. One night at a party Taylor was greatly bored by the persistent efforts of a guest to discuss sun myths. No matter what direction the conversation might take, this person would ruthlessly drag it back again to his favorite topic.

At last the distressed poet raised a very interesting question in regard to the threadbare subject. "Did you ever think," he asked, "that the name Smith, so common all over the world, is derived from sun myth?" No one had ever dreamed of such thing. Max Muller had overlooked the point completely.

"Quite possible; certainly most plausible," said Taylor. "Sun myth, Sumyth, Smyth, Smith, and some still spell the name with a y." The discussion was ended.

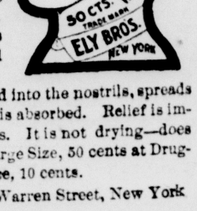

No Cause For Alarm.

Rev. Mr. Brown, a man of less than medium stature, possessed a high, squeaky voice. Not long ago he was invited to exchange pulpits with a minister in a neighboring city. The church in which he was to preach was much more imposing than the home chapel, says Lippincott's Magazine. Arriving early, he peered from behind the pulpit and watched what he considered an immense congregation with trepidation.

As the last notes of the organ voluntary died away his little head popped up from behind the desk, and without a word of warning he piped out, "It is I; be not afraid."

19TH YEAR. NO. 239. EAST LIVERPOOL, O., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1902—TWELVE PAGES. TWO CENTS.

M'INTOSH AND MAYES ARE BOTH INDICTED BY THE GRAND JURY

Grim's Bridge Fight Among the Many Things to Receive the Attention of Court at Lisbon.

Lisbon, October 9.—(Special)—The grand jury returned the following additional indictments yesterday afternoon:

Henry Miller, Wellsville, burglary and larceny.

George Mayes, East Liverpool, shooting at Frank Crawford with intent to kill in a disturbance at Grim's bridge near Calcutta.

Batista Speinnella, Lisbon, two indictments for cutting J. Begona with intent to kill and wound during a brawl in an Italian colony at the old McKinley homestead, west of here Labor Day.

Albert McIntosh, stabbing and cutting Albert Thompson with intent to wound in the Grim's bridge melee.

Ten of the jail prisoners were arraigned in court yesterday afternoon on the indictments against them.

Seven pleaded not guilty as follows: Charles Hutton, burglary; Robert Cooley, burglary; John Brown, robbery; Richard Howard, larceny; Edward Allen, pocket-picking; Charles Neeley, larceny; George R. Tate, larceny; Charles Garwood, of Columbiana, pleaded guilty to two indictments for larceny and was sentenced to the Canton workhouse 30 days for each indictment, to stand committed until the cash in each case is paid. He is the man who, while in the employ of Travers Cope, a Fairview township farmer, admitted a confederate to Mr. Cope's feed store, making himself a party to the theft of a large quantity of prepared meat. Garwood also pleaded guilty to stealing a pocket book, jewelryand other valuables from Maggie Houtelle, who was employed as a domestic at Cope's.

Ray McCalmont and Ellis Stoffet, Wellsville boys, pleaded guilty to larceny and were sentenced to the Can-

THE PATOS ISLAND "TEMPEST IN A TEAPOT."

Though it scarcely appears to be worth quarreling over, it is a fact that the tiny island of Patos, near Trinidad, may involve the United States and England in serious complications. England has seized Patos, which Venezuela claims as her own. Herbert W. Bowen and W. H. D. Haggard are respectively the American and British representatives in Venezuela.

PROFITABLE SESSION HELD BY U. P. SYNOD HAS COME TO AN END

Business Meetings Held Today Show Great Prosperity—Spicy Remarks About a Lay Brother.

The two days' session of the United Presbyterian synod of Ohio held in the First church of this city closed this afternoon after completing one of the most beneficial and interesting meetings ever experienced by the small army of members of the organization.

The place chosen for the next convention of the synod is Birmingham, Mich., which is located about thirty miles from Detroit. Before adjournment heartfelt resolutions of thanks were prepared and ordered to be presented to the members of the church of this city for the kind and admirable way in which they have treated the visiting ministers during their stay in the city.

The session this morning opened with devotional exercises conducted by Dr. Bell. Following a report of the finance committee was heard. The report was correct and compiled in a business-like manner. It showed the church's financial standing to be brightening, and the synod feels that this part of the work has been a success.

The committee on the Muskingum college rendered a report, and it was also very satisfactory. During the past ten years the attendance at the college has increased 90 per cent. The old debt which stood against the church for years has been wiped out, but there is yet a balance of $9,000 to be paid for the erection of the new building. A friend of the college has voluteered to duplicate every dollar given toward that end.

The synod endorsed a plan to have the young people's society of the church contribute to the cause. Dr. W. H. Vincent, J. C. McMunn, J. A. Wilson, D. K. McKnight J. T. Caldwell, and Elders W. S. Head and James

STREET CARS STRUCK LOADED WAGONS

DRIVERS OF VEHICLES NARROWLY ESCAPED BEING KILLED.

Two Similar Accidents at the Scene of Railroad Work at Ralston Crossing.

A kind fate saved two men from being either killed or seriously injured between 8 and 9 o'clock this morning on the lower river road, near Ralston Crossing. Luckily no one was injured.

Just where these accidents occurred the river road is being widened. Wagons containing filling from the excavating on the Cleveland & Pittsburg railroad are unloaded near Ralston Crossing, and it frequently occurs that a wagon is allowed to stand close to the tracks of the street railway. This morning two of these wagons were struck by cars as they were being unloaded and their drivers had very narrow escapes from being injured.

The drivers were unloading their wagons, while standing on the ground between the horses and wagons. One of these wagons was struck by a street car with such force that the driver was knocked down at the feet of the horses. Naturally the horses became somewhat frightened at the suddenness of the shock and came near tramping upon their driver. He was somewhat scratched by striking the wagon as he fell, but was not injured.

A similar accident happened to another wagon about half an hour later in practically the same manner as the first accident. As in the first case, the driver was not injured. Those who are employed unloading these wagons claim that sufficient care is not used by the motormen in passing this part of the road, but no motormen is going to run into a wagon and injure a person just for the fun of the thing.

Labor Party Campaign Meeting.

A meeting of the Central committee of the Labor party was held last evening in rooms in the Golding block. Plans for the coming campaign were talked over, and reports from the various soliciting committees were read. Arrangements were made to have a full meeting of the central committee of this party at City Hall tomarrow evening, at which time it is expected that District Secretary Thomas, of Alliance, will be present.

McMullen-Bittner.

At the parsonage of Rev. John William Correll this morning, Charles H. Bittner, of Pittsburg, and Miss Louise McMullen, of this city, were married. The young couple were attended by several friends from this city and Pittsburg. Mrs. Bittner, in company with several sisters, has been employed in one of the potteries for many months. The couple had a license from the Mahoning county courts.

CLIFFORD'S HURTS HAVE PROVED FATAL

MAN WHO FELL FROM A BRIDGE DIED IN AGONY.

Efforts of Physicians Were in Vain And the End Came Today at Noon.

James Clifford, the unfortunate man who fell from the railroad bridge in the West End early yesterday morning, and who received bad injuries, died this afternoon at 12:15 o'clock in terrible agony.

Since meeting with the horrible accident he suffered intensely and was unconscious most of the time. His attending physicians did all within their power to prevent death, but their efforts were of no avail.

On the 4 o'clock train this afternoon the remains were shipped to Cleveland, his home. Mr. and Mrs. Clifford, father and mother of the ill fated man, arrived in the city last evening from Cleveland and were with him at the time of his death. The mother was heart broken.

This morning Clifford was removed from Miller's undertaking establishment to 211 College street, where he expired.

CASE DISMISSED

ITALIAN JUMPED FROM FREIGHT TRAIN AND LOST LEGS.

Cannot Recover Damages, as Railroad Company Was Not at Fault.

Lisbon, October 9.—(Special.)—The case of James Navarre, an Italian, who had both legs cut off by an Erie train on June 2 and who brought suit against the railway company for $1,999.99 dabages, came up in court yesterday afternoon. Judge Hole took the case from the jury and dismissed it on the ground that there was no testimony showing the railroad company or its employes to be at fault.

The plaintiff alleged that he had boarded a freight train to ride to Cleveland and that the conductor and brakeman, who were on the caboose, four cars from him, motioned for him to get off and shook their fists at him. Jumping, he fell on an ash heap and rolled under the wheels.

The unfortunate man was a pitiable sight when he was carried into court in a chair. He cannot speak English and gave his testimony through an interpreter. He is said to have been well-to-do and supported a family in Italy.

DOWN TO WORK WITH ALACRITY

Joint Conference Code Committee Is Busy Both Day and Evening Now.

PING-PONG SECTION OUT

Belief Is Now That the Legislature Will Be Able to Adjourn Sine Die Next Week—Senate Has a Lively Session.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, October 9.—The joint conference committee is displaying commendable alacrity in its work on the code. It organized yesterday afternoon by electing Senator Longworth, of Hamilton, president, and Representative Denman, of Lucas, secretary. One of the first things the committee did was to emasculate the Cole anti-ping pong gambling provision from the code. This was regarded as somewhat nonsensical. The Bracken amendment prohibiting the employment of girls under 18 as public messengers was also taken out. The section relating to free hospitals and independent libraries was changed so as to place these institutions under the countrol of council. The differences between the house and senate curative acts were reconciled by making slight changes in the phraseology of the house act. The matter remains in practically the same shape. The conference committee expects to report back by not later than the middle of next week. Work was begun again at 9:30 this morning. Afternoon and evening sessions will be held. The legislature will probably be able to adjourn sine die the latter part of next week.

The senate was busy yesterday. The Burnham light bill was discussed during the most of the afternoon session. It seeks to repeal the Jones arc light bill passed last winter. The senate considered it in committee of the whole. A motion to recommend the passage of the measure lost. Further

This Is the Program of the Bell Telephone Company in This City.

Preparatory to Removing Wires And Poles From the Streets Is Now in Progress—Work on New Exchange to Start at Once.

After weeks, months and even years of waiting the Central District Printing and Telegraph company is at last to commence work upon the erection of its new central telephone building, at Market street and Drury lane. This announcement was made today by one of the officials of the construction department, who was in the city. The money for this building has been appropriated, having been granted several months ago. Other work contemporary with the erection of this new building has been in progress for almost a year, and now that this is about finished, work on the building is to start.

Since the first of the week employes of the construction and cable departments have been busy in this city, placing the large lead-covered cables containing 200 wires, underground. So far eight large coils of cable have been used, but before the task is finished many more coils will be used. After the cables have been taken from the coils, or wheels, the latter are rolled to the property of the company on Market street, where they will be allowed to remain until shipped to New York.

After all the cables are placed under ground comes the tedious part of the work, that of making the various connections. A dead end of the cable is at the corner of Drury lane and Market street, and the matter of running the wires into the new central office will be comparatively easy work after the building is completed. Today the cablemen were engaged in running the cables from the underground conduits to the central office on Washington street. Just as soon as all the cables are connected, connections will be made with the central office.

Then will follow the destruction of all overhead wires of the telephone company in this city. After the wires have been taken down the poles will also be taken from the ground and probably sent to other towns where no underground system is in use.

DAZED BY HIS HURTS WALKED 15 MINUTES

Rendered unconscious as the result of a heavy blow received upon his head, John Nisson, the well known bridge worker of Sunnyside, who is assisting in the erection of the new bridge for the Pennsylvania company in the West End, performed one of the most peculiar feats ever witnessed in this city last night.

Notwithstanding that he was out of his senses and in a condition preventing his feeling pain, he walked around in the immediate vicinity of the place where he was hurt for at least 15 minutes, not uttering a word, before his fellow employes realized that he had even been injured.

When the effect of the shock began to subside and a reaction commenced he staggered and fell prostrate to the ground, giving the first evidence of suffering from the blow. Several workmen hastily ran to his assistance and took him to his home, where, after the application of an emetic and other medicines, he revived and it is thought he will recover without any serious results.

Mr. Nisson has charge of a derrick being used in hoisting the many heavy articles incident to the construction of a bridge, and it was while performing some work of the kind that he met with the accident. He had hold of a rope guiding the hoister when the rope broke, and a heavy hook on one end of the rope fell, striking him on the head.

NEAR VICTORY

Pittsburg Papers Comment on Mercer And Carey's Work on the Diamond.

Well, well, just to think of it! "Win" Mercer, formerly of the Third ward, came near pulling a victory out of the fire for his All-American base ball club at Pittsburg yesterday, but failed. That was good enough, but then that old-time politician, George Carey, helped Mercer's club to lose the game, and that was all there was to it. In the ninth inning in the game with the Pittsburg Pirates yesterday afternoon "Win" went to bat for Joss, the Cleveland twirler. Mercer got a hit. He got first base. Then he walked to the 'bus to ride to his hotel. That ended the game. There were but three hits made in the game and Mercer got one of them. Carey got a goose egg and had one error which is listed as a fatal one.

All Pittsburg players speak well of Mercer and also of Carey. Of course, a few warm ones are handed out, but still that is in the game, and who cares? Frank McQuiston, of the Dispatch, says this of Mercer:

"Mercer could have scored had he but started when the ball was hit, but he loafed and the game was a shutout, for Leach and Ritchey took good care of Davis at second when Wallace hit the ball."

"Win Mercer was counting money in the club house yesterday when he was called to go in and bat."

"Big Larry will be in the fuss Friday and Saturday. Perhaps Mercer would not have mortgaged his house and lot in East Liverpool if he could have had him for an hour yesterday. It might have made a difference."

FIRST OF THE SEASON

The Cricket, a Passenger Boat, Expected Up the River Today.

The steamboat Cricket will be up the river this evening. This is the first passenger boat of the season. The Greenwood usually made this run, but the Cricket is better adapted to low water. The Cricket will return tomorrow evening, and will stop at East Liverpool for passengers.

The boat goes down as far as the Kanawha river, which it traverses.

Suing Her Son.

A replevin action has been entered in the court of Justice A. T. Moore, of St. Clair township, by Mrs. Salina Chamberlain against her son, William B. Chamberlain. The plaintiff desires that numerous household goods and some farming implements be returned to her. The case will be heard Saturday afternoon. Attorney James Davis, of the East End, represents the plaintiff.

WORK TO BEGIN IN THIRTY DAYS

Unlimited Capital Back of It And Rights of Way Secured.

Columbiana, October 9.—(Special)—An important meeting of capitalists was held here Wednesday for the purpose of pushing the construction of the Youngstown and Southern railroad passing from Youngstown to Columbiana, passing through 30,000 acres of coal lands. The charter and right of way were secured by General A. W. Jones and John H. Ruhlman.

Prominent capitalists from New York and Cleveland went over the route and were very much pleased with the project. Unlimited capital will be furnished and rich farming country will be given an outlet for its produce and big coal fields will be opened up. It is confidently asserted that work on the new line will be commenced within 30 days.

BLAMES BILLINGSLEY

He asks the creditors if they want a settlement now which wauld necessaraly absolve Mr. Billingsley from his obligations.

SPECIAL ELECTION

On Road Bonds Is Petitioned For By St. Clair Township Voters.

Lisbon, October 9.—(Special)—St. Clair township people are again eager for a vote on the proposition to pave with brick the Calcutta road from Calcutta to the Liverpool township line.

A petition for a special election has the names of 115 property holders, 15 more than the required number.

Mr. Hawkins Has Appealed.

Lisbon, October 9.—(Special)—The McGarry real estate agency sued Etta Hawkins for $50 and costs, which was held due for breach of contract in the sale of East Liverpool property. Judgment was rendered for the full amount and the defendant has appealed.

WITH THE WORKMEN IN THE CLAY PLANTS

COMMERCIAL PHOTOGRAPHY.

In all business enterprises photography, in these days of advancement, is more or less used. From the detection of crime to the selling of merchandise photography is serviceable. But never before was photography so extensively used by the manufacturing potters of the country as now. How rapid the advancement in this particular line of business in this city has been, the general public knows very little. One large photograph, showing several designs of ware made at a pottery, will result in the taking of several orders, thus taking the place of a salesman. Of course these miniature salesmen cost money, and not a month passes but some improvement is made in the making of the pictures. In the past two years wonderful advancement has been made in the production of these photographs by local photographers. Employment is given to more people in this line of work than is generally supposed. The manufacturing potters of this city send out large books of photographs representing all classes of ware made at a pottery. One of these books is given to a salesman. Frequently photographs are used instead of the actual samples. A firm frequently sends a bunch of photographs to a far-off prospective customer, perhaps located in the west. Although single photographs may cause the expenditure of several dollars, the returns are probably a hundred fold. Of course the class of goods put out by a manufacturer often has much to do with the order-getting work of the photograph. The picture must always be backed up by good ware. The making of the individual photograph is an interesting study. The picture shows the piece of ware as it actually is, colors of decoration and all. To make a picture like this requires no little work. Many colors are used, and the results that are obtained by an up-to-date photographer in this line of work are little short of wonderful. The use of isocrymal plates in the making of these photographs was first introduced in this city by Robert E. Spencer. Before these plates were brought to East Liverpool three fourths of all commercial photography orders, it might be said, were sent from the city, either to Chicago or to St. Louis. It is now said that owing to the advances made in this city the work is done at home, with a possible exception of one or two who send their orders from the city. While this city has been making strides in the manufacture of pottery, advancement is being made in the photograph line at the same time.

When a bunch of ware is sent to a photographer to photograph, with the decorations intact, that certain piece of ware cannot be sold. It may do for a sample in the sample rooms but it will never be disposed of unless to a person who is looking for a job lot. There is a reason for this. But one side of the piece of ware is glazed. The other is in a vitreous state, and is decorated just as the glazed side is. Unless this is done a good photograph cannot be made. The glaze throws too much light upon the photograph. In photographing the unglazed side of the ware, perfect pictures are secured. These are then developed, and while the different colors of the decoration is shown on the photograph, they are placed in the hands of young ladies who "touch them up," and within a few days they are ready to be made into books and delivered to the local manufacturer. It must be understood that not only has the local pottery manufacturer photographs of his ware made in this city, but samples from all over the country to be photographed. This shows conclusively that the fame of East Liverpool photography is national. The young ladies that are engaged in "touching up" these pictures are well paid for their work, receiving from $5 to $12 a week. Frequently these girls take their work home with them, and when working by the piece, are enabled to make very good wages. It frequently occurs that their wages are considerably more than $12 a week. Fillers-in make the best help in this particular department. They are used to that sort of work. They are sent here every month many samples of goods put up by firms outside of this city. As an example, samples of coffee and tea sacks which are put up for the retail trade are sent to this city to be photographed. Trade in this line is especially good. Besides this, quantities of glass ware of all description and hundreds of glass lamps are also sent here to be photographed.

'TIS A GOOD THING.

Some time ago there was published an article in this column relating to the establishment of an oil kiln at the plant of the American Ceramic Art pottery on Second street. In commenting upon this innovation in kilns in this city an eastern trade paper contains the following: "It would seem as if some practical means of heating a kiln by oil might be found, either by direct fire or by gas from the oil. All the illuminating gas used used in New York city is made from oil, and is cheaper than coal gas. Why not thus make gas for firing pottery? An attempt to fire with oil direct resulted in failure; but no one, so far as we know, has tried to make gas from oil and use it as natural gas is used."

MT. PELEE WARE.

A few days ago there was received in this city 10 samples of ware made at the new McCoy Art pottery, at Roseville, a few miles from Zanesville. Never before was there such odd ware shown in this city. Resembling old metal, this ware is moulded into all sorts of shapes while in the soft clay state. Only the samples of the ware to be made at this pottery have been turned out. Some of the ware, it would seem almost impossible to make. It contains a black glaze, while the body is almost snow white. This can be seen by looking at the bottom of some of the pieces. The soft glaze of which was caught on the bottom of a sagger. There is no doubt in the world but what the new ware will command a high price, equal to that demanded for Rookwood ware. The ware was sent here to be photographed, and as soon as this is done the firm will be notified, and a packer will be sent here fro mthe factory to repack the samples, and send them to the pottery. The ware is very delicate.

NEW PLANTS AT COLUMBUS.

The Columbus Pottery company, which will build a plant several miles north of that city, has had the tract on which it will be located approved by the county commissioners. It has been designated "Chaseland." It consists of 608 lots with a reservation of 15 acres for the pottery site. The plant is to be erected within a year. The employes will build homes on the lots. The company will make ware similar to that made in Zanesville. The tract owned by the Bell Pottery company is situated just east of the city and is known as "Bellwood." The work of excavating for the new plant is being hurried. If all goes well Columbus will have two potteries in operation by this time next year.

SITUATION SERIOUS.

Trenton's manufacturing interests are now facing a crisis in connection with the coal strike. Notwithstanding the fact that nearly all the potteries, at a great expense, reconstructed their kilns for the burning of bituminous coal they are now wrestling with the difficulty in obtaining a sufficient supply in order to keep contracts with those who are waiting for orders. Soft coal is being shipped to the potteries mostly in two car load lots, and unless there is a sudden change in the situation the coal strike will cause a loss of many thousands of dollars here. With the potteries, especially those dealing in general ware, this is about the busiest time of the year, as most of the ware which is now beng made is to supply the holiday trade.

STARTING FOUNDATION.

The work of building the foundation of the new decorating kilns for the Wallace & Chetwynd pottery was commenced yesterday, and it is expected the entire kilns will be completed and ready for use within 30 days. The new kilns will be erected on the site of the old ones, which were recently demolished. In the rear of this kiln, it is said the new printing press will be installed, exclusive mention of which was made in this paper several weeks ago. By installing this machine the company will employ three printers, and as orders for decorated ware are coming in rapidly for this plant, the decorating departments will be kept running in full.

LOOKED UP RELATIVES.

E. F. Hanna, of Baltimore, Md., who travels for the American Pottery Supply company, of that city, was in Salem this week on business. He is making a trip west, calling on the pottery trade in Ohio and Indiana. While in Salem Mr. Hanna incidentally looked up some of his relatives who live in that vicinity whom he had never seen. A branch of his family is connected with the Barnes and Hanna families of Ohio, having migrated to Ohio from the east.

GAMES ARE WANTED.

It is announced that the football club, composed of players employed at the Buckeye pottery, desires games with any pottery team in the city. Some one has started the report that the Buckeye team would like to play the team representing the Laughlin potteries in the East End, and would be willing to play for $25 a side. However, it is said that the Laughlin team does not propose to play for any stakes just at this stage of the game. It may be that the boys from the Buckeye may be able to get a game with some other pottery teams fro mthis city, as the boys desire to arrange for games at any time.

HORSELESS MAIL WAGON

MAIL CARRIER BEVINGTON INTRODUCES AN INNOVATION.

Will Make His Collections Hereafter By the Aid of a Small Automobile.

Mail Carrier Bevington is without doubt one of the up-to-date mail carriers in the country. He has started an innovation in this city. Instead of using a horse and a small mail cart in making his usual collections during the day, Mr. Bevington has decided that an automobilie is a better means of covering his territory. He will use his domesticated horse no more, at least, for a few days. Yesterday Mr. Bevington received from an eastern firm an auto-quad, a miniature automobile, which cost, according to the list price, $450.

The machine is unlike any other ever seen in this city. It is propelled by gasoline and it has four wheels. Over the front wheels is a seat capable of holding two persons, or the seat can be replaced with a box, which will be used for letters and other mail matter while they are being collected. At the front of the two rear wheels is a seat similar to that used on a bicycle. It is there that the mechanism of the machine is located.

The machine is so made that the springs which support the passenger seat allow the axle carrying the seat to rise and fall laterally, so that all four wheels remain on the ground when passing over irregularities in the road. Both the front wheels are steered upon separate centers by means of rods jointed to the end of the steering post controlled by the handle bar. The mechine is propelled by a three and one-half horse-power motor.

CROWDS ATTENDED

The Mill Creek Presbyterian Celebration a Success in Every Respect.

The crowd in attendance at the one hundred and eighteenth anniversary of the Mill Creek Presbyterian church, observed yesterday under auspicious circumstances at the church, was much larger than expected. People were there from long distances and those living within a radius of four miles were there to a man. East Liverpool was well represented, it being estimated that there were over 200 from this city present.

The program as given in the News Review was carried out in detail and was highly interesting.

HAND BILLS DISTRIBUTED

Young Married Couple the Recipients of Much Attention from Practical Jokers.

Practical jokers and rice throwers had their fun with Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bence when they left on their bridal tour yesterday afternoon. On the train yellow hand bills were distributed, reading: "Watch for them at the next station. Just married. They are young and giddy, but good looking. You'll know them at sight. Speak to them; they are anxious to make your acquaintance, but too bashful to approach you. Be kind to them."

The happy couple bore their persecution with patient good nature, but evidently were glad to get away.

EAST END

AN EAST END CITIZEN ON PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE MATTER.

The New Road a Benefit to the Whole City And Not to a Small Section of It.

To the Editor of the News Review.

Kindly permit me to speak a word or two through your columns relative to the wisdom and policy of the recent assessments laid on East End property for the improvement of Pennsylvania avenue.

There are some institutions which belong alike to the general public and to no one portion of it, as a public hospital, library or park. To this class we can properly assign this splendid avenue. Some one has well observed that it sustains the same relation to the city as a public park. It is virtually the city's only driveway. The excellence of it, its local picturesqueness and attractive scenery make it specially desirable for this purpose. It may be called a park road, and, no less than a park the expense of it should be borne by the city.

The improvement of this avenue, in one important particular, ought not to be confounded with the improvement of city streets generally; for there are no persons to be benefited residing on it, from one end of it to the other—that is, the improved portion in question—and to say that one end of the city is benefited and the other is not is supremely absurd. In point of fact, from a business and financial standpoint, this thoroughfare is of far greater advantage to the city proper than it is to the East End. It needs no argument to show that the effect of it is to draw business away from the East End to the city.

It is, too, worthy of note that the East End is made up principally of working people, or people in humble circumstances. With but few exceptions the owners and operators of the extensive business plants do not reside here. To require the former to bear the great expense of the improvement in question or to compel them to pay the assessments which have been laid upon them is as burdensome as it is unjust.

May we not hope that a sense of justice and fair dealing will prevail in the final settlement of this question.

EAST END CITIZEN.

RALLY DAY SERVICES

Program Arranged For the Exercises at Erie Street M. E. Church.

The annual rally day service at the Erie street M. E. church will be observed next Sunday evening, commencing at 7:30 o'clock. For this occasion a long and interesting program has been arragned. During the morning, and taking the place of the regular morning service a special service will be held for the members of Sunday school. A sermon will be delivered to the children by the pastor, Rev. George W. Orcutt, and a roll call of all the classes will be a feature. The program for the evening service is herewith given. It has been arranged by George W. Johnson, superintendent of the Sunday school of this church:

Opening song, "Coronation;" prayer, by Rev. G. W. Orcutt; song, "Hear the Merry Reapers;" opening address, Myrtle Flick; recitation, Iva Meek; "A Rally Day," Mabel McRev; "The Children's Appeal," Grace Haney; "God's Love," Ora McElroy; song, "Wave Your Banners;" "Oh, How Lovely," Ada Twyford; "What Mamma Says," Bernace Caldwell; "We Thank Thee," Merrill Cooley; "The Rally," Mabel Flick; song, "Rally, Comrades, Rally;" "Make Childhood Sweet," Eva Cooper; "Rally Day," Ila Hayes; "His Gleaners," five little girls; recitation, Lottie Haney; "Nature's Motto," Annie Fetty; "Golden Rod Soldiers," Blanch Rodgers; song No. 64; "A Sunday School Without a Rally Day," three girls; "A Year of Sunday School," Flora Poilick; recitation, Dora Hayes; "Thanks," Laura Shingleton; "Children's Prayers," May McElroy; song, "My Cup Runneth Over;" "Plymouth Rock," Clara Linn; "Wait Patiently Upon the Lord," Elsie Whitney; "Treason," Nellie St. Clair; "Our Flag," Clinton Flick; "Doing Duty," Lina Whitney; song, "Here We Give Our All; address, "Why Parents Should Attend the Sunday School," Finley Cooley; "Rally Day," Leland Smith; address, "Why I Love the Sunday School," M. Fidgety people are lacking in nervous strength. The weak, care-worn, melancholy, headachy, and low-spirited men and women are easily excited, impatient, fidgety, and unable to sleep at night. Worn-out nerves must be built up, and the vitality of the whole system replenished before relief can come.

"The least bit of noise or sudden jar would nearly drive me crazy, and I was just too fidgety for anything. I was so nervous that I could not rest or sleep. The first dose of Dr. Miles' Nervine brought me sleep, and after that I got well fast."

GOING EAST AGAIN

Few Anthracite Miners Who Came to This Locality to Work Now Remain.

Practically all the miners who came to this section of the country several weeks ago to work in the mines of the Norris Coal company at New Salisbury, have returned to their homes, or else to Pittsburg and the coal districts in the vicinity of Johnstown. There are but three or four of these miners now in this city, and it is predicted that they will remain here only a week or so longer. These miners who are remaining in the city are employed by Contractor Thomas McLaughlin on the grading work for the Cleveland & Pittsburg railroad in the vicinity of Ralston Crossing. Instead of working digging the earth these men are employed in dumping the dirt from the wagons on the river road.

Quite interesting persons these men are and they tell of conditions in the anthracite coal regions that have not been thought of. Among those who came to this part of the country at the solicitation of General Manager Burnside, of the Norris Coal company, many were not satisfied with conditions as they existed at New Salisbury, and after working there a few days left for Pittsburg and this city. One of the miners stated this morning that if they had remained there that they would have to work for at least four months before they could have any money that they could call their own. That was not all, the miner said, and he said that conditions were misreprsented to them before they left the east.

Another miner, an elderly man, is known to people in this city. He has several grown up children working in the local potteries and a daughter came here but a few months ago and secured a good position. This miner said that his wife was coming to East Liverpool, but he expected to return to the mines as soon as the strike was settled. However, the four miners working here now are well satisfied with their lot. They are hard workers, and they would make their homes here for the winter if they could get good positions in any of the local mines.

Six of the miners who were working for Mr. Laughlin left the city Tuesday for Pittsburg, where they secured work. In fact, they were promised employment before they left this city. A better set of workmen never came to this city than the miners now working on this excavation work. They mind their own business and talk very little about the conditions at their eastern homes. One miner said this morning that at his home, where a riot had been reported, there was "nothing doing" in that line at all. A crowd of non-union miners came to the town and a crowd of children gathered about them and commenced to hammer tin cans. The miner said that the next morning the eastern papers said that a riot had been in progress.

New Addition Planned.

It is expected that not less than 25 acres of the McKinnon property on Pennsylvania avenue, on the road between the city proper and the East End will be sold soon, and will be plotted and sold in lots. It is also the intention of the promoters of the scheme to have several sites laid off for factory purposes, there being several deals with this end in view. The company, which has a capital stock of $20,000, has been incorporated and is composed of S. T. Herbert, J. N. Hanley, J. T. Herbert, Willis Davidson and W. C. Supplee. This will add another connecting link between the East End and the city proper.

Cottage Prayer Meetings.

Cottage prayer meetings will be held in the homes of five members of the Second United Presbyterian church tomorrow evening. The East End has been laid out in five districts, and a meeting will be held in each at the following homes: Mr. and Mrs. Archie Searight, Pennsylvania avenue; Thompson Andrews, Sr., Pennsylvania avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ralston and Mrs. Eliza White. It is thought also that a meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mayes. These meetings give promise of being very interesting.

Dragon Boy Moved.

Michael Dragon, the injured Slav boy, with the rest of the Dragon family started on the 4 p. m. train yesterday for White Rock, Fayette county, Pa., where the father is employed. Dr. Mowen protested against the boy being moved in his feeble condition, but to no avail.

No. 340 east this morning was crowded for standing room, when it reached this city and 150 passengers were waiting here. A large number were contented to ride in the baggage car.

Agent Hill stated the scarcity of coaches was due to the G. A. R. encampment at Washington.

At the K. T. Conclave.

Fred Croxall, of this city, has left for Dayton to attend the state conclave of the grand commandery, Knights Templar, of Ohio. Reed commandery, of Dayton, has made extensive preparations for the entertainment of the Ohio knights and the largest and best conclave in the history of Ohio is expected. Yesterday a good parade took place, in which the Eighth Regiment band took part. A grand ball was given by Reed commandery, of Dayton, last evening. Mr. Croxall is a delegate from Pilgrim commandery of this city.

PATH OF OCEAN CABLES.

Submarine Tablelands That Stretch Across the Atlantic.

There seems to be no logical reason why cables cannot be laid across any section of the oceans of the world, no matter how great the depth. Some portions of the Atlantic cables are three miles below the surface, and this is not necessarily the extreme depth, for the cable may and probably does pass from the top of one submarine hill to another without drooping materially into the deep valleys between, says Lippincott's Magazine. The greatest known depth of the sea is 40,036 feet, or 7 3-5 miles, found in the south Atlantic midway between the island of Tristan da Cunha and the mouth of the Rio de la Plata. Soundings have been made to the depth of 27,480 feet in the north Atlantic south of Newfoundland, and about 34,000 feet, or nearly 6½ miles, is reported south of the Bermudas. Even such enormous depths as these need not hinder cable laying so far as the theory is concerned, but in practice, for reasons of economy in maintenance and otherwise, it is found best to take advantage of favoring conditions in the ocean's bed. To illustrate, all of the cables between the United States and Europe run up along our coast until they reach the neighborhood of Newfoundland before starting across to their destination in Ireland or France. The reason for this is found in the range of submarine tablelands, forming an ideal cable bed, which lies between the three latter countries.

PURE SUNLIGHT AND AIR.

Places Here Which Shame the Old World's Favored Climes.

We have often heard of "sunny Italy" or the "clear light" of Egypt, says the Desert; but, believe me, there is no sunlight there compared with that which falls upon the upper peaks of the Sierra Madre or the uninhabitable wastes of the Colorado desert.

Pure sunlight requires for its existence pure air, and the old world has little of it left. When you are in Rome again and stand upon that hill where all good Romanists go at sunset, look out and see how dense is the atmosphere between you and St. Peter's dome. That same thick air is all over Europe, all around the Mediterranean, even over in Mesopotamia and by the banks of the Ganges. It has been breathed and burned and battle smoked for 10,000 years.

Ride up and over the high tablelands of Montana—one can still ride there for days without seeing a trace of humanity—and how clear and scentless, how absolutely intangible, that sky blown, sunshot atmosphere! You breathe it without feeling it, you see through it a hundred miles, and the picture is not blurred by it. Once more ride over the enchanted mesas of Arizona at sunrise or sunset, with the ragged mountains of Mexico to the south of you and the broken spurs of the great Sierra around about you, and all the glory of the old shall be as nothing to the gold and purple and burning crimson of this new world.

To my surprise it removed all pain and soreness and the injured parts were soon healed." For saly by Alvin H. Bulger.

Keep Their Offices Crowded Almost Constantly.

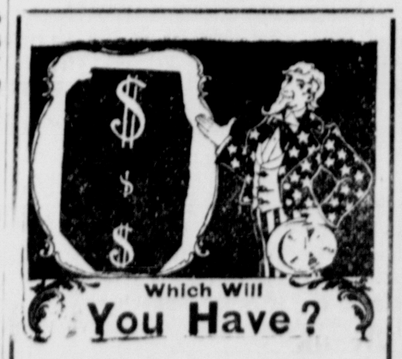

Eminent specialists from the English Medical Institute, by request of numerous patients under their treatment in this country, have established a permanent branch of the Institute in East Liverpool. In order to become rapidly acquainted with the sick and afflicted, these eminent gentlemen have decided to give their services entirely free (medicines excepted) for three months to all invalids who call upon them before Oct. 25th. These services include examination, advice and all minor surgical operations.

The doctors treat all forms of disease and deformities and guarantee all curable cases undertaken. Weakness of either sex, catarrh and catarrhal deafness, heart, lung, stomach, kidney and bladder affections. All diseases of the skin, blood, brain and nervous system. Goitre, cancer, without pain, epilepsy, rheumatism and rectal diseases. Impaired vitality, knotted veins and shrunken conditions are positively cured by their new treatment.

TWELVE PAGES.

W. J. Foley, of East Palestine, Democratic candidate for congress, must be a cheerful sort of a chap. In his letter accepting the nomination he talks of "high position and great responsibilities" as glibly as if both were in sight. The honor of being sent up Salt River in November is not so great that there has been any pronounced scramble for it. Indeed, several Democrats of more or less prominence have shown a conspicuous eagerness to get away from it. But if Mr. Foley is pleased nobody should grumble.

At last a Democratic prophet has arisen who has the courage to tell the truth and speak his convictions. At a Democratic mass meeting in Youngstown the principal speaker admitted that James Kennedy would be elected to congress. There were 100 people present, but enthusiasm was lacking, as at most Ohio Democratic campaign meetings.

One district of England has shipped 100,000 tons of pig iron to the United States in the past nine months. Last year 3,500 tons were shipped in the same period, and two years previous, nothing at all. It is plain that the benefits of American prosperity, although beginning at home, do not end there.

Letting well enough alone is well enough, but it won't do to neglect campaign work. Ohio should give a magnificient Republican majority this year, and it will if every Republican voter does his duty.

The codes with which the Ohio legislature is wrestling are now reduced to two and will doubtless reach the minimum in time to allow the legislators to go home and vote.

W. H. Truesdale, president of one of the coal roads, has no coal in his cellar and can't buy any where he lives. Poetic justice has'nt gone out of business yet, it seems.

Considering the small amount of worrying that he seems to be doing, Speaker Henderson must have a supply of coal for the winter piled away in the cellar.

General Bragg, of Wisconsin, who while consul general at Havana, wrote indiscreetly and used uncomplimentary language about the Cubans, has been deposed from his job and given another at Hong Kong. There are those who hold that the punishment does not fit the crime.

If Pennsylvania could get a new set of anthracite coal operators it might fare better. Aany change could scarcely be for the worse.

The silence of David B. Hill's platform as regards silver is as eloquent and expressive as a slap in the face of Bryan would have been.

There will be five tickets on the Ohio ballot this fall. The only close contest is who will be last in the race.

Senator Hanna refuses to help Tom Johnson attract crowds to his circus. He is not in the humbug business.

The man who has money to burn is not in it. It is the man who has coal to burn whom people now envy.

This may be the Indian summer, but it is very satisfactory to white men whatever it may be called.

OBITUARY

Mrs. William B. Ross.

Mrs. William B. Ross, aged 83 years, who resided with her daughter, Mrs Thomas Aughinbaugh, on Seventh street, Wellsville, died at noon yesterday of heart failure and old age. Mrs Ross had resided in Wellsville nearly all her life. Her husband, who died several years ago was a prominent business man there. She was a prominent member of the First Presbyterian church. She leaves two children Mrs. Aughinbaugh and Mrs. Rev. James Snowden, of Washington, Pa. The funeral will be held at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon at the house, Rev. L. F. Laverty, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiating. Interment will be in Spring Hill cemetery.

SALVATION ARMY HOME

Solicitors Will Start Out To Raise Funds to Pay For Property Purchased.

The Salvation Army, of East Liverpool, is about to build its own home on Third street. It requires $4,000 to pay for the property, of which sum about one-half is already pledged. It is for the purpose of raising the additional sum necessary that appeals are being made by the trustees and solicitors are at work.

The Army has benefitted many people in this city both by its charitable and its religious work, and confidently looks for hearty encouragement for its project of establishing a permanent home and increasing its sphere of usefulness. Solicitors will start at once to gather money to swell the building fund, and practically everybody in the city will have a chance to contribute.

AT THE THEATER

"When We Were 21," will be seen at the Grand on Monday evening, October 13. It is a pure, clean story, clever in its arrangement, interesting in its conclusions. It is well calculated to receive that attention and approval at the hands of the theater goers that is so justly deserving. One seldom witnesses a more evenly balanced company that the one in charge of the presentation of "When We Were Twenty One."

The Bennett-Moulton company gave another interesting performance at the Grand last evening, the play being "The Daughter of the South." A large audience was present and the play was quite an interesting one. The specialties were clever and pleasing. "The Pay Train" is the bill for this evening.

Brown were elected trustees of the college.

A communication was received from the Federation of Ohio churches, asking that the synod be represented at the next meeting, which is to be held in Columbus December 4. Rev. J. A. Kennedy, J. H. Hutchman and Thomas Balph were appointed delegates to attend the convention.

A motion that a young people's convention be held next year, owing to the fact that there will be no national convention, was lost.

The committee on the Allegheny Theological seminary rendered a favorable report after which the matter of electing a board of directors for the seminary was introduced to the synod. Before the election took place there was, however, a sensational happening. It was caused by Rev. Dr. Littell, of Wheeling, who, being tendered the floor made a speech which evidently did not strike a popular chord among the members of the synod, they by a vote turning down his suggestion and subsequent motion. He told the synod that, inasmuch as Dr. J. C. Taggart, of East Liverpool, Dr. W. H. Vincent, of Detroit, and W. J. W. Cowden, of Wheeling, had been members of the board for a time, he thought the time had come to oust them and elect a new board.

"It is not that I have anything against Dr. Taggart, or Dr. Vincent," said Dr. Littell, "but it is because one member of the board, Cowden, is not fit to be a member. Furthermore, I believe in the resolution adopted in Allegheny last year which advises the synod to make a change in boards, in order that each member of the synod may in time get a perfect understanding of every portion of the church work."

The doctor then made a motion that three men, naming them, be elected. Another member of the synod arose and made a motion that Drs. Taggart and Vincent and Mr. Cowden be elected. The nominations were then closed and the moderator ordered a vote taken.

Dr. Littell immediately jumped to his feet and, upon being recognized by the moderator said:

"Brethren, I think it absolutely wrong to allow the name of Mr. Cowden to come up before the convention. He is a drinking man."

At this juncture the moderator silenced the Wheeling minister by stating that the church and the time were not proper to discuss Cowen's character. Much chagrined, but with an air of content in having thrust his dagger Dr. Littell sat down and allowed the voting to continue. The result of the ballots showed Drs. Taggart and Vincent and Mr. Cowden the choice of the synod. Mr. Cowden is a prominent attorney of Wheeling.

The session of the synod of Ohio, of the United Presbyterian church, yesterday afternoon was one of the most interesting ever attended by the members of the vast army of Christian workers. Rev. J. A. Kennedy, moderator, conducted the session in a manner very commendable and every feature of the program was carried out in a most satisfactory manner.

The attendance of clergymen is large and the synod meetings give promise of being most interesting and profitable.

Detroit Presbytery: W. H. Vincent, First Detroit; L. M. Campbell, Bruce; A. M. Martin, Fair Grove; L. S. Clark, Southfield; M. B. Maxwell, Birmingham; O. A. Kech, Commerce; L. G. Littell, Martin; W. H. M. Peak, Port Huron; Edwin McClintock, Second, Detroit; J. D. Palmer, J. B. Wilson and A. N. McLeod.

Mansfield Presbytery: R. J. McCrea, Avondale; J. L. Caldwell Iberia; W. H. Hubbell, Dalton; F. D. Findlay, Mansfield; J. C. Pinkerton, Ontario; W. J. McClintock, Fredericksburg; W. L. Garges, Savannah; W. A. Littell, Wooster; David Livingston, Utica; J. C. Harby, J. A. Wilson, S. C. Habell, A. McDowell, F. M. Proctor, J. F. Frederick, Canton.

Muskingum Presbytery: I. N. White, Fairview; R. C. Wyatt, Norwich; J. C. Campbell, Northfield; J. A. Kennedy, Second, New Concord; J. S. McMuen, New Salem; J. A. Shrader, Salt Creek; E. E. Cheland, East Union; S. B. Johnston, Caledonia; J. H. Hutchman, Zanesville; William Duncan, New Concord; A. J. Hanna, Jonathan's Creek; R. W. McBride, Clear Fork; S. W. Lonier, Mt. Hermon; L. D. Edgar, First Cambridge; J. G. C. Webster, Bloomfield; G. O. Miller, Second Cambridge; L. E. Kerr, Rush Creek; W. H. McFarland, A. H. Caldwell.

Steubenville Presbytery: J. C. Taggart, East Liverpool; J. G. Madge, Carrollton; L. H. Warring, Steubenville; D. E. McKnight, Mechanicstown; L. L. Gray, Knoxville; W. B. Campbell, Calcutta; W. M. Glasgow, Wellsville; D. J. White, Pine Fork; W. R. Jamison, Scio; W. B. Gillis, Chester; W. H. Clark, New Jefferson; F. E. Dean, Salineville; R. B. Caldwell, Toronto; D. W. McQuiston, Second East Liverpool.

Wheeling Presbytery: W. G. Waddell, Unity; T. Balph, St. Clairsville; W. M. Coleman, West Alexander; W. M. Butler, Cadiz; W. M. Hopping, Uniontown; C. P. Proudfit, Bellaire; A. R. Robinson, Martin's Ferry; Morris Watson, High Ridge; Chas. H. Robinson, First Wheeling; J. H. Littell, Second Wheeling; John Atcheson, Roney's Point; W. O. Fisher, New Athens; W. S. Boice, Thomas Love.

After a business session, Rev. W. G. Waddell, D. D., was introduced and in a logical address interested the audience for an hour on the subject, "Dearth of Power in the Church." He pointed out in many ways why the church has lack of the power which it should have, but confined himself to explaining where it lacks. Rev. W. M. Butler was the next speaker and his subject was the cause of the dearth of power. To the satisfaction of his listeners Dr. Butler spoke at length and told in an able manner of the many causes to which the dearth is attributed. He was followed by Rev. J. C. Pinkerton, who well expressed himself on a remedy for the dearth. His remarks were confined strictly to the subject and were highly entertaining.

"Among the Membership," the subject chosen by Rev. W. J. McClintock, was most interesting. He gave some logical advice to his brother ministers as to what course to follow in bringing the proper results among their congregations and also demonstrated how the congregations can help in the work.

At the conclusion of the address a report from the committee on reform was read by A. R. Robinson, of Martin's Ferry. The report showed the reform work in all lines as being steadily moving forward and its progress unprecedented. The synod accepted the report and passed a flattering resolution for the manner in which it was arranged.

There was a large and attentive audience at the last evening's meeting. C. R. Watson, corresponding secretary of the National Board of Foreign Missions of the United Presbyterian church, whose residence is at Philadelphia, gave a very entertaining report. He told the delegates that the church had made satisfactory progress in the Christianizing of India. There had been 8,000 people brought from the pale of heathenism to light of Christian intelligence.

He also told of the magnificent work that had been done by the church in following up the Soudan. A number of missions have been established along that stream, the United Presbyterians having made commendable progress in pushing into the dark continent of Africa.

The gentlemen presented statistics to show the importance of the missionary movements, and greatly pleased the large audience by the manner in which the subject was presented.

Rev. R. L. Hay, of New Brighton, Pa., was another speaker whose address attracted general attention. He reported for the board of church extension, and gave interesting facts in the number of churches constructed. His report was adopted.

FOUR CASES SETTLED

Minor Suits In Common Pleas Court Disposed Of Without a Hearing.

Lisbon, October 9.—(Special)—Four cases in common pleas court were settled today without a hearing.

The case of Latitia Sheraw against J. S. Faloon, of Hanover township, was settled at the costs of the plaintiff.

The case of Letitia Sheraw against George St. Clair, of Hanoverton, was settled by each party paying his own costs, in addition to which the defendent paid the plaintiff $35. The concerned the rent of a store room.

W. J. Adams' suit against the Dungannon Creamery company was settled, the defendent paying the plaintiff $35 and costs. The suit was over a wage contract.

The cases of Stewart brothers et al. against Wernet & Wilson, in which the plaintiffs claimed that they had not been paid for bailing and hauling a quantity of hay, was dismissed at the plaintiffs' cost.

J. S. Faloon's suit against Henry J. Winter was dismissed, termes of settlement having been practically agreed upon.

ONE OF THE SMART SET

His Pugilistic Proclivities Make Him a Candidate for the Workhouse.

After consuming considerable more booze than he could carry and yet walk a straight line, George Brown, a young man of perhaps 21 years, who dropped into town several days ago from Elizabeth, N. J., created a disturbance in the Diamond last evening which will likely result in his spending time in the workhouse at Canton.

Evidently considering himself the "cock of the walk" he first made himself conspicuous by pouncing upon two local characters, Charley Hoskins and Robert Black, both of whom took pity on the youth and let him off without the usual thrashing administered to the smart set which comes to the city. Hoskins even allowed the fellow to land several blows without interfering.

While in the midst of his sport Brown was arrested by Officer Dawson and landed in the city jail. He was charged with being drunk and disorderly and fighting. The officer also inscribed on the slip, "This young man is of the smart set." He will be given a hearing this evening.

ON TO CAIRO MEETING

Great Preparations for It—Candidate James Kennedy And R. W. Tayler to Speak.

Elaborate arrangements are being perfected by the mayor and other city officials for the big public "On to Cairo" meeting which is to be held next Tuesday evening in the third floor of the city building.

An invitation has been sent to the Republican nominee for congress, James Kennedy, of Youngstown, and an effort is being made to have him present at the meeting. Congressman R. W. Tayler and other prominent men have also been invited. Mr. Tayler has consented to come and will be one of the orators of the evening. An invitation, reading as follows, has been sent by the city clerk to several of the prominent citizens of the town:

"You are hereby requested to attend an 'On to Cairo' meeting at the city hall, Wellsville, October 14, 1902, at 7 o'clock p. m., to make a short address in favor of this improvement. As this is a matter of great interest to all concerned, we think you should attend."

A representative of the Pittsburg Dispatch is expected to be present and deliver an address.

The most important issue of the evening to be discussed will be the locating of dam No. 8. It is claimed that if it is located below the city instead of above, as at first planned, both this city and East Liverpool will be improved, while if it is located at Walker the Crockery City will be the only one to be improved.

SHORTER HOURS WANTED

By the Grocery Clerks of Wellsville. No Agreement Reached.

The regular meeting of the Retail Clerks' union was held last evening in Potters' hall. The existing difficulties between the grocers and the grocery clerks was talked over, but on account of so few being present, no action was taken.

The grocery clerks want shorter hours. Under the present arrangement they start work at 6 a. m. and quit at 6:30 p. m. They hold that these hours are too long and think that the closing hour should be 6 o'clock, thus shortening their day's work one-half hour.

The grocers do not look at the matter in this light, but if the union takes action at their next meeting in favor of the clerks, the grocers will probably submit to the proposition. The next meeting will be held on the 23d of the month.

SET THREE TIMES

Fracture of Clarence McFall's Collar Bone Pronounced a Very Bad One.

Clarence McFall, who had his collar bone broken in a foot ball contest Tuesday afternoon between the Bruno Athletic club and the High School, has since that time had the bone set three different times.

Dr. Holland, who is the attending physician, says it is one of the worst breaks that he has ever had experience with. With the least motion of the left arm the broken bone slips out of place.

The Brunos are now arranging with the High School for another game next week, the proceeds of which are to go to the disabled player.

Missionary Lecture.

A missionary lecture was delivered last evening at the Second Presbyterian church in the West End by Miss Aiken, a lady missionary who belongs to the Steubenville Presbytery Missionary society and who has worked in Siam and other foreign countries. A large crowd was present, no admission being charged. The lecture was very interesting and was enjoyed by all. Miss Aiken very thoroughly explained the manners and customs of the inhabitants of Siam and also told about their religion.

Rat Killing.

A trap of five live rats were turned loose at 9 o'clock this morning on the public square. They were killed by two rat terrier pups in less than three minutes' time. Quite a crowd gathered at the square and witnessed the killing, which was quite interesting.

Street Grading Started.

Work was started this morning by Contractor Rinehart on the grading of Steubenville street, near the intersection of Kelly avenue, in accordance with an action of council a few days ago.

Run Over By a Wagon.

The 2-year-old daughter of Israel Craig, of Nevada street, was run down at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon by a horse and buggy driven by a small boy at the corner of Sixteenth and Main streets. The little girl had been playing and ran into the street directly in front of the horse. When picked up it was found that she had received a serious cut on the forehead and was otherwise shaken up. Four stitches were required to close the gash in her head.

VERY COMPLETE

Is What People Say of Our New Store.

There is one part a great many people do not know the completeness of.

It is our Carpet Department. Do you know that there are only two or three larger departments in the city of Pittsburg than you will find here within sight of your home?

If you are looking for the cheapest things you can buy we don't think that you'll make much money by coming here---you'll find them everywhere.

But if you are looking for "goods of quality," goods which have wear and style to them, goods which will cost but a trifle, if any, more than cheap stuff, and if you want to see not a few samples, but a variety, you'll find it here.

At any rate, come and see the

A Remarkable Petition.

The keeper of the menagerie at Versailles during the reign of Louis XVI. had orders to administer six bottles of burgundy every day to a dromedary which had grown feeble with old age and which the king was very anxious to keep alive. In spite of this ultra generous treatment the animal died, to the great despair of his nurse, who petitioned the king with a view of obtaining the "succession of the dromedary"—that is to say, all the advantages attached to his person.

Odd Ideas.

Some of the Virginia applicants for registration as voters give queer answers to the questions asked them. One negro thought the general assembly was "you three gentlemen sitting there," with a bow to the registrars. Another thought it was "a place in the woods where they went to worship the Lord." A third negro was asked to explain the freedom of the press. "When you get in a crowd, shove as much as you please," he replied.

Women In Command.

In several villages of Finland the woman has authority, for a religious sect exists there whose disciples are forced to marry and to take a vow to submit to the wife in all things. The women choose one of their number for governing head, whose duty it is to see that the men behave themselves and to punish them if they transgress. Similar are the "Purificants" of Liberia, who also recognize the supremacy of women.

Reward of Merit.

Papa—Where did you get that dollar?

Little Son—That's the one you gave me on my birthday.

Papa—My, my! And you haven't spent it? Here's another dollar.

Little Son—Thank you. I hope mamma won't borrow this one, like she did the other. She just paid it back.

Two Signs.

"To snuff a candle out accidentally is a sign of marriage."

"Yes, and to turn down a lamp intentionally is a sign of courtship."

MITCHELL MET QUAY AND PENROSE

Held Conference With Pennsylvania Senators. In New York.

The Senators Refused to See Reporters, After the Meeting Was Over. Mitchell Announced Receiving Word That 260 Locals Voted Unanimously to Stay Out—This Left Not More Than 40 or 50 to Hear From. Even Strikers Not Members of the Union Decided to Remain on Strike.

New York, Oct. 9.—President John Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers' association, arrived at the Pennsylvania depot in Jersey City last night, having come on a Lehigh Valley train from Wilkesbarre, Pa. With him were District Presidents Nicholls, Fahy and Duffy. They went immediately to the Ashland house, this city.

At 10 o'clock Mr. Mitchell called up Wilkesbarre by telephone, the reason being that he had expected some telegrams which he did not find awaiting him. Shortly after this he turned to the newspaper men and said:

Men Resolved to Remain Out.

"Information has been conveyed to me by 'phone that a total of 260 local unions have reported unanimous votes against resuming work. The men are not deterred from going to work through any fear of bodily harm, but are resolved to remain out until the differences between them and the operators are arbitrated, or until they are ordered to return by their leaders.

"This leaves not more than 40 or 50 local unions to hear from yet. The unanimous action includes the votes of strikers not members of the union, but who were present at the meetings and voted with the union men."

At 11 o'clock President Mitchell and two of the district presidents went from the Ashland house to the Fifth Avenue hotel, where Senators Quay and Penrose, of Pennsylvania, and Louis N. Hammerling, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., were registered.

Mitchell, Quay and Penrose Confer.

President Mitchell's conference with Senators Quay and Penrose lasted for an hour and three-quarters. At its conclusion Mr. Mitchell returned to the Ashland house. He declined to say a word as to his talk with the senators, and the latter left word with the clerk at the Fifth Avenue hotel that they would not see anyone, instructing the clerk to refuse the cards of any persons who might wish to interview them.

Manufacturers' Committee Issued Notice Coal Men Were Unable to Meet Them.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—The visit to this city of the committee representing the National Association of Manufacturers for the purpose of conferring with the presidents of the anthracite coal carrying roads, who last week met President Roosevelt and the officials of the miners' union at Washington, appears to have been fruitless. The committee arrived here early yesterday morning and spent the greater part of the day at the Manufacturers' club awaiting the appearance of the presidents, but none of the latter answered, in person at least, the request of the committee for a conference. Last night the committee issued the following vague statement:

"The committee of the National Association of Manufacturers came to Philadelphia after meeting John Mitchell and his associates at Buffalo on Tuesday, for the purpose of considering measures by which the coal strike could be ended, and this committee will meet again Oct. 14.

Baer Knew Nothing of Committee.

After the members of the committee had breakfasted they dispatched a messenger to the office of President Baer, of the Reading company, announcing that they were ready to meet the presidents. The nature of Mr. Baer's reply is not known, but in answer to a question the railroad president said: "I know nothing about the committee." He declined to make any further statement.

President Parry said invitations to meet the committee had been sent to all of the presidents who had met President Roosevelt last week and that favorable replies had been received from three of them. He would not, however, divulge their names.

During the afternoon President Parry, in an interview, said: "The strike has reached what we now believe is the crisis. We were in hopes of meeting the operators today, but owing to the short notice they received they were unable to be present."

COULD LINE FEEDER

THIS, IT IS SAID, IS THE LISBON RAILROAD'S DESTINY.

A Line from Minerva to East Liverpool a Part of Contemplated Plans.

The report that the Goulds have purchased the Lisbon road and propose to extend it to East Liverpool has been confirmed in a part at least, says a Cleveland dispatch, and now the movement is taking a new turn. It is said, for instance, that instead of making the connection with the Wheeling & Lake Erie at Steubenville, as was first announced, that a road will be built from Minerva, on one of the spurs of the Wheeling, to East Liverpool, where valuable freight connections will be made. In fact the whole line is to be a freight feeder for the Gould lines and by this connection the Goulds are hoping to get into the iron district of the valleys.

The recently purchased road brings them to New Castle, and other extensions will be built which will give them some of the iron tonnage of that district. It is also possible that a line will be built from Minerva to Navarre to complete the through line to the west. These reports are all in the rumor stage as yet not having received official confirmation of any kind. As reasonable propositions, however, they have a certain credence attached to them.

LETTER CARRIERS' MEET

Election of Officers By Local Association—Coming Social Events.

At the October meeting of the local branch of the National Association of Letter Carriers No. 577, held in its rooms in the Ikirt building, much business was transacted, among which was the election of officers for the ensuing year as follows: Alsinus Swaney, president; W. M. Carey, recording and financial secretary; P. F. McCloskey, vice-president; John W. Suter, sergeant at arms; John W. Sellers, treasurer.

By a unanimous vote of the carriers, Postmaster W. H. Surles was elected an honorary member of the branch.

The local organization has in view many social events for the coming winter, and contemplate giving its initial ball in the early part of the New Year. The boys have placed their orders for winter uniforms, caps and leggins with a firm in Cincinnati and expect to don them November 1.

PUSHING THE WORK

Force Increased on the New C. & P. Bridge at the Flint Mill.

W. M. Ford & Co., Cleveland, contractors for the new C. & P. bridge near the flint mill, are pushing the work as fast as possible. Considerable delay has been caused by the scarcity of men and the failure of the needed material to arrive.

Contractor Ford now has a force of about 50 men at work upon the masonry, but it is doubtful if the work will be finished by the first of January. Thirty-five men arrived from Pittsburg Monday morning and were put to work upon the job.

Gained Thirty Pounds in Thirty Days.

For several months our younger brother had been troubled with indigestion. He tried several remedies but got no benefit from them. We purchased some of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and he commenced taking them. Inside of thirty days he had gained forty pounds in flesh. He is now fully recovered. We have a good trade on the tablets. Holley Bros., Merchants, Long Branch, Mo. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger.

QUICKLY DECIDED TO SETTLE CLAIM

Non-Support Case From the East End Compromised By Mutual Agreement.

Having refused since the third day of July last to contribute to the support of a minor child, Frankie, aged 15 months, when he has had steady employment at good wages and is well able to do so, Jesse McBee, a cooper at an East End pottery, was arrested last evening and taken before 'Squire McCarron.

The affidavit causing his arrest was sworn to by his mother-in-law, Mrs. Sarah J. Wise, who alleged that she had taken care of the child since the date named and had not received one cent from its father. She also alleged that McBee has owed her $15 for necessaries, such as potatoes, meat, etc., for over a year. The latter claim, however, was not considered in the charge as preferred.

When arraigned McBee pleaded not guilty and attempted to show the court that he was innocent. He said that he and his wife and baby had lived at the home of his sister-in-law prior to the time that the baby was taken in charge by Mrs. Wise and that he had paid the board for all of them in full, and even paid $6 to his sister-in-law the week after his wife left, with the understanding that it suffice for the keeping of the child. He also stated that on last Saturday night he paid $1.50 to his wife, expecting her to pay it to Mrs. Wise.

Mrs. Minnie McBee, wife of the defendant, corroborated the testimony given by Mrs. Wise, and inasmuch as McBee acknowledged that he had only paid $7.50 toward the support of the child and that not to Mrs. Wise, the court held that he was guilty of felony and bound him over to common pleas court in the sum of $300.

The seriousness of the charge then became apparent to McBee and he commenced to weaken, especially after the 'squire read the law pertaining to a case of non-support. According to the revised statutes a man convicted of the crime can be sentenced to the penitentiary for three years and be made pay an enormous fine. Before giving Constable Powell orders to commit McBee to the city jail, preparatory to his being sent to the county jail at Lisbon, the 'squire informed the defendant that if he and the plaintiff could compromise the affair the case would be dropped.

McBee was only too willing to settle the matter, and when Mrs. Wise stated that she would be willing to care for the child for $1 per week he agreed to pay that much to the 'squire each week. The costs in the case amounted to $5, and McBee gave an order on the firm for which he works for the amount.

Brain Food Nonsense.

Another ridiculous food fad has been branded by the most competent authorities. They have dispelled the silly notion that one kind of food is needed for brain, another for muscles, and still another for bones. A correct diet will not only nourish a particular part of the body, but it will sustain every other part. Yet, however good your food may be, its nutriment is destroyed by indigestion or dyspepsia. You may prepare for their appearance or prevent their coming by taking regular doses of Green's August Flower, the favorite medicine of the healthy millions. A few doses aids digestion, stimulates the liver to healthy action, purifies the blood, and makes you feel buoyant and vigorous. You can get the reliable remedy at Charles F. Craig's.

Always in the Lead.

The Union Pacific was the first line to introduce Dining cars, Vestibulted cars, steam heat, Pintsch light, Buffet smoking and Library cars, Tourist cars on Trans-Continental trains west of the Missouri river, and contiues to lead. Is first in equipment; first in speed; first in important improvements; first in stupendous engineering enterprises; first in historic interest; first in scenic attractions.

It again leads by introducing an electric lighted train throughout, "The Overland Limited," with Observation cars, barber shops, bath rooms and telephone service.

This famous train makes the run from Omaha to Salt Lake City 12 hours quicker, from San Francisco 16 hours quicker, and from Portland 16 hours quicker than any other train.

MILITIA IN ANTHRACITE REGION.

Whole Pennsylvania Guard Now In Strike Section—Strikers Not Disposed to Annoy Them.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—The entire national guard of Pennsylvania was camped last night in the anthracite coal regions, the last regiment from the western part of the state having arrived late yesterday afternoon.

Contrary to expectations the troops were well received and there was no disposition on the part of the strikers to annoy the soldiers. There was only one instance during the day of any show of feeling, and this was manifest at Betnlehem, when some boys stoned the second section of the train bearing the First regiment from Philadelphia.

Universal quiet reigned throughout the entire region. Brigadier General Schall, who arrived in Tamaqua yesterday afternoon, telegraphed to Major General Miller that there was no disturbance of any kind in the district. The soldiers who arrived yesterday were all scattered throughout Schuylkill, Luzerne, Carbon and Northumberland counties.

Where Troops Are Placed.

The first brigade is quartered as follows:

First regiment and a detail of Battery A, at Hazleton; Second regiment and a detail of Battery A, New Philadelphia; Third regiment, Minersville; Sixth regiment and City Troop, at Tamaqua. The latter organizations will take care of the operations in the Panther Creek valley.

The second brigade is quartered as follows: Tenth regiment, Shamokin; Fourteenth regiment, Mahanoy City; Fifth regiment, Ashland; Eighteenth regiment, Shenandoah.

The fact that all the locals throughout the anthracite region have voted unanimously to continue the strike would indicate that the presence of the troops will have but little effect upon forcing the men to return to work, and from present indications it would seem that the settlement of the strike is no nearer a solution than it has been for many weeks.

ACTION AGAINST COAL RAILWAYS

Philadelphian Wants Anthracite Roads' Combination Declared Illegal.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—Frank H. Thompson, of this city, began proceedings yesterday in the United States circuit court to have the Philadelphia and Reading railway, the Central Railroad of New Jersey, the Lehigh Valley railroad, the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad, the Delaware and Hudson railroad and the New York, Ontario and Western railroad companies declared an illegal combination, because they are engaged in an unlawful restraint of the anthracite coal supply.

Mr. Thompson also requested that the representatives of the companies "be restrained and prohibited from meeting together for the purpose of fixing the rate of coal or market price thereof."

M'KINLEY MEMORIAL TRUSTEES.

To Hold First Annual Meeting, Saturday, Oct. 25.

Cleveland, Oct. 9.—The first annual meeting of the trustees of the McKinley National Memorial association will be held in Canton, on Saturday, Oct. 25. The president of the association, former Secretary of State William R. Day, has issued the call. A full attendance of the trustees is already assured.

The association's first anniversary date is Oct. 10. On that date last year it was formally organized in the office of Senator Hanna, in this city. The annual reports of Treasurer Myron T. Herrick and Secretary Ritchie will be submitted at the coming meeting, together with reports from the auxiliary associations in the several states and territories. These reports will show the collections by divisions and in the aggregate for the country at large. Subjects of interest to the association and its work for the coming year will be discussed. The tomb of the late president will be visited and in all probability the site for the memorial will be chosen.

'TIS TRUE

The Proof Lies In East Liverpool Testimony.

It is not hard to prove the claims made for Doan's Kidney Pills. Scores of people in East Liverpool testify to their merit. Surely the evidence from friends and neighbors, plain statements of their experience, is better proof than the testimony of people residing in some far-away place. Read the following:

Mr. William Torrence, fireman at engine house No. 1 says: "For some time I was annoyed with symptons of either weakened or over-excited kidneys. I had noticed more than one recommendation made byp eople living in East Liverpool about Doan's Kidney Pills, and thinking that if the medicine performed half what it promised it might help me, I bought a box at Larkins' Drug Store. The treatment cured me."

Sold for 50 cents per box by all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

RECOVERY IN PRICES OF STOCKS.

Brought About by Relief From Credit Contraction by the Banks, Tuesday.

New York, Oct. 9.—There was decided relief yesterday from the pressure of the credit contraction by the banks, and the result was a sharp recovery in the prices of stocks. The demand to cover short contracts by the bears was a considerable factor, as the recent heavy declines have made operators on that side of the market bold and quite active. There was some show of enthusiasm in the early buying and considerable gains were established.

The enthusiasm, however, did not last the day out and the bears regained some confidence and ceased their efforts to cover. Some points of strength persisted to the last, notably Union Pacific, but the market generally became somewhat apathetic and closing prices were generally below the best. A stiffening in the money rate late in the day to 15 per cent and a heavy selling movement in Amalgamated Copper helped to unsettle the late dealings.

MAY FINISH WORK TOMORROW

Ohio Legislative Conference Code Committee Worked on Bill Yesterday and Last Night.

Columbus, O., Oct. 9.—The conference committee on the municipal code bill was in session during yesterday afternoon and continued its meeting last night. The section providing for the retention of the present franchise laws, with the unconstitutional features eliminated, was accepted, as was also the curative act, as passed by the senate. This regrants the Cincinnati Traction company its franchise. The senate act, which was accepted by the committee, does not differ from that of the house, except in brevity. The prospects are that the committee will conclude its labors on the code tomorrow.

RIOT IN NEW ORLEANS.

More Than 100 Shots Fired—Incident to Street Car Strike.

New Orleans, Oct. 9.—The attempt yesterday morning of the New Orleans Railways company to start cars on its lines, which have been completely tied up for about 11 days, precipitated a long impending conflict between the strikers and those who attempted to fill their places.

Although 100 shots were fired, nobody was killed. Among those more seriously injured were six policemen, a dozen non-union men and one striker.

Mayor Capdevielle, who requested Governor Heard to order out the militia, was advised that Major General Glynn, in command of the First military district, would report to the mayor this morning. The street railways company announced its determination to run its cars today.

SOME TRI-STATE EVENTS.

Burglars blew open the safe in the ticket office of the Pittsburg and Western station, in Allegheny City, Pa., and got away with between $600 and $800. There is no clew.

The conference between representatives of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers and the American Tin Plate company, at Pittsburg, ended without any wage agreement being completed.

One negro will die and three were badly hurt as a result of a blast in the Wabash tunnel, at Pittsburg, going off prematurely.

Two borough councilmen of Bellevue, near Pittsburg, got into a fist fight and for a time pandemonium reigned in the session of the city fathers.

One Fatally Burned In Beaumont Fire.

Beaumont, Texas, Oct. 9.—Reports received yesterday estimated the loss by Tuesday night's fire in the oil fields from $100,000 to $250,000. Rumors of loss of life have proved untrue, although one man was probably fatally burned while working at the top of a derrick.

Two Negroes Lynched.

New Bern, Tenn., Oct. 6.—Garfield Burley and Curtis Brown, negroes were lynched here last night by a mob of 500 persons. Burley shot and killed D. Flatt, a well-known farmer near Dyersburg, last Saturday. Flatt had traded horses with the negro and later Burley demanded that the trade be declared off. Flatt refused and Burley killed him. Burley named Brown as his accomplice.

Harry Tod Killed by Train.

Youngstown, O., Oct. 9.—An automobile containing Harry Tod, John Tod, Frank Silver and Charles Stitt was run down by an Erie train yesterday. Harry Tod was instantly killed and Charles Stitt received slight injuries. The others escaped injury. Harry Tod was a son of Harry Tod, a prominent capitalist, and a grandson of the late Governor Tod, of Ohio.

Ohio Woman's Suffrage Association.

Cleveland, Oct. 9.—At yesterday's session of the Ohio Woman's Suffrage association the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton, Warren, president; Mrs. Sarah A. Bissell, Toledo, vice president; Dr. Carrie Chase Davis, Sandusky, recording secretary; Edith E. Root, Kinsman, corresponding secretary; Dr. Sarah M Siewers, Cincinnati, treasurer; Mrs Anna M. Hobson, Athens, auditor; Mrs. Frances M. Casement, Painesville, honorary president.

Sleeplessness and indigestion are the result of an impoverished condition of the blood. The system does not receive the proper nutrition from what little food that is forced upon the unwilling stomach, and a weakened condition in general follows. Improper digestive functions also have a depressing effect on the bowels, and quite natural constipation is added to the list, and so on troubles multiply until matters become indeed serious. It's never too late to take Wright's Celery Tea because if a cure is possible this efficient remedy will bring it about. It is a combination of the curative, healing properties of the celery plant and many other highly remedial herbs, which acts on the proper cause and restores perfect health. Pleasant to take. Claimed Killed Wife During Fit.

Traverse City, Mich., Oct. 9.—After being out 22½ hours, a jury yesterday found John A. Hargraves guilty of manslaughter. Hargraves last April choked his invalid wife and beat her to death with a club in a bedroom of their home in this city. The principal defense was that if he had killed the woman it was while he was having a fit, to which he was subject, and he could remember nothing of it.

Don't Fail to get in with the Train Loads Bound for the New City that's to be built upon Pottery by the greatest China Producing Industries in the World.

Derry, Pa.

46 miles East of Pittsburg, on main line P. R. R.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 11

THE plant of the Derry China Company, now being built, covers 20 acres of ground, networked with tracks from the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad, whose train yards are at this point, making it the congregating center for at least 1,000 railroad men. The first building the Derry China Company will have finished is 500 x 132 feet, and many other buildings will compare favorably in size with this first structure.

There will be five immense potteries to start with and 2,000 people employed. There will also be the Keeling & Ridge Brick and Tile Co.'s big works, which will employ several hundred men and turn out from 75,000 to 125,000 bricks daily besides an enormous amount of fine exterior and interior tile products. There will also be a splendid electric light plant to supply the streets and busines houses, factories and homes with illumination. There will be a number of other industries, as negotiations are in progress between the Derry Land Company and several big corporations who desire to locate in Derry.

You will understand how things are progressing when we tell you 1,000 men are now at work giving the city metropolitan improvements—streets are being sewered, graded, paved, curbed, and provided with sidewalks. Purchasers who may purchase business sites before the improvements have been finished will be guaranteed improvements in the contracts. Street cars will run from Derry to Johnstown, Blairsville, Saltsburg, Indiana, Latrobe, Greensburg, Jeannette and Pittsburg. The line is now being projected. Another thing investors, and especially home-seekers should not forget is that Derry will have the finest water supply in the state, if not in the United States. The great natural lake, fed by mountain springs, contains 178,000, gallons, enough to supply a city of 500,000 population. This is more water than Highland Reservoir No. 2 in Pittsburgh holds, and in addition to it Derry has two large mountain reservoirs. Her water supply is inexhaustable. Not only inexhaustable but pure.

Government Statistics!

YOU get a true conception of what this extensive pottery industry will do for Derry when you stop to look into the facts which built up East Liverpool. Thirty-two potteries there paid out a large volume of wages in one year than any other thirty-two industries in the United States with the same amount of money invested. This truth was incorporated in the United States Goverment Statistics for the year 1901.

Of the 4,109 voters in East Liverpool, which has a population of 21,000, 3,000 are either buying or already they own homes in which they live. But there's a tremendous difference between the opportunity at East Liverpool and the opportunity at Derry. Derry is only at the beginning of her destiny, and on this aecount real estate prices are at a depth which affords investors a chance to come in and get rich. They can buy at ground floor prices impossible in a town that is already built up, and when the works are completed they have made a profit on their lot that would take them ten years to earn, should they buy in a city that has reached its commercial supremacy.

Therefore, the future for the potter, the clay-worker, or investor, is at Derry, where he can purchase property at one-fifth the prices it is selling for at any other pottery center, and he is sure of extra good employment, because the field of labor is not overcrowded. Derry's cry for help will not go out from the throats of the artisans, but from the employers who need artisans. Who can say that such a place is not the ideal spot for a man with a little money to plant a few dollars in and then live within his cherished garden until its fruits make him independent.

When Isaac A. Harvey and Isaae A. Knowles erected the first pottery in East Liverpool, little did they dream that the town wonld grow and create the wealth that is now there. Yet every potter center that has been founded in America since that time has opened the eyes of the world and astonished the British, Austrian, and German nations, who in former years had a monopoly of the American Market.

Big Wages!

AS a rule a potter earns better wages and lives better than any other class of workmen in the United States. His hours of employment are the shortest. He starts to work at 7 A. M., stops for a second breakfast at 9:30 to 10 A. M., goes to dinner at noon, and quits work at 4 P.M. This gives him leisure moments for shopping, out door sports and and society. These leisure hours make hin the greatest liver on earth and as a consequence the greatest shopper. Where there are potteries of magnitude there are always a large number of good stores. This is a point investors and business men, who desire to locate in a new town where they can build up a splendid business, should not overlook. If you get in now you can pick some great store sites on Harvey and Owens Avenues. We are sure that any of these sites can be resold before spring at an advance of $1,000 over present prices. Very choice lots that you can purchase today at $750 will be worth not a dollar less than $3,000 by next June and may go to $4,500 or $5,000.

These statements may seem erratic, but when you look at the pottery town of Sebring, Ohio, which can never have the future that the recently discovered, unequaled natural resources will establish at Derry, you begin to realize that we are printing facts based upon precedent—statements that can be relied upon. If there be an investor who doubts the authenticity of this assertion the Derry Land Company is in a position to make the matter clearer in a personal interview, as there are projects on foot which which would take more space to print than is at our command.

TERMS

Ten per cent. down, balance three per cent. per month, ten per cent. discount for cash when paid within sixty days.

These terms and prices are subject to change on any of the lots remaining unsold after date of the FREE EXCURSION as the object of this sale is to get building operations started at once, so that the men who come to work in the Derry China Company's immense new plant will have roofs to cover them. In fact, no such quality of property was ever offered before in a positively REMARKABLE MONEY-MAKING locality at the figures that will be the sensation of this occasion.

Some business lots on Harvey and Owens avenues and a few residence lots are commanding a view of the great lake of MOUNTAIN SPRING WATER will be offered at prices a little higher than $600, but in no case will the prices asked approach the sum that the lots can be resold for after the excitement of the early hours has subsided and investors realize how subsfantial a community is to be established.

Brief Notes of a Personal Nature And of Matters About Town.

Child's Shoulder Broken—Emma, the little daughter of Daniel Woods, of Waterloo street, fell from a merry-go-round where she was playing and broke her shoulder.

To Entertain the Society—Mrs. W. H. Vodrey will entertain the members of the Girl's Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church at her home next Saturday afternoon.

For National Trustee—Among the nominations for national officers of the Daughters of Liberty convention at Cincinnati is that of J. E. Anderson, of this city, for national trustee. He is unopposed.

Camera Club Exhibit—The Camera club has been granted the lecture room of the Carnegie Public library. On November 10 the members will hold an exhibition in this room which will b free to all, and will last a week.

Attending the Fair—Mayor Davidson and quite a number of other local lovers of horse racing left this morning for Steubenville to attend the fair. Several East Liverpool horses are scheduled to race today, and it is predicted that they will come out with a good share of the prize money.

Rev. J. G. Reinartz Elected.

The eighty-eighth conference of the Pittsburg Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran church which has been in session in Pittsburg for two days, adjourned yesterday afternoon. Many interesting and instructive papers were read during the meeting. Rev. J. G. Reinartz, of this city, was elected president of the Central Mission league. Delegates to this League meeting from the local church were Miss Tillie Agner and Miss Kahrs.

Coming to Town Soon.

A new voter will soon locate in Liverpool township, coming across the border from St. Clair township, to take up his residence in the Klondike section. "Uncle" Daniel J. Smith, of Mt. Pisgah, has purchased property in the East and is now arranging to erect a modern dwelling. Work is to start soon, and it is expected that he will be able to move from the country by the first of the year.

consideration of it was postponed until next Tuesday, when it will come up for final action. The house bill making available the next year's salaries of the members and providing for an appropriation to cover the pay due the legislative attaches for services rendered during the special session was passed. Resolutions were adopted as follows: By Archer, authorizing a committee to purchase at a cost of $300 each, portraits of Lieutenant Governors Caldwell and Nippert; by Godfrey, setting apart two rooms in the relic department of the state house for the use of the state library; by Beal, urging congress to reinstate Col. William Welch, of Cadiz, to his former rank in the army. Bills were passed authorizing the trustees of the Boys' Industrial Home to grant paroles and re-hear cases to trial judges; permitting Lake Erie fishermen to catch and market black bass; correcting the lines of a special school district at Sherodsville, Carroll county. The house amendments to the Harrison library bills were concurred in.

Unless the Democrats recede from the position they have taken there will be no police court legislation at this session. The Republicans cannot pass a bill to provide for this without help from the Democrats. Unfortunately all the police court laws have been repealed, and unless the Democrats yield all such judicial districts will be abolished after November 15.

Hon. I. B. Cameron, state treasurer, will deliver an address on the subject, "Public Funds," before the Ohio State Bankers' association, which will meet in annual session at Cincinnati on October 16. A number of distinguished speakers will be present, among whom will be Former Secretary of State Daniel R. Ryan, who is connected with some of the leading business enterprises of the state.

EXCITING BOWLING MATCH

Played Last Evening By the Imperials Against a Picked Team of the City.

An exciting bowling contest was engaged in by the Imperials and a picked team on the Craig-Carnahan alleys last evening. A large crowd of fanciers of the game were present and witnessed the defeat of the picked team. The individual and total scores follow:

Picked team—Hancock, 123, 146, 158; McBride, 153, 141, 141; Shultz, 138, 117, 146; McCord, 165, 160, 107, Firth, 140, 128, 127.

Another contest will likely be played this week. The Wellsville team, which landed the championship of the county last year, is also negotiating for a series with the Imperials. They will probably play some evening next week.

Navigating the Elbe.

A curious means of moving boats is employed on the river Elbe—a chain 200 miles long at the bottom of the stream, which is too swift to navigate in the usual way. The boats are 180 feet long and provided with 200 horse-power steam engines which turn a drum fastened on the deck. The chain comes in over the bow, passing along on rollers to the drum, around which it is wound three times. The chain is then carried to the stern, where it drops back into the water. The steamers tow five barges containing 1,500 tons.

STRIKERS ARE FIRM.

Anthracite Miners' Lodges Voted to Not Return to Work.

MITCHELL ANSWERS ROOSEVELT

Miners, In Resolutions, Offer to Help Maintain Peace—Praise Roosevelt's Efforts—Denounce Stone's Action. Express Confidence in Mitchell.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 9.—Unless President Mitchell's hurried visit to New York bears fruit, the end of the mine workers' strike seems a long way off and the prospects of sufficient coal being mined to satisfy the public demand is extremely poor. Every local union of the miners' organization through the length and breadth of the hard coal belt held special meetings either Tuesday night or yesterday and resolved to remain on strike until the mine owners granted them some concession.

Mitchell Replied to Roosevelt.

And while the reports of these meetings came pouring in to Wilkesbarre by telegraph, train and messenger, President Mitchell dictated a letter to the president of the United States, in which he gave his answer to the proposition that the strikers return to work and trust to have their condition improved through an investigating commission. What was the answer of the miners' chief he refuses to divulge, but it is difficult to conceive that with the replies of the local unions piled around him how he could do otherwise than respectfully decline the president's proposition. Mr. Mitchell sent his letter to Washington before he had heard from all the locals, and at 3 o'clock in the afternoon he packed his grip and, accompanied by the three district presidents, left for New York.

His Mission a Secret.

His mission there is also a secret, and his sudden departure caused much speculation. As New York is the headquarters of the coal operators a rumor spread that a settlement was in prospective, but as Mr. Mitchell and his colleagues would not say whom they expected to meet, all eyes are for the time being turned toward the metropolis.

It was a busy day for the miners, especially the officials, about headquarters. From early morning until late last night the returns came in constantly. Last evening the corps of newspaper correspondents stationed here were invited to examine the reports, and not one was found that was not couched in firm language.

Contents of Miners' Resolutions.

Briefly stated, the resolutions in these reports affirm the confidence of the men in the integrity and judgment of their president, praise President Roosevelt for his efforts to end the strike, denounce the presidents of the coal carrying railroads for their alleged abuse of the chief executive at the conference in Washington, denounce the employment of the coal and iron police, offer to assist the authorities in maintaining peace, thank all organizations and citizens throughout the country for the financial assistance given, regret the presence of the troops, denounce Governor Stone for sending them here, and some of the resolutions say the men will remain away from the mines all winter, or "until the bluebirds call again." Excepting those from the Hazleton district, which were almost identical in phraseology, the resolutions were different from one another. Nearly every one, however, contained a sentence to the effect that the men are not afraid to return to work because of the alleged lack of protection, but will remain out "though all the troops in the United States were sent here," and until they are granted some concessions.

DEMAND SEIZING OF MINES.

Philadelphia Central Labor Union Committee Tells Gov. Stone That Was Best Strike Remedy.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 9.—Formal demand was made upon Governor Stone yesterday to seize the hard coal mines in this state and operate them in the interest of the people. The governor referred the matter to Attorney General Elkin and it is expected that official will furnish the executive with a written opinion when he returns from Indiana.

The demand was made in the form of resolutions adopted by the Central Labor union of Philadelphia and was presented by a committee from that organization.

The committee told the governor that the best means of a speedy settlement of the strike was to enforce that clause of the constitution which prohibits railroad companies from mining coal.

ORDERED TO MEET GUIDI.

Paya Told to See Him at Manila, Even if He Has to Disappoint Chapelle.

Rome, Oct. 9.—Archbishop Guidi, apostolic delegate in the Philippines, on his own responsibility, has instructed Rev. Santiago Paya, provincial of the Order of Dominicans in the Philippine islands, who is at present in Spain and who intends to shortly proceed from there to Manila, to meet him on his arrival at Manila, even if he has to leave without seeing Archbishop Chapelle, the apostolic delegate to Cuba and Porto Rico, who in a recent communication begged Father Paya to await his approaching arrival in Rome, as he wished to confer with him.

Archbishop Guidi is anxious to confer with the provincials of all the orders, so as to hasten the solution of the questions concerning the friars in the Philippines as much as possible.

PITTSBURG M. E. CONFERENCE.

Seventy-Ninth Annual Session Begun In Pittsburg—Welcome Exercises Held.

BISHOP FITZGERALD.

the first session for the reason that only about half the ministers from the five districts embraced in the Pittsburg conference were present.

A meeting of the conference board of examiners was held in the afternoon, at which candidates for the ministry were listened to.

The conference was informally opened last night by the Rev. D. B. F. Beazell, of the Blairsville conference, who offered up a prayer. Addresses of welcome were made by the Revs. E. R. Donehoo, W. R. Thompson, R. B. Davidson, T. J. Gaehr and by John Weaver. Responses were delivered by the Rev. Bishop J. N. Fitzgerald, of St. Louis, the Revs. H. L. Chapman and J. W. Miles. Captain John A. Wood presided at the meeting.

ALTOONA MERCHANT ACQUITTED

Decision In Conspiracy Case, Caused by Wages Attachment.

Hollidaysburg, Pa., Oct. 9.—John H. Miller, an Altoona merchant, was acquitted in the Blair county court yesterday in a prosecution against him alleging conspiracy with W. W. Rogers, of Wheeling, W. Va., to attach the wages of his debtors in violation of the laws of Pennsylvania. Miller had assigned his store accounts against Pennsylvania railroad workmen to Mr. Rogers, who began attachment proceedings against the railroad in the West Virginia courts.

Sixty other merchants are being prosecuted on similar charges. This is the first trial of this character in the state. Almost 1,000 attachment cases, involving claims for $125,000, have been brought against railroad workmen who reside in this county.

Bragg to Leave Havana.

Washington, Oct. 9.—Edward S. Bragg, consul general at Havana, has been transferred to the post of United States consul general at Hong Kong, taking the place of William A. Rublee, who has been transferred to the consulate at Havana. General Bragg made a disparaging statement regarding the Cubans, in a letter to his wife, which was, without his intention, made public.

To Improve John Brown House.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 9.—Action has been taken by the forest, fish and game commissioners for the permanent improvement of the famous John Brown house at North Elba. The commission will ask the legislature for a fund of $1,500. The commission believes this sum will suffice for the purpose.

PRESIDENT SAW G.A.R.

Rode In Carriage Along Line of Old Soldiers In the Parade.

VETERANS' STEPS WERE FIRM.

Hardly a Faltering Marcher Seen In Whole Line—Providence Blessed Them With Perfect Weather—Spectators Were Enthusiastic.

Washington, Oct. 9.—The parade of the G. A. R. veterans yesterday was the climax of the thirty-sixth encampment of their order. Beginning at a few minutes past 10 o'clock, when the head of the column moved from its station at the Capitol, it was almost 5 o'clock when the last squad in the line had passed the place of disbandment, west of the White House. None of the soldiers were marching any great part of the time, for the entire line of march did not exceed two and a half miles in length, but those who composed the rear detachments were on their feet practically all day, much of the time being consumed in waiting to take their places in the line. The route of the parade was down historic Pennsylvania avenue, along which many of them marched as raw recruits in going to the war in 1861 and 1862, and many others on the occasion of the grand review after the close of the war in 1865. The participants in the imposing pageant entered with life and vigor into the spirit of the occasion. Each countenance bore evidence of the joy the experience brought to the individual, and it was plainly evident that there was in the occasion much of the restoration of youth for most of them. The "old boys" for the time being evidently were re-living the days of their youth. Not many of them exhibited traces of age in their marching. Almost without exception they walked along with alacrity and kept step with precision.

Providence Gave Perfect Weather.

Providence bestowed upon them perfect weather. The spectators were limited in numbers only by the capacity of the broad sidewalks, the stands, the parks, the windows and the house tops along the line of march to hold them. The government departments and the schools were closed for the day, and practically the entire population of Washington turned out to do honor to the veterans, along with the hundred thousand visitors to the city.

The president of the United States had himself driven up and down the line in a carriage. The unusual interest thus manifested was appreciated by the old soldiers and the president was everywhere received by them with loud applause.

More than five hours' time was consumed by the procession in passing the reviewing stand in front of the White House.

There were at least 25,000 men in line and the estimate of Commander-in-Chief Torrance ran as high as 30,000 men.

Last night the veterans held camp fires in the big tents in the White House lot.

GEN. STEWART IN THE LEAD.

Pennsylvanian May Be G. A. R. Commander—Cities Now After Encampment May Not Get It.

Washington, Oct. 9.—The three active candidates for the honor of entertaining the G. A. R., at the next annual encampment of the G. A. R. are Saratoga, Atlantic City and San Francisco. There seems to be quite a sentiment in favor of choosing some city between the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, and it is said that the encampment may go to neither of the three cities named if a city in the middle west actively pushes its claims.

The leading candidates for commander-in-chief are General Stewart, of Pennsylvania; General John C. Black, of Illinois; Colonel McElroy, of Washington, and General Daniel Sickles, of New York. General Stewart is thought to have the lead at present, though General Black's friends claim about an equal number of delegates pledged. For senior vice commander the race apparently lies between J. M. Smith, of Ohio and H. M. Orahood, of Colorado, with Mr. Shaw, of West Virginia, Assistant Adjutant General Averill, of West Virginia, and Mr. Calkins, of Oregon, contesting for the honor of being junior vice commander-in-chief.

Mitigating Circumstances.

"Are you aware of any mitigating circumstances in your case?" asked a magistrate of a negro convicted of stealing a coat.

"Yes, sah; lots ob 'em. Ef I had time, jedge, I could talk to you for a week on dat subject."

"If you know of any mitigating circumstance, please state it."

"Yes, sah; I'll tell you ob one right now, sah. How easy would it have been for me to bring my family inter disgrace and misery, sah. I jess remained single. I nebber married, sah. Anudder mitigatin' circumstance am"—

"Officer, remove the prisoner."

WHAT DO THEY FEAR?

Why Do Tom Johnson Democrats Dodge?

NO NATIONAL ISSUES ALLOWED.

Their Boss Forbids All Discussion of the Great Question Involved In Ohio's Vote For 21 Members of Congress—Nothing But His Fad to Be Talked About.

What is the matter with the great national questions, that the Ohio Democracy dodge them? Why has their new boss, just out of New York, passed the word along the line that there must be no talk about anything except his taxation theory, that is itself contrary to the constitution and statutes of the state?

Can it be that the party of Bryan and Cleveland and all the intervening shades of opinion, no longer cares to control the next congress? Perhaps the presidency itself and the preparation for the next campaign for that great office now have no attraction for the Tom Johnson Democrats. If so, why are they afraid to talk about the issues involved in the election of members of congress, 21 of them to be chosen in Ohio next month?

The "just taxation" of steam railroads and "home rule" are the only two topics about which Tom Johnson talks, or his accidental parson. Both are only state affairs, and both of these speakers in their campaign keynotes absolutely ignore all great national questions and refuse to touch upon them. The same seems to be enjoined upon the spell-binders of the Democratic party throughout the state, and we are blest with the precious spectacle of a party trying to elect candidates for congress who shall decide upon policies affecting every section of the nation and our relations with the entire world, but yet nothing said by the Ohio Democracy upon any question that will come before congress.

Home rule is a humbug in this case, for by Johnson's own words it has narrowed down to the question whether he shall be mayor of the city of Cleveland with power to do as he pleases without interference to the political machine he is building up and its $700,000 increase in the city's expenses in the past year. Home rule is a nice thing to be talked about in Ohio by a man who claimed New York as his residence less than two years ago. Home rule again is nice and proper when the mayor of Cleveland goes into the other counties of the state and dictates to their local Democracy in regard to their own candidates and tells who they shall support and who shall be bolted.

As to the just taxation of the steam railroads, the utter humbug of that was completely exposed to Johnson's face at his Columbus meeting by his own orator and advocate, "my friend, Mr. Clark," the Cleveland gold Democrat.

CAMPAIGN ETCHINGS.

They Eat Into the Metal of Johnson and His Parson.

Senator Hanna will find the full dinner pail here when he comes, and General Prosperity in charge of the ceremonies.—Iron Register.

When the tariff is revised the work should be done by protectionists, and not by the free traders, who threw the country into a panic a few years ago.

Tom Johnson says he is for Bryan, but not for Bryanism. Thus Tom admits that the Republicans are right on the money question.—Van Wert Bulletin.

Those who witnessed the Tom Johnson display here have come to the conclusion that it was being run simply in the interests of Tom Johnson.—Bowling Green Tribune.

We predict that 25 per cent of the Hancock county Democrats will stay at home on election day next November. They are happy as it is, and willing to let well enough alone.—Findlay Jeffersonian.

In 1890 there was $1,524,844,506 in deposits in the savings banks of the country. Last year the aggregate was $2,597,094,580. There is a prosperity argument which cannot be overcome—Toledo Blade.

While the Republican party is going ahead in all the ways of progress, the Democratic party is forever hanging onto the coattails of the world, crying "Whoa!" with all its might.—General Charles Grosvenor.

The Hon. John R. McLean of Washington and Bar Harbor, according to Tom Johnson, is a "nice man personally," and there is "no objection to him on that score," but he "stands for nothing but boodle in politics." Mr. Johnson's code of ethics seems to wabble a little.—Chicago Tribune.

The Democratic party in this state does not propose a measure by which things are to be improved, and not one of them has a probable betterment in view. The main object is: Place us in power, so that things may be done our way. Very properly the people will consider whether their officials and their way would make things better, and will say to themselves: Better let well enough alone.—Piqua Call.

TWO PERORATIONS.

From Hay's Eulogy on McKinley and Blaine's Eulogy on Garfield.

It is a curious coincidence that on Feb. 27, 1882, and on Feb. 27, 1902, a secretary of state of a murdered president delivered a eulogy of his dead chief before the houses of congress. Mr. Hay, primarily a writer, showed the essayist in his oration on McKinley. Mr. Blaine, primarily a speaker, showed the orator in his oration on Garfield. Here is the peroration of Hay's eulogy of McKinley:

There is not one of us but feels prouder of his native land because the august figure of Washington presided over its beginnings; no one but vows it a tenderer love because Lincoln poured out his blood for it; no one but must feel his devotion for his country renewed and kindled when he remembers how McKinley loved, revered and served it, showed in his life how a citizen should live and in his last hour taught us how a gentleman could die.

Blaine's oration on Garfield ended with this famous passage:

As the end drew near his early craving for the sea returned. The stately mansion of power had been to him the wearisome hospital of pain, and he begged to be taken from his prison walls, from its oppressive, stifling air, from its homelessness and its hopelessness. Gently, silently, the love of a great people bore the pale sufferer to the longed for healing of the sea to live or to die, as God should will, within sight of the heaving billows, within sound of its manifold voices. With a wan, fevered face, tenderly lifted to the cooling breeze, he looked out wistfully upon the ocean's changing wonders, on its far sails, on its restless waves rolling shoreward to break and die beneath the noonday sun; on the red clouds of evening, arching low to the horizon; on the serene and shining pathway of the stars. Let us think that his dying eyes read a mystic meaning which only the rapt and parting soul may know. Let us believe that in the silence of the receding world he heard the great waves breaking on a farther shore and felt already upon his wasted brow the breath of the eternal morning.

THE PARADISE FISH.

The oddest of all piscatorial rarities is the paradise fish of China. Like the German canary and one or two other species of bird and fish, this little finny beauty is the product of cultivation only, there being no place in the world where it is found in a wild state. In the land of the dragon they are kept and cultivated in ornamental aquariums, each succeeding generation of the little oddities exhibiting more diversified colors. The male is the larger of the two sexes, measuring when full grown three and a half inches. The body is shaped very much like that of a common pumpkin seed sunfish, its color surpassing in brilliancy any fish heretofore cultivated for the aquarium. The head of macropodus (that's his generic name) is ashy gray, mottled with irregular dark spots. The gills are azurine blue, bordered with brilliant crimson.

The eyes are yellow and red, with a black pupil. The sides of the body and the crescent shaped caudal fin are deep crimson, the former having from ten to twelve vertical blue stripes, while the latter is bordered with blue. The upper surface of the body is continually changing color—sometimes it is white, at others gray, black or blue. The dorsal and anal fins are remarkably large, hence its generic name—macro, large; podus, fin or foot. Both fins are shaped alike and are striped with brown and bordered with a bright blue. The dull colored ventral fins are protected by a brilliant scarlet colored spine, extending three-fourths of an inch behind the body of the fin. The pectoral fins are well shaped, but transparent and colorless.

Mounting a Horse.

A careful bicyclist learns to mount from either side of the wheel, since the emergency may arise at any moment, says the London Chronicle. One would think that the horseman would be equally careful to provide for possibilities and accustom himself to mounting indifferently from the off side and the near side. But if he were to venture to mount on the right side—which is the wrong side—in a hotel stable yard the hostler would probably demand the price of a gallon as the statutory fine, and the horse would collapse with surprise. What is the meaning of this convention? It appears in odd places. Not only does the trick horse in the circus canter from right to left, but the after dinner wine passes the same way. "The way of the sun" is the current explanation, which is absurd.

Willing to Go Without.

Henry Clews, perfectly bald, was once traveling on a western railroad. Sitting directly behind him was a coarse looking man with a rough shock of hair the color of brick dust.

Tapping Mr. Clews on the shoulder, the fellow remarked:

"Guess you wasn't around when they gave out the hair."

"Oh, yes," was the answer, "but I was a trifle late, and there was nothing left but that stuff you wear, so I told them I'd rather have none."—New York Times.

Pa Elucidates.

"Pa, what does 'absentminded' mean?"

"My boy, that's easy. Did you ever stop to think."

"Yes."

"And your thoughts ran on?"

"Yes."

"Well, that's it."—Indianapolis News.

NOTE THE CONTRAST.

National Record of Both Parties on the Trusts.

The Law Praised as Effective, Was Formed, Passed, Signed and Executed by Republicans—Democrats Did Nothing, Even When In Full Power, and Still Block the Way.

A verbatim report of the speeches at the Tom Johnson meeting in Columbus would bring out a number of interesting points. Of course it is very easy to recall the dignified and high-toned manner of the hero of the evening when he repeatedly referred to Representative Gear, from Wyandot county, as a dirty blackguard. One scarcely wonders that one of the local Democratic papers in referring to this editorially explains to its readers that its present party leader in Ohio was not in a barroom and was sober. Evidently it fears that the demonstration of gentlemanly conduct on his part might mar his chances with the few people who still think that the dignity of George Washington better befits a presidential aspirant than such rowdy rudeness.

Among the weightier remarks of the evening that ought to be preserved in their identical language was that part of the speech of the gentleman whom Mr. Johnson called "my friend, Mr. Clark," (John H. Clark, the Gold Democrat from Cleveland, known in northeastern Ohio as one of the shrewdest lawyers of that section), in which Mr. Clark very emphatically praised the Sherman anti-trust law as so shrewdly drawn that it had defied the efforts of a number of the greatest lawyers in the country to evade its provisions. He pointed out its efficacy when vigorously enforced, and altogether showed that the statute is one of the strongest laws of the United States upon any subject.

Agreeing at once to all this, it is interesting to add to Mr. Clark's commendation some facts that he might easily have given, for he is a well informed gentleman. To summarize these briefly, we note that this was the outgrowth of official recommendations of a Republican president of the United States, Benjamin Harrison; that it was the first bill introduced in the senate of the Fifty-first congress by the great Republican leader, John Sherman of Ohio; that it was reported for immediate consideration in the House by William McKinley of Ohio; who was certainly Republican enough to satisfy the most exacting. The opposition to action upon it in the house was by the Democrats, through their great leaders all making speeches against it as impracticable and proposing the same old free trade that they are still talking about as their own and only impossible remedy for trade combinations.

July 2, 1890, President Harrison promptly signed this bill, and as expeditiously as its enforcement could be had cases under it were taken to the courts, and in several instances strong combinations were broken up by its use, the United States supreme court sustaining the prosecutions. Under President Harrison a combination of Kentucky coal mine owners and of Nashville, Tenn., coal dealers to control the trade of that city, was effectually enjoined. Under President McKinley, in the case of the United States against the Joint Traffic association, the supreme court broke up that great combination. Similar combinations were thwarted by the courts in the cases against the Addyston Pipe and Steel company and the Chesapeake and Ohio Fuel company. Under President Roosevelt cases have been commenced against the Northern Securities company to prevent that great merger of railroad systems in the Northwest, and against the beef trust, and are now in the courts for a hearing, which will be promptly secured.

Thus, under the three Republican presidents who have had to do with this law since its enactment, each of them has found it effective and has accomplished important results with it, but under the "four years of Grover," President Cleveland and the entire Democratic administration did nothing, and tried to do nothing, succeeding in this last most completely.

Mr. Clark might well have shown this very wide distinction between the two parties in their administration of this law, Republican in its origin and entirely Republican in its enactment, and absolutely Republican in its enforcement, with not a thing done by the Democrats to get it on the statute books, nor to use it after it was got there. That is the record of the two parties.

Third Wage Increase This Year.

The Columbus Railway company will increase the wages of its employes one-half cent an hour, beginning Friday. A notice to this effect was posted some time ago. This is the third increase of a similar amount this year. The men are now receiving within a small fraction of 20 cents an hour, counting the regular dividend, beside uniforms, which amount to about one-half a cent an hour. The increase adds $10,000 to the pay roll, the company claims.—Columbus Dispatch.

Tom Johnson calmly admits that he made his money by taking advantage of alleged bad laws or laws loosely enforced. Mayor Tom may inspire some retired, well fixed, burglar to start out in a crusade in favor of more stringent laws against grand and petit larceny.—Youngstown Telegram.

THE SAUERKRAUT PEDDLER.

The regular and popular visitor to the German inns and taverns of the east side is the sauerkraut man. He brings his calling with him from the old country and finds a more profitable field in New York than in Berlin or Hamburg. His equipment is quite curious. He wears a blue or white apron running from his neck nearly to the ankles, and from his shoulders is suspended a circular metal box which goes half around his waist. It has three large compartments, two of which are surrounded by hot water. In one are well cooked frankfurter sausages and in the other thoroughly boiled sauerkraut. In the third compartment is potato salad. He carries in his hand a basket in which are small plates and steel forks. One sausage and a generous spoonful of sauerkraut and potato salad cost 5 cents. All three articles are of good quality, well cooked and seasoned. He finds his best customers in the bowling alleys, where the exertion demanded by the game produces large appetites. Next to these are the taverns which do not supply food with their drink. Last of all are the halls and meeting rooms where different societies assemble. His nightly stock consists of fifty sausages, seven pounds of sauerkraut and as much more of salad. On bad evenings he takes only half as much stock as on fair ones. Some of the more fortunate peddlers have arrangements with clubs which pay them a very fair profit upon their goods. Others are free lances who visit every place where they think they can effect a sale.

The metal boxes are very ingenious and are made in Germany. The metal is some variety of pewter, and the fitting of the compartments and of the entire affair to the body is very accurate. The covers are so well hinged and snug at the edges that when the owner falls down he is not liable to spill any of the contents. The contrivance costs some $3 in Germany, and about $5 in New York. A few of the peddlers appeal to educated palates and carry with them cervelat, bock, reh, leberwurst and vienna, as well as frankfurters. These fancy sausages usually bring 10 cents instead of the regulation 5.

The forks are washed after the customer has finished his little meal, and from repeated cleansing and use are as bright as silver. The plates, on the other hand, are so banged and bruised that they might be easily mistaken for crackle wear.—New York Post.

The Wrath of the Bee.

At the end of winter most hives have exhausted their stores and become dangerous. When this is the case, woe to him who touches the hives. Smoke has lost its spell, and you shall scarce have emitted the first puffs before 20,000 acrid and enraged demons will dart from within the walls, overwhelm your hands, blind your eyes and blacken your face. No living being except, they say, the bear and the sphinx atropos, can resist the rage of the mailed legions. Above all, do not struggle. The fury would overtake the neighboring colonies. There is no means of safety other than instant flight through the bushes. The bee is less rancorous, less implacable, than the wasp and rarely pursues her enemy. If flight be impossible, absolute immobility alone might calm her or put her off the scent. She fears and attacks any too sudden movement, but at once forgives that which no longer stirs.—Harper's.

A Safe Age.

The insuring of one's life is one of those things which one is most apt to put off. There are few, however, who postpone what ought to be the inevitable until so late a period in life as did the tough old smack owner of Grimsby. When he presented himself at the insurance office, he was naturally asked his age. His reply was, "Ninety-four." "Why, my good man, we cannot insure you," said the company. "Why not?" he demanded. "Why, you are ninety-four years of age." "What of that?" the old man cried. "Look at statistics, and they will tell you that fewer men die at ninety-four than at any other age."—London Business Illustrated.

Their Branch of Service.

"To what branch of the military service do captains of industry belong?" asked the recognized yet surviving joker of the party.

"I give it up," replied his victim wearily.

"To the artillery, because they're all 'big guns.' See? Ha, ha, ho, ho!"—Syracuse Herald.

Cool Trees.

It is not shade alone that makes it cooler under a tree in the summer. The coolness of the tree itself helps, for its temperature is about 45 degrees F at all times, as that of the human body is a fraction more than 98 degrees. So a clump of trees cools the air as a piece of ice cools the water in a pitcher.

A Cheerful Wait.

A laborer applied to the foreman at some building's workshop for a job: "Can yez do anything fur a poor fella at all in the shape ave work?"

Foreman—Oi hev nothin' the day. Cum back agen. There is a drunken carpenther workin' on the top, and Oi'm waitin' ivery minit till he falls and gits killed.

Certainly a Clever Lawyer.

"A good lawyer! Why, say, I've known him to prove the truth of what isn't so and not half try!"—Chicago Post.

The trusting shoemaker is apt to get beaten out of his boots—Philadelphia Record.

BIZET AND HALEVY.

The Story of the Origin of a Popular Air In "Carmen."

Bizet, the composer of the world famous opera "Carmen," and Halevy, his librettist, once occupied apartments whose outer doors opened on the same landing. As soon as he had finished an air Bizet would hasten to submit it to his neighbor, who subjected it to the most severe criticism. From morning to night the piano resounded in the composer's apartments. One night Bizet finished a dramatic bit in which he flattered himself he had successfully sketched the pride of a triumphant toreador after a successful bullfight. But Halevy listened in silence and showed but a moderate enthusiasm. Bizet, somewhat piqued, asked the cause of this coldness.

"It's good, I admit," said Halevy. "In fact, it's too good. It lacks movement—it lacks snap—in short, it's not popular enough."

"Not popular enough!" shouted the piqued composer. "Do you want to write for the slums?" He went out in a huff, but soon relented and in an hour returned with another air. "Listen to this," said he; "here is my toreador idea written down to your popular level." It was indeed the song of the toreador, and the only one which on the first night received an encore and seemed to move the first night audience from its torpor.—Chicago News.

He Saw Them.

"Did you see any sharks when you crossed the ocean, Mr. Spifkins?" asked Miss Purling.

"Yes," replied Spifkins sadly; "I played cards with a couple."

SILENCE!

The instinct of modesty natural to every woman is often a great hindrance to the cure of womanly diseases. Women shrink from the personal questions of the local physician which seem indelicate. The thought of examination is abhorrent to them, and so they endure in silence a condition of disease which surely progresses from bad to worse.

It has been Dr. Pierce's privilege to cure a great many women who have found a refuge for modesty in his offer of free consultation by letter. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Doctor R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

I have used several bottles of 'Favorite Prescription,' which I consider a great blessing to weak women. I was so nervous and discouraged that I hardly knew what to do. Your kind advice for home treatment helped me wonderfully. Thanks to Dr. Pierce."

ALL HE SAID FALSE.

So a Democrat Declared About Tom Johnson.

And That, Too, Was His Own Chosen Orator From His Own City and on His Own Fad of Steam Railroad Taxation.

Wrong by 20 per cent. in his statement of the tax valuation of the Nickle Plate railroad in Indiana, exaggerating it by that much; wrong again by 75 per cent. in his statement of the tax valuation of the same road in Ohio, understating it by that amount; completely and absolutely wrong in his suppression of any statement of the vital fact of the entire dispute, that the Nickle Plate road pays as many dollars of taxes per mile in Ohio as in Indiana, was Tom Johnson's record at the Democratic mass meeting held for him at Columbus the other night.

The mask was torn from him and he was openly convicted of these falsehoods by the Democratic orator who had been brought down from his own city of Cleveland especially to speak until Johnson could arrive and be ready to address the meeting. John H. Clark, who was a gold Democrat in 1896 when Johnson was opposed to Bryan's free silverism, had made his speech, had called upon the faithful to support the Johnson candidates, and was listening quietly when Johnson used the Nickel Plate road "of my friend Mr. Clark" as an illustration of his entire argument of just taxation of steam railroads.

Mr. Clark, as attorney for that corporation, was completely informed upon the subject and arose and stated that Mr. Johnson did not know what he was talking about. He said that the New York, Chicago & St. Louis road is assessed in Ohio at $22,000 per mile instead of $13,000, as quoted by Johnson; that it is assessed in Indiana at $30,000 per mile instead of $36,000 per mile, as quoted by Johnson; and that it pays as many dollars a mile taxes in Ohio as it does in Indiana.

With Johnson thus convicted openly by one of his own supporters of as many misrepresentations as he made statements in the case of this railroad, what may we fairly presume to be the size of the mistatements in which he has indulged where he had no "friend" at hand to correct him? May we not reasonably judge that this is only a sample, and probably a mild one, of the entire falsehood of his whole crusade upon this subject? If he has deceived the people in this thing what is there of truth that they can depend upon from him in regard to any matter?

"LET WELL ENOUGH ALONE."

In '94 when Cleveland signed the Wilson bill—a blight
Fell on our happy nation and depression dark as night
Drove labor and prosperity and money out of sight
And the danger of Democracy was known.

But in November '96, these hard times passed away,
For Democracy defeated, turned the darkness into day,
And labor, cash and confidence returned without delay,
And the wisdom of Republicans was shown.

Since '96 we've prospered as we never have before,
With work for all and labor high and happiness in store;
And to have these times continue and to prosper more and more,
We'll just "Let Well Enough Alone."

For six bright years the times have grown still better day by day,
And even tramps and Democratic growls have passed away,
And all Republicans who wish prosperity to stay
Will "Keep On Letting Well Enough Alone."

This year our usual victory we're very sure to score,
Next year we'll work for Hanna, and for Roo-se-velt in '4,
Then Foraker in '5 and so we'll prosper more and more;
And "We'll Keep On Letting Well Enough Alone."

Unsought, far distant lands have been committed to our care;
And where our Flag is human rights and Liberty are there;

Queer Logic.

In his Lima speech Tom L. Johnson admitted that he had been a monopolist all his life, but said that because he had taken advantage of the law in force was no reason monopoly was good for the people. In other words Johnson freely confesses monopoly is a good thing for Johnson, but not good for other people. Such logic should secure his ticket votes to the number of 0000 with all thinking people.—Youngstown Telegram.

Republicans who are not registered in the city precinct in which they live should bear it in mind and get their names on the books at the earliest opportunity.

IT MADE LEMAITRE SIGH.

A Gesture and an Accent That He Could Not Reproduce.

The Figaro relates the following anecdote about Frederic Lemaitre: "He had acted with marvelous success in a play by D'Ennery and Marc Fournier when one evening after the second or third performance he was suddenly addressed by a stranger, 'How much will you take to be ill tomorrow, the day after tomorrow and for a month?'

"Lemaitre dragged the unknown under a street lantern and looked at him. He was a well known writer. 'It is you!' said the actor. 'Why do you wish me to be ill?'

"The other hesitated slightly as he explained his strange proposition. He was inspired by an insane hatred toward Marc Fournier and had sworn to avenge himself on his enemy by all conceivable means. 'Help me to wreck his drama,' he concluded, 'and I will make you rich. I have the means to do it. You earn a great deal. I will give you ten times as much for six months longer than your piece will last. Will you agree?'

"Lemaitre had quickly recovered himself. He seized the man by the collar, shook him hard for a minute and then, with a vigorous kick, thrust him away, crying: 'How much will I take? Thirty pieces of silver, Judas!'

"An old actor who told the story added, 'How often has Frederic Lemaitre sighed in my presence when he recalled the episode, "Alas, I shall never be able to reproduce the gesture and the accent of that moment!"'"

Do Not Sleep on Your Left Side.

When a patient complains of a bad taste in his mouth every morning on waking up, says a physician, the first question I ask him is as to the position he assumes when going to sleep. An immense number of people sleep on the left side, and this is the most common cause of the unpleasant taste which is generally attributed to dyspepsia. If a meal has been taken within two or three hours of going to bed, to sleep on the left side is to give the stomach a task which it is difficult in the extreme to perform. The student of anatomy knows that all food enters and leaves the stomach on the right side, and hence sleeping on the left side soon after eating involves a sort of pumping operation which is anything but conducive to sound repose.

The action of the heart is also interfered with considerably, and the lungs are unduly compressed. It is probable that lying on the back is the most natural position, but few men can rest easily so, and hence it is best to cultivate the habit of sleeping on the right side. It is very largely a matter of habit, and the sooner it is acquired the better for the sleeper and the worse for the physician.

The Bucket Shop.

The name bucket shop is said to have originated in Chicago when legitimate brokers would not handle an order for less than 5,000 bushels, and a lot of places sprang up where men of small means could speculate on a trifling capital, as small as a dollar, and these speculators were spoken of contemptuously as buying and selling wheat by the bucket full. The term was eventually applied to all brokerage in stocks and grain when the amounts dealt in were smaller than legitimate dealers or brokers would handle and more particularly to places where there were really no legitimate transactions, but where the proprietor and customer simply bet on the market, the proprietor allowing the customer to take either end of the bet in consideration of a commission, which in reality is his percentage in the game.

Men and Salutes.

A recent writer says: "The Chinaman bends to the very ground when he salutes; the Russian, farther west, takes off his hat and scrapes with it his very path; in Prussian Konigsberg, always farther west, the passersby salute each other by taking off their hats or caps very low; in Berlin the head covering is raised but little; in Paris still less, in London not at all or with a difference. The American keeps his hat on immovably and never bends, but all civilized nations, of course, take off their hats to the ladies."

A Heathen's Idea.

A Chinaman who acted as secretary to a former Chinese minister to England has published a book in which he says:

"There is nothing which an American won't say, there is nothing which an Englishman won't eat, there is nothing an Italian won't sing, there is no measure to which a Frenchman won't dance, and there is nothing Russians won't covet."

Wouldn't Lose That Pleasure.

"So you never talk about people behind their backs?"

"No," answered the woman, with a grim expression. "If I know anything which would annoy a friend, I always tell it in her presence. I wouldn't miss seeing her embarrassment for anything."—Washington Star.

"What is a synonym?" asked a teacher.

"Please, sir," said a lad, "it's a word you can use in place of another if you don't know how to spell the other one."

Both Were Shocked.

Little Elsie was a faithful attendant at Sunday school and had listened earnestly when plans for a coming Christian Endeavor convention were discussed, her interest increasing to enthusiasm over the mysterious affair when she learned that her auntie was to attend as a delegate.

Coming into the library one day, auntie saw the little maid busily engaged in writing a letter to a cousin with whom she kept up a juvenile correspondence. She scrawled industriously for a moment; then stopped. There was a puzzled expression on her fat, ink stained face as she dangled her short legs and wriggled uncomfortably on her high perch.

"Auntie," she said, "how do you spell 'devil?'"

"Oh, Elsie," said her auntie, "I am shocked! Why are you using such a word as that in your letter? Nice little girls never say such things."

It was Elsie's turn to be shocked.

What Adam Was Doing.

It was midnight. Suddenly in the Adam residence there was a cry, then a series of howls, and one of the neighbors, passing by, heard the head of the house use language that was calculated to loose the thunderbolts of heaven on the whole neighborhood. She stopped, ran up to the door and, pressing the button, listened eagerly at the speaking tube. "What in the world is your husband doing?" she asked as the dulcet voice of Eve inquired her errand.

"Oh," replied Eve, "he is merely raising Cain. It requires strong language to raise a child like that."

And thus an expression was coined which promises to outlast history itself.—Portland Oregonian.

"No, mum," replied the girl. "'Tis hard to wake up, but if you'll call me, mum, I could have it on time."

"But it's not my place to call you I want to be called myself."

"Yis, mum," answered the girl solemnly; "I know it, an' if you'll call me, mum, then I'll get up an' call you.'—Chicago Post.

A Call Down.

"Pa, ain't you a director of the school board?"

"Yes, I am. What of it?"

Little Creatures About Our Homes

V.—A Few Bugs and Beetles.

IF a naturalist were to add a thousand new species of beetles to his collection every year, he would have to live far beyond threescore and ten years before his collection could be complete, even though he were to begin as soon as he reached the years of manhood. The exact number of species is not known, as many have not yet been classified, but it is about 100,000. The number of species of bugs is much smaller.

Bugs differ from beetles in several important particulars. Beetles have one or more sets of strong jaws for biting and masticating their food, while bugs have these mouth parts converted into a sucker for piercing and sucking up the juices of the plants or animals on which they feed. In beetles the metamorphosis is complete, while in bugs the darva and the adult insect are very much alike. In some cases the only difference is in the addition of wings, and some have no wings at any time of life. Beetles use only the hind pair of wings in flight, while bugs use all four wings. The front wings of beetles are used merely to balance the body in flight and are folded over the hind pair to protect them when at rest. In some species of each of these orders only the males have wings, while the females are wingless. The front wings of beetles are horny throughout their whole length. In bugs the fore part is horn and the remainder membranous. Some of the bugs have no hard part to any of their wings, and all are used in flying.

Many of the beetles are called bugs. The common potato bug is probably one of the best known beetles. It is the Colorado beetle, so destructive to the potato plant. This pest was hardly known until about forty years ago. It is a native of the Rocky mountain region, and up to the time of the introduction of the potato into Colorado it fed upon a species of wild potato called the sand bur, but since that time it has spread over the whole country in such numbers as to be one of the worst of the insect scourges.

The mother beetle lays from 500 to 1,000 eggs in a season. These she deposits, eight or ten in a place, on the under side of a leaf—the potato leaf, of course, for the females instinctively place their eggs where the young will find plenty of the food upon which they thrive best. Insects sometimes make mistakes in this particular. For example, flies sometimes lay eggs on the carrion plant because it has the odor of putrid meat. The eggs of the Colorado beetle hatch in six or seven days, and the larvæ at once begin to eat and keep on eating for about two weeks. They then crawl down to the ground and bury themselves for eight or ten days, during which time they pass through the pupa stage of existence. Later they come forth to continue their work of destruction in not only devouring the potato plant, but by laying more eggs for another brood. These insects hibernate, or lie dormant, during the winter and come forth the following year. They consequently increase with great rapidity. Their ravages are checked by spraying the potato plants with a diluted solution of some of the arsenic compounds.

The tumblebug is a common beetle which, the better to protect them, deposits its eggs in a ball composed of earth and dung. In rolling this ball to the hole where it is to be buried the female goes ahead and pulls and the male pushes. Their fore legs are differently made for this purpose. When the ball is buried, the female is buried with it. She eats her way to the center of the ball and there deposits her eggs. These hatch into young grubs, which feed upon the organic matter of the ball for a time.

The beautiful little ladybug, sometimes called the ladybird, is also a beetle and is very useful to man, as its larvæ live almost entirely on plant lice, scale insects and the eggs and larvæ of other insect pests. These little globular beetles, red or yellow, with black spots, should not be destroyed, as they sometimes are, under the impression that they injure the plants upon which they are found, for, on the contrary, they are there to lay their eggs where the grubs can feed on the plant lice. These larvæ use their fore legs to carry their prey to their mouths. Watching this process through a magnifier makes one feel as though he were in some tropical jungle where much larger animals of strange form were preying upon the weaker denizens of the forest.

The firefly is a very interesting beetle, of which there are several species. The female of one species has no wings, which fact probably gave rise to the name glowworm, as during the night-time she emits a bright green light to attract her mate. She has the power to make this natural torch shine or disappear at her will. The male and female of some species of fireflies differ so much in form that at one time they were thought to belong to different species. Of the fireflies of the northern part of the United States both the male and the female have wings, and both emit light, though that of the female is the brighter and of a slightly different color. In tropical America and the West Indies the firefly seems to have reached its maximum development. Eight or ten "cucuyos," as they are called by the Creoles, placed in a glass bulb will furnish enough light to read by very comfortably. The Creole women make use of them as ornaments when attending a soiree. They keep them in little wire cages and feed them on sugar cane.

Strange as it may seem, one of the beetles spends the first, or larval, stage of his life and also the imago, or perfect, stage in the water. It is called the water beetle. The pupa stage only is passed in the ground. The larvæ are carnivorous creatures and feed on insects and snails, and when hard pressed for food they will prey upon one another. This beetle is about one and a half inches long and has smooth, black, shining elytra, or fore wings. It breathes air, for which it frequently rises to the surface of the water. Like other beetles, it has no lungs, but the air circulates all over the body, even through the delicate wings, in tubes called tracheæ. These tubes are kept from collapsing by closely wound spiral fibers which form the middle layer of the walls. Beetles do not take in the air through the mouth, but through little openings along the sides of the thorax and abdomen. The veins in the wings are double tubes. The inside tube is an air tube, and the space between the two is filled with blood, and the blood is aerated there. Among the more interesting beetles are the Goliath beetles of Africa, some of which are over 5 inches long and 2 inches broad, and the little blistering beetles used by physicians to produce blisters. These are so small that it requires about 6,000 of them to weigh a pound. As they formerly came from Spain, they are commonly called Spanish flies.

The name bug means filthy and was first applied to the bedbug; but, in spite of that, there are some very interesting bugs. There are also some very destructive ones. The aphis is one of the most remarkable, one of the most interesting and at the same time one of the most destructive bugs. There are many species of plant lice. Their fecundity is extraordinary. Professor Owen, a most excellent authority, says that a single female of one species of aphis may have a progeny of a quintillion individuals in a single season. This seems improbable, but Latreille, another good authority, tells us that one female during the summer months will produce twenty-five offspring daily, all of which are females, and that these in turn do the same for seven, nine or eleven generations, according to the species. The last generation, however, is about half males and half females. The females lay the eggs, which are hatched the next spring and which produce viviparous females having the power of spontaneous reproduction for several generations. All these little creatures have compound eyes fully developed as in other insects. The wings when developed are four in number. The sucking beak springs from the under side of the head, and with this soon after birth the insect pierces the plant on which it finds itself, begins sucking its juices and keeps on sucking during nearly all the remainder of its life. Most species of aphides have on the upper part of the abdomen two little tubular processes, from which the insect ejects a sweet, sirupy fluid of which ants are very fond and which is commonly called honeydew. The rose bug is probably the best known species of aphis. Tobacco is the poison which has been most successfully used in destroying this insect. House plants may have a paper sack drawn over them, and tobacco smoke freely blown into these sacks will kill every insect.

The chinch bug is one of the worst pests the farmer has to contend against. It is said that in one year, 1864, the damage done by this little insect in the single state of Illinois amounted to nearly $75,000,000. The name of this species is devastator. The chinch bug is not longer than a grain of wheat, but the damage done by it to the wheat and corn crops is enormous. The eggs are laid in the ground, and the chinch bugs come forth to attack the wheat about the middle of June. No practical means for their extermination has yet been devised.

The bedbug and louse, two wingless species of hemiptera, or bugs, are too well known to need any description here. They are both fond of human blood, and they will probe the skin and suck away as vigorously as an aphis on a rosebud. The best preventive against them is perfect cleanliness, for they are fond of filthy places. If bedbugs do get into a bedstead, as they sometimes will despite our precautions, a free use of gasoline will usually destroy them. Corrosive sublimate will also kill them, but it is a virulent poison and should be used with great care.

The cochineal insect is a bug which feeds on the cotton plant and yields a beautiful red dye. The females are only used for this purpose. The dried bodies of 70,000 of these insects weigh only a pound.

The Wonderful Starfish.

There are scores upon scores of different forms of marine animal life that come within the category assigned to starfishes, but the most singular specimen in the whole group is the splendid astrophyton—the "sea basket" of the sailors. It is truly a wonderful specimen of marine life, having hundreds of long and short, straight, twisted and curled tentacles, and but for the geometric precision of the plan upon which the starlike "body" is fashioned might be mistaken for a miniature, circular specimen of the devilfish. The center of the creature, the "hub," from which the five stout arms radiate, is the body, head and "thinking machine" of our curious astrophyton.

The whole, not including the labyrinthine tentacles, which branch to all the points and intermediate points of the compass, looks for all the world like an animated Fourth of July firewheel. The five main arms are divided into three each within a short space from the astro's body, and these three are almost immediately subdivided into innumerable other arms and tentacles, the whole forming a net by means of which it captures its prey and holds its victims until the life has been sucked out of them.

Saws That Cut Each Other.

A proverb has been defined as "the wisdom of the many and the wit of one;" but, clever as this definition is, it is scarcely borne out by a comparison of the most familiar of our proverbs. The following are some of the most striking: "Penny wise and pound foolish" is the exact opposite of "Take care of the pence and the pounds will take care of themselves;" so "Birds of a feather flock together" and "Two of a trade never agree." "Absence makes the heart grow fonder" and "Out of sight, out of mind," are just as contradictory as "Many hands make light work" and "Too many cooks spoil the broth." So, too, "Delays are dangerous" is the flat opposite of "Second thoughts are best," while the philosopher who invented the axiom "The early bird catches the worm" had apparently never heard of King Alfonso's world renowned saying that "All things come to him who waits." On this particular subject the opinion of the worm and the bird might be worth having.

Surprised His Wife.

A story is told of a Pennsylvania farmer who wore his old suit until every one was tired of it, and his estimable wife was almost ashamed of the hustling man who had been inside it so long. But one day he went to town to sell his produce, and while there he determined to buy a new suit and, happy thought, surprise Eliza. So he bundled a neat suit into the wagon and drove homeward.

It was after night as he hurried homeward, and at a bridge over a river he stood up on the wagon and "peeled" and threw the despised old suit in the water. Then he reached for his new clothes. They were gone—had jolted out of the wagon. The night was cold and his teeth chattered as he hurried home. He surprised Eliza even more than he anticipated.

Worth Trying Again.

The impecunious author passed over the manuscript with a faltering hand. The aged but truthful editor started.

"Er—Mr. Wrightly," he said, with the air of a man who has just become saddled with a great thought, "did you ever hear that Walter Scott received the suggestion of his first successful novel while he was washing his hands?"

"I—I believe I read of it," stammered the impecunious author, slipping his hands into his pockets. A faraway look came into the face of the aged but truthful editor.

"I was merely throwing out the suggestion," he said softly.

It is true that "Blood Wine" is a wonderful medicine. Wonderful, because of its great breadth of cures. "Blood Wine," soon to be America's most widely known and popular medicine, kills the germs of disease that are in the blood. All diseases that have their origin in the blood or that are spread by germs, come under the curative powers of this great French discovery. "Blood Wine" is the medicine for you to get today; take it now, before the diseases of winter weather are upon you; before you are in the grasp of rheumatism, grip, lung trouble, kidney disorder and many other diseases so common to the American people. "Blood Wine" cures

READ LIKE MIRACLES

Mrs. Irving Mack, of Cambridge, Mass., says:

"I had the grip, and it left me a perfect wreck. My appetite was all gone, my nerves were all unstrung. I was wasted to a skeleton. Everybody said to me, 'You look like a ghost.' I couldn't sleep. I struggled against my sufferings, despite their growing intensity, but I failed completely, and I made up my mind that unless I soon received help I must die. The medicines I took seemed to do me no good, and I was truly a pitiable object. I was white as a sheet and so weak I could hardly walk along the street without staggering. My friends were constantly telling me that I had consumption or some mysterious incurable disease. At length, through the blessing of Divine Providence, I heard of the discovery of a medicine which would do wonderful things. This medicine was 'Blood Wine.' I sent for some of it and began to take it, and the result was simply marvelous. As true as I live, that medicine alone entirely cured me and made me a well woman. Lots of my neighbors who know all about it will stand by me in everything I have said. My health now is excellent and I do my work with a light heart and a strong body."

CURES RHEUMATISM

Because it removes the poisons from the blood. It abstracts the acids; dissolves the crusts about the joints and stops the pain. Read the following from Mr. F. S. Talmadge of 78 Woodside St., Springfield, Mass.

"My son Elton had suffered for a long time with an aggravated case of rheumatism, which caused him most intense pain, and which daily grew worse in spite of careful medical treatment.

"Many remedies were suggested, and were given a careful trial, but without good result. A friend recommended 'Blood Wine,' and although our experience with other preparations had been such as to cause us to doubt whether it would benefit him or not, we were delighted to find that, after Elton had taken two bottles he showed signs of improvement; and now, after having taken several bottles more, he is well and strong again. I cannot say too much in favor of 'Blood Wine,' and heartily recommend it to all suffering from rheumatism."

CURED OF CONSUMPTION

"Last winter I caught a cold which settled on my lungs, and for weeks I was unable to get out of the house. As spring drew near, the cold wore off, but left me with a rasping cough, which caused me the greatest alarm. Nothing seemed to stop it; physicians told me that I had developed consumption, and that they could do little for me, except to make my life easier unless I should go to another climate. I was very weak, my skin feverish and my appetite absolutely gone. A friend advised me to try 'Blood Wine,' and from the very first it helped me. My strength came back slowly but surely. I began to enjoy my food. Life became worth living, and today I am absolutely well."

WAS ALMOST DEAD WITH KIDNEY TROUBLE

He also had liver complaint and was a total wreck. This was the condition of J. R. Sickles of Tiffin, Ohio, when he ran across "Blood Wine." He says:

"I have been a sufferer from general debility, liver and kidney complaint, chills and fever, headache and lameness of the joints, cold hands and feet. I was a physical wreck; had been treated by some of as good doctors as could be found, and taken nearly all kinds of patent medicines, but it all availed nothing. I have spent hundreds of dollars trying to find a cure. This is a case of twenty years' standing. I got so far gone that I could not work more than six or eight hours per day, when I would become perfectly exhausted. I was recommended by Messrs. Clyne & Laroy to try 'Blood Wine,' which I am glad to state has proved very satisfactory. I have gained strength, health, vigor, and am able to carry on my daily labor with the greatest ease. I would say that if this should reach the eyes of any sufferers from such complaints they should try 'Blood Wine,' which is a safe and a sure cure, full of toning value, without danger of disturbing the action of the heart or stomach."

The Sun Myths.

It was in Bayard Taylor's day that the sun myth had its vogue. One night at a party Taylor was greatly bored by the persistent efforts of a guest to discuss sun myths. No matter what direction the conversation might take, this person would ruthlessly drag it back again to his favorite topic.

At last the distressed poet raised a very interesting question in regard to the threadbare subject. "Did you ever think," he asked, "that the name Smith, so common all over the world, is derived from sun myth?" No one had ever dreamed of such thing. Max Muller had overlooked the point completely.

"Quite possible; certainly most plausible," said Taylor. "Sun myth, Sumyth, Smyth, Smith, and some still spell the name with a y." The discussion was ended.

No Cause For Alarm.

Rev. Mr. Brown, a man of less than medium stature, possessed a high, squeaky voice. Not long ago he was invited to exchange pulpits with a minister in a neighboring city. The church in which he was to preach was much more imposing than the home chapel, says Lippincott's Magazine. Arriving early, he peered from behind the pulpit and watched what he considered an immense congregation with trepidation.

As the last notes of the organ voluntary died away his little head popped up from behind the desk, and without a word of warning he piped out, "It is I; be not afraid."

M'INTOSH AND MAYES ARE BOTH INDICTED BY THE GRAND JURY

Grim's Bridge Fight Among the Many Things to Receive the Attention of Court at Lisbon.

Lisbon, October 9.—(Special)—The grand jury returned the following additional indictments yesterday afternoon:

Henry Miller, Wellsville, burglary and larceny.

George Mayes, East Liverpool, shooting at Frank Crawford with intent to kill in a disturbance at Grim's bridge near Calcutta.

Batista Speinnella, Lisbon, two indictments for cutting J. Begona with intent to kill and wound during a brawl in an Italian colony at the old McKinley homestead, west of here Labor Day.

Albert McIntosh, stabbing and cutting Albert Thompson with intent to wound in the Grim's bridge melee.

Ten of the jail prisoners were arraigned in court yesterday afternoon on the indictments against them.

Seven pleaded not guilty as follows: Charles Hutton, burglary; Robert Cooley, burglary; John Brown, robbery; Richard Howard, larceny; Edward Allen, pocket-picking; Charles Neeley, larceny; George R. Tate, larceny; Charles Garwood, of Columbiana, pleaded guilty to two indictments for larceny and was sentenced to the Canton workhouse 30 days for each indictment, to stand committed until the cash in each case is paid. He is the man who, while in the employ of Travers Cope, a Fairview township farmer, admitted a confederate to Mr. Cope's feed store, making himself a party to the theft of a large quantity of prepared meat. Garwood also pleaded guilty to stealing a pocket book, jewelryand other valuables from Maggie Houtelle, who was employed as a domestic at Cope's.

THE PATOS ISLAND "TEMPEST IN A TEAPOT."

Though it scarcely appears to be worth quarreling over, it is a fact that the tiny island of Patos, near Trinidad, may involve the United States and England in serious complications. England has seized Patos, which Venezuela claims as her own. Herbert W. Bowen and W. H. D. Haggard are respectively the American and British representatives in Venezuela.

PROFITABLE SESSION HELD BY U. P. SYNOD HAS COME TO AN END

Business Meetings Held Today Show Great Prosperity—Spicy Remarks About a Lay Brother.

The two days' session of the United Presbyterian synod of Ohio held in the First church of this city closed this afternoon after completing one of the most beneficial and interesting meetings ever experienced by the small army of members of the organization.

The place chosen for the next convention of the synod is Birmingham, Mich., which is located about thirty miles from Detroit. Before adjournment heartfelt resolutions of thanks were prepared and ordered to be presented to the members of the church of this city for the kind and admirable way in which they have treated the visiting ministers during their stay in the city.

The session this morning opened with devotional exercises conducted by Dr. Bell. Following a report of the finance committee was heard. The report was correct and compiled in a business-like manner. It showed the church's financial standing to be brightening, and the synod feels that this part of the work has been a success.

The committee on the Muskingum college rendered a report, and it was also very satisfactory. During the past ten years the attendance at the college has increased 90 per cent. The old debt which stood against the church for years has been wiped out, but there is yet a balance of $9,000 to be paid for the erection of the new building. A friend of the college has voluteered to duplicate every dollar given toward that end.

The synod endorsed a plan to have the young people's society of the church contribute to the cause. Dr. W. H. Vincent, J. C. McMunn, J. A. Wilson, D. K. McKnight J. T. Caldwell, and Elders W. S. Head and James

STREET CARS STRUCK LOADED WAGONS

DRIVERS OF VEHICLES NARROWLY ESCAPED BEING KILLED.

Two Similar Accidents at the Scene of Railroad Work at Ralston Crossing.

A kind fate saved two men from being either killed or seriously injured between 8 and 9 o'clock this morning on the lower river road, near Ralston Crossing. Luckily no one was injured.

Just where these accidents occurred the river road is being widened. Wagons containing filling from the excavating on the Cleveland & Pittsburg railroad are unloaded near Ralston Crossing, and it frequently occurs that a wagon is allowed to stand close to the tracks of the street railway. This morning two of these wagons were struck by cars as they were being unloaded and their drivers had very narrow escapes from being injured.

The drivers were unloading their wagons, while standing on the ground between the horses and wagons. One of these wagons was struck by a street car with such force that the driver was knocked down at the feet of the horses. Naturally the horses became somewhat frightened at the suddenness of the shock and came near tramping upon their driver. He was somewhat scratched by striking the wagon as he fell, but was not injured.

A similar accident happened to another wagon about half an hour later in practically the same manner as the first accident. As in the first case, the driver was not injured. Those who are employed unloading these wagons claim that sufficient care is not used by the motormen in passing this part of the road, but no motormen is going to run into a wagon and injure a person just for the fun of the thing.

Labor Party Campaign Meeting.

A meeting of the Central committee of the Labor party was held last evening in rooms in the Golding block. Plans for the coming campaign were talked over, and reports from the various soliciting committees were read. Arrangements were made to have a full meeting of the central committee of this party at City Hall tomarrow evening, at which time it is expected that District Secretary Thomas, of Alliance, will be present.

McMullen-Bittner.

At the parsonage of Rev. John William Correll this morning, Charles H. Bittner, of Pittsburg, and Miss Louise McMullen, of this city, were married. The young couple were attended by several friends from this city and Pittsburg. Mrs. Bittner, in company with several sisters, has been employed in one of the potteries for many months. The couple had a license from the Mahoning county courts.

CLIFFORD'S HURTS HAVE PROVED FATAL

MAN WHO FELL FROM A BRIDGE DIED IN AGONY.

Efforts of Physicians Were in Vain And the End Came Today at Noon.

James Clifford, the unfortunate man who fell from the railroad bridge in the West End early yesterday morning, and who received bad injuries, died this afternoon at 12:15 o'clock in terrible agony.

Since meeting with the horrible accident he suffered intensely and was unconscious most of the time. His attending physicians did all within their power to prevent death, but their efforts were of no avail.

On the 4 o'clock train this afternoon the remains were shipped to Cleveland, his home. Mr. and Mrs. Clifford, father and mother of the ill fated man, arrived in the city last evening from Cleveland and were with him at the time of his death. The mother was heart broken.

This morning Clifford was removed from Miller's undertaking establishment to 211 College street, where he expired.

CASE DISMISSED

ITALIAN JUMPED FROM FREIGHT TRAIN AND LOST LEGS.

Cannot Recover Damages, as Railroad Company Was Not at Fault.

Lisbon, October 9.—(Special.)—The case of James Navarre, an Italian, who had both legs cut off by an Erie train on June 2 and who brought suit against the railway company for $1,999.99 dabages, came up in court yesterday afternoon. Judge Hole took the case from the jury and dismissed it on the ground that there was no testimony showing the railroad company or its employes to be at fault.

The plaintiff alleged that he had boarded a freight train to ride to Cleveland and that the conductor and brakeman, who were on the caboose, four cars from him, motioned for him to get off and shook their fists at him. Jumping, he fell on an ash heap and rolled under the wheels.

The unfortunate man was a pitiable sight when he was carried into court in a chair. He cannot speak English and gave his testimony through an interpreter. He is said to have been well-to-do and supported a family in Italy.

DOWN TO WORK WITH ALACRITY

Joint Conference Code Committee Is Busy Both Day and Evening Now.

PING-PONG SECTION OUT

Belief Is Now That the Legislature Will Be Able to Adjourn Sine Die Next Week—Senate Has a Lively Session.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, October 9.—The joint conference committee is displaying commendable alacrity in its work on the code. It organized yesterday afternoon by electing Senator Longworth, of Hamilton, president, and Representative Denman, of Lucas, secretary. One of the first things the committee did was to emasculate the Cole anti-ping pong gambling provision from the code. This was regarded as somewhat nonsensical. The Bracken amendment prohibiting the employment of girls under 18 as public messengers was also taken out. The section relating to free hospitals and independent libraries was changed so as to place these institutions under the countrol of council. The differences between the house and senate curative acts were reconciled by making slight changes in the phraseology of the house act. The matter remains in practically the same shape. The conference committee expects to report back by not later than the middle of next week. Work was begun again at 9:30 this morning. Afternoon and evening sessions will be held. The legislature will probably be able to adjourn sine die the latter part of next week.

The senate was busy yesterday. The Burnham light bill was discussed during the most of the afternoon session. It seeks to repeal the Jones arc light bill passed last winter. The senate considered it in committee of the whole. A motion to recommend the passage of the measure lost. Further

This Is the Program of the Bell Telephone Company in This City.

Preparatory to Removing Wires And Poles From the Streets Is Now in Progress—Work on New Exchange to Start at Once.

After weeks, months and even years of waiting the Central District Printing and Telegraph company is at last to commence work upon the erection of its new central telephone building, at Market street and Drury lane. This announcement was made today by one of the officials of the construction department, who was in the city. The money for this building has been appropriated, having been granted several months ago. Other work contemporary with the erection of this new building has been in progress for almost a year, and now that this is about finished, work on the building is to start.

Since the first of the week employes of the construction and cable departments have been busy in this city placing the large lead-covered cables containing 200 wires, underground. So far eight large coils of cable have been used, but before the task is finished many more coils will be used. After the cables have been taken from the coils, or wheels, the latter are rolled to the property of the company on Market street, where they will be allowed to remain until shipped to New York.

After all the cables are placed under ground comes the tedious part of the work, that of making the various connections. A dead end of the cable is at the corner of Drury lane and Market street, and the matter of running the wires into the new central office will be comparatively easy work after the building is completed. Today the cablemen were engaged in running the cables from the underground conduits to the central office on Washington street. Just as soon as all the cables are connected, connections will be made with the central office.

Then will follow the destruction of all overhead wires of the telephone company in this city. After the wires have been taken down the poles will also be taken from the ground and probably sent to other towns where no underground system is in use.

DAZED BY HIS HURTS WALKED 15 MINUTES

Rendered unconscious as the result of a heavy blow received upon his head, John Nisson, the well known bridge worker of Sunnyside, who is assisting in the erection of the new bridge for the Pennsylvania company in the West End, performed one of the most peculiar feats ever witnessed in this city last night.

Notwithstanding that he was out of his senses and in a condition preventing his feeling pain, he walked around in the immediate vicinity of the place where he was hurt for at least 15 minutes, not uttering a word, before his fellow employes realized that he had even been injured.

When the effect of the shock began to subside and a reaction commenced he staggered and fell prostrate to the ground, giving the first evidence of suffering from the blow. Several workmen hastily ran to his assistance and took him to his home, where, after the application of an emetic and other medicines, he revived and it is thought he will recover without any serious results.

Mr. Nisson has charge of a derrick being used in hoisting the many heavy articles incident to the construction of a bridge, and it was while performing some work of the kind that he met with the accident. He had hold of a rope guiding the hoister when the rope broke, and a heavy hook on one end of the rope fell, striking him on the head.

NEAR VICTORY

Pittsburg Papers Comment on Mercer And Carey's Work on the Diamond.

Well, well, just to think of it! "Win" Mercer, formerly of the Third ward, came near pulling a victory out of the fire for his All-American base ball club at Pittsburg yesterday, but failed. That was good enough, but then that old-time politician, George Carey, helped Mercer's club to lose the game, and that was all there was to it. In the ninth inning in the game with the Pittsburg Pirates yesterday afternoon "Win" went to bat for Joss, the Cleveland twirler. Mercer got a hit. He got first base. Then he walked to the 'bus to ride to his hotel. That ended the game. There were but three hits made in the game and Mercer got one of them. Carey got a goose egg and had one error which is listed as a fatal one.

All Pittsburg players speak well of Mercer and also of Carey. Of course, a few warm ones are handed out, but still that is in the game, and who cares? Frank McQuiston, of the Dispatch, says this of Mercer:

"Mercer could have scored had he but started when the ball was hit, but he loafed and the game was a shutout, for Leach and Ritchey took good care of Davis at second when Wallace hit the ball."

"Win Mercer was counting money in the club house yesterday when he was called to go in and bat."

"Big Larry will be in the fuss Friday and Saturday. Perhaps Mercer would not have mortgaged his house and lot in East Liverpool if he could have had him for an hour yesterday. It might have made a difference."

FIRST OF THE SEASON

The Cricket, a Passenger Boat, Expected Up the River Today.

The steamboat Cricket will be up the river this evening. This is the first passenger boat of the season. The Greenwood usually made this run, but the Cricket is better adapted to low water. The Cricket will return tomorrow evening, and will stop at East Liverpool for passengers.

The boat goes down as far as the Kanawha river, which it traverses.

Suing Her Son.

A replevin action has been entered in the court of Justice A. T. Moore, of St. Clair township, by Mrs. Salina Chamberlain against her son, William B. Chamberlain. The plaintiff desires that numerous household goods and some farming implements be returned to her. The case will be heard Saturday afternoon. Attorney James Davis, of the East End, represents the plaintiff.

WORK TO BEGIN IN THIRTY DAYS

Unlimited Capital Back of It And Rights of Way Secured.

Columbiana, October 9.—(Special)—An important meeting of capitalists was held here Wednesday for the purpose of pushing the construction of the Youngstown and Southern railroad passing from Youngstown to Columbiana, passing through 30,000 acres of coal lands. The charter and right of way were secured by General A. W. Jones and John H. Ruhlman.

Prominent capitalists from New York and Cleveland went over the route and were very much pleased with the project. Unlimited capital will be furnished and rich farming country will be given an outlet for its produce and big coal fields will be opened up. It is confidently asserted that work on the new line will be commenced within 30 days.

BLAMES BILLINGSLEY

Received Moore's Reason For Delay In Settling Lisbon Bank Claims.

Lisbon, October 9.—(Special)—Concerning the petition of creditors for a final settlement of the Lisbon First National bank affairs the receiver, Judge J. G. Moore, publishes a statement to the effect that the delay is due to his inability to settle the bank's claim against Judge N. B. Billingsley.

He asks the creditors if they want a settlement now which would necessaraly absolve Mr. Billingsley from his obligations.

SPECIAL ELECTION

On Road Bonds Is Petitioned For By St. Clair Township Voters.

Lisbon, October 9.—(Special)—St. Clair township people are again eager for a vote on the proposition to pave with brick the Calcutta road from Calcutta to the Liverpool township line.

A petition for a special election has the names of 115 property holders, 15 more than the required number.

Mr. Hawkins Has Appealed.

Lisbon, October 9.—(Special)—The McGarry real estate agency sued Etta Hawkins for $50 and costs, which was held due for breach of contract in the sale of East Liverpool property. Judgment was rendered for the full amount and the defendant has appealed.

Petition In Error Filed.

Lisbon, October 9.—(Special)—A petition in error in the road case of James Faloon et al. against John Matthews et al. has been filed in common pleas court.

WITH THE WORKMEN IN THE CLAY PLANTS

COMMERCIAL PHOTOGRAPHY.

In all business enterprises photography, in these days of advancement, is more or less used. From the detection of crime to the selling of merchandise photography is serviceable. But never before was photography so extensively used by the manufacturing potters of the country as now. How rapid the advancement in this particular line of business in this city has been, the general public knows very little. One large photograph, showing several designs of ware made at a pottery, will result in the taking of several orders, thus taking the place of a salesman. Of course these miniature salesmen cost money, and not a month passes but some improvement is made in the making of the pictures. In the past two years wonderful advancement has been made in the production of these photographs by local photographers. Employment is given to more people in this line of work than is generally supposed. The manufacturing potters of this city send out large books of photographs representing all classes of ware made at a pottery. One of these books is given to a salesman. Frequently photographs are used instead of the actual samples. A firm frequently sends a bunch of photographs to a far-off prospective customer, perhaps located in the west. Although single photographs may cause the expenditure of several dollars, the returns are probably a hundred fold. Of course the class of goods put out by a manufacturer often has much to do with the order-getting work of the photograph. The picture must always be backed up by good ware. The making of the individual photograph is an interesting study. The picture shows the piece of ware as it actually is, colors of decoration and all. To make a picture like this requires no little work. Many colors are used, and the results that are obtained by an up-to-date photographer in this line of work are little short of wonderful. The use of isocrymal plates in the making of these photographs was first introduced in this city by Robert E. Spencer. Before these plates were brought to East Liverpool three fourths of all commercial photography orders, it might be said, were sent from the city, either to Chicago or to St. Louis. It is now said that owing to the advances made in this city the work is done at home, with a possible exception of one or two who send their orders from the city. While this city has been making strides in the manufacture of pottery, advancement is being made in the photograph line at the same time.

When a bunch of ware is sent to a photographer to photograph, with the decorations intact, that certain piece of ware cannot be sold. It may do for a sample in the sample rooms but it will never be disposed of unless to a person who is looking for a job lot. There is a reason for this. But one side of the piece of ware is glazed. The other is in a vitreous state, and is decorated just as the glazed side is. Unless this is done a good photograph cannot be made. The glaze throws too much light upon the photograph. In photographing the unglazed side of the ware, perfect pictures are secured. These are then developed, and while the different colors of the decoration is shown on the photograph, they are placed in the hands of young ladies who "touch them up," and within a few days they are ready to be made into books and delivered to the local manufacturer. It must be understood that not only has the local pottery manufacturer photographs of his ware made in this city, but samples from all over the country to be photographed. This shows conclusively that the fame of East Liverpool photography is national. The young ladies that are engaged in "touching up" these pictures are well paid for their work, receiving from $5 to $12 a week. Frequently these girls take their work home with them, and when working by the piece, are enabled to make very good wages. It frequently occurs that their wages are considerably more than $12 a week. Fillers-in make the best help in this particular department. They are used to that sort of work. They are sent here every month many samples of goods put up by firms outside of this city. As an example, samples of coffee and tea sacks which are put up for the retail trade are sent to this city to be photographed. Trade in this line is especially good. Besides this, quantities of glass ware of all description and hundreds of glass lamps are also sent here to be photographed.

'TIS A GOOD THING.

Some time ago there was published an article in this column relating to the establishment of an oil kiln at the plant of the American Ceramic Art pottery on Second street. In commenting upon this innovation in kilns in this city an eastern trade paper contains the following: "It would seem as if some practical means of heating a kiln by oil might be found, either by direct fire or by gas from the oil. All the illuminating gas used used in New York city is made from oil, and is cheaper than coal gas. Why not thus make gas for firing pottery? An attempt to fire with oil direct resulted in failure; but no one, so far as we know, has tried to make gas from oil and use it as natural gas is used."

MT. PELEE WARE.

A few days ago there was received in this city 10 samples of ware made at the new McCoy Art pottery, at Roseville, a few miles from Zanesville. Never before was there such odd ware shown in this city. Resembling old metal, this ware is moulded into all sorts of shapes while in the soft clay state. Only the samples of the ware to be made at this pottery have been turned out. Some of the ware, it would seem almost impossible to make. It contains a black glaze, while the body is almost snow white. This can be seen by looking at the bottom of some of the pieces. The soft glaze of which was caught on the bottom of a sagger. There is no doubt in the world but what the new ware will command a high price, equal to that demanded for Rookwood ware. The ware was sent here to be photographed, and as soon as this is done the firm will be notified, and a packer will be sent here fro mthe factory to repack the samples, and send them to the pottery. The ware is very delicate.

NEW PLANTS AT COLUMBUS.

The Columbus Pottery company, which will build a plant several miles north of that city, has had the tract on which it will be located approved by the county commissioners. It has been designated "Chaseland." It consists of 608 lots with a reservation of 15 acres for the pottery site. The plant is to be erected within a year. The employes will build homes on the lots. The company will make ware similar to that made in Zanesville. The tract owned by the Bell Pottery company is situated just east of the city and is known as "Bellwood." The work of excavating for the new plant is being hurried. If all goes well Columbus will have two potteries in operation by this time next year.

SITUATION SERIOUS.

Trenton's manufacturing interests are now facing a crisis in connection with the coal strike. Notwithstanding the fact that nearly all the potteries, at a great expense, reconstructed their kilns for the burning of bituminous coal they are now wrestling with the difficulty in obtaining a sufficient supply in order to keep contracts with those who are waiting for orders. Soft coal is being shipped to the potteries mostly in two car load lots, and unless there is a sudden change in the situation the coal strike will cause a loss of many thousands of dollars here. With the potteries, especially those dealing in general ware, this is about the busiest time of the year, as most of the ware which is now beng made is to supply the holiday trade.

STARTING FOUNDATION.

The work of building the foundation of the new decorating kilns for the Wallace & Chetwynd pottery was commenced yesterday, and it is expected the entire kilns will be completed and ready for use within 30 days. The new kilns will be erected on the site of the old ones, which were recently demolished. In the rear of this kiln, it is said the new printing press will be installed, exclusive mention of which was made in this paper several weeks ago. By installing this machine the company will employ three printers, and as orders for decorated ware are coming in rapidly for this plant, the decorating departments will be kept running in full.

LOOKED UP RELATIVES.

E. F. Hanna, of Baltimore, Md., who travels for the American Pottery Supply company, of that city, was in Salem this week on business. He is making a trip west, calling on the pottery trade in Ohio and Indiana. While in Salem Mr. Hanna incidentally looked up some of his relatives who live in that vicinity whom he had never seen. A branch of his family is connected with the Barnes and Hanna families of Ohio, having migrated to Ohio from the east.

GAMES ARE WANTED.

It is announced that the football club, composed of players employed at the Buckeye pottery, desires games with any pottery team in the city. Some one has started the report that the Buckeye team would like to play the team representing the Laughlin potteries in the East End, and would be willing to play for $25 a side. However, it is said that the Laughlin team does not propose to play for any stakes just at this stage of the game. It may be that the boys from the Buckeye may be able to get a game with some other pottery teams fro mthis city, as the boys desire to arrange for games at any time.

HORSELESS MAIL WAGON

MAIL CARRIER BEVINGTON INTRODUCES AN INNOVATION.

Will Make His Collections Hereafter By the Aid of a Small Automobile.

Mail Carrier Bevington is without doubt one of the up-to-date mail carriers in the country. He has started an innovation in this city. Instead of using a horse and a small mail cart in making his usual collections during the day, Mr. Bevington has decided that an automobilie is a better means of covering his territory. He will use his domesticated horse no more, at least, for a few days. Yesterday Mr. Bevington received from an eastern firm an auto-quad, a miniature automobile, which cost, according to the list price, $450.

The machine is unlike any other ever seen in this city. It is propelled by gasoline and it has four wheels. Over the front wheels is a seat capable of holding two persons, or the seat can be replaced with a box, which will be used for letters and other mail matter while they are being collected. At the front of the two rear wheels is a seat similar to that used on a bicycle. It is there that the mechanism of the machine is located.

The machine is so made that the springs which support the passenger seat allow the axle carrying the seat to rise and fall laterally, so that all four wheels remain on the ground when passing over irregularities in the road. Both the front wheels are steered upon separate centers by means of rods jointed to the end of the steering post controlled by the handle bar. The mechine is propelled by a three and one-half horse-power motor.

CROWDS ATTENDED

The Mill Creek Presbyterian Celebration a Success in Every Respect.

The crowd in attendance at the one hundred and eighteenth anniversary of the Mill Creek Presbyterian church, observed yesterday under auspicious circumstances at the church, was much larger than expected. People were there from long distances and those living within a radius of four miles were there to a man. East Liverpool was well represented, it being estimated that there were over 200 from this city present.

The program as given in the News Review was carried out in detail and was highly interesting.

Young Married Couple the Recipients of Much Attention from Practical Jokers.

Practical jokers and rice throwers had their fun with Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bence when they left on their bridal tour yesterday afternoon. On the train yellow hand bills were distributed, reading: "Watch for them at the next station. Just married. They are young and giddy, but good looking. You'll know them at sight. Speak to them; they are anxious to make your acquaintance, but too bashful to approach you. Be kind to them."

The happy couple bore their persecution with patient good nature, but evidently were glad to get away.

EAST END

AN EAST END CITIZEN ON PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE MATTER.

The New Road a Benefit to the Whole City And Not to a Small Section of It.

To the Editor of the News Review.

Kindly permit me to speak a word or two through your columns relative to the wisdom and policy of the recent assessments laid on East End property for the improvement of Pennsylvania avenue.

There are some institutions which belong alike to the general public and to no one portion of it, as a public hospital, library or park. To this class we can properly assign this splendid avenue. Some one has well observed that it sustains the same relation to the city as a public park. It is virtually the city's only driveway. The excellence of it, its local pacturesqueness and attractive scenery make it specially desirable for this purpose. It may be called a park road, and, no less than a park the expense of it should be borne by the city.

The improvement of this avenue, in one important particular, ought not to be confounded with the improvement of city streets generally; for there are no persons to be benefited residing on it, from one end of it to the other—that is, the improved portion in question—and to say that one end of the city is benefited and the other is not is supremely absurd. In point of fact, from a business and financial standpoint, this thoroughfare is of far greater advantage to the city proper than it is to the East End. It needs no argument to show that the effect of it is to draw business away from the East End to the city.

It is, too, worthy of note that the East End is made up principally of working people, or people in humble circumstances. With but few exceptions the owners and operators of the extensive business plants do not reside here. To require the former to bear the great expense of the improvement in question or to compel them to pay the assessments which have been laid upon them is as burdensome as it is unjust.

May we not hope that a sense of justice and fair dealing will prevail in the final settlement of this question.

EAST END CITIZEN.

Program Arranged For the Exercises at Erie Street M. E. Church.

The annual rally day service at the Erie street M. E. church will be observed next Sunday evening, commencing at 7:30 o'clock. For this occasion a long and interesting program has been arragned. During the morning, and taking the place of the regular morning service a special service will be held for the members of Sunday school. A sermon will be delivered to the children by the pastor, Rev. George W. Orcutt, and a roll call of all the classes will be a feature. The program for the evening service is herewith given. It has been arranged by George W. Johnson, superintendent of the Sunday school of this church:

Opening song, "Coronation;" prayer, by Rev. G. W. Orcutt; song, "Hear the Merry Reapers;" opening address, Myrtle Flick; recitation, Iva Meek; "A Rally Day," Mabel McRey; "The Children's Appeal," Grace Haney; "God's Love," Ora McElroy; song, "Wave Your Banners;" "Oh, How Lovely," Ada Twyford; "What Mamma Says," Bernace Caldwell; "We Thank Thee," Merrill Cooley; "The Rally," Mabel Flick; song, "Rally, Comrades, Rally;" "Make Childhood Sweet," Eva Cooper; "Rally Day," Ila Hayes; "His Gleaners," five little girls; recitation, Lottie Haney; "Nature's Motto," Annie Fetty; "Golden Rod Soldiers," Blanch Rodgers; song No. 64; "A Sunday School Without a Rally Day," three girls; "A Year of Sunday School," Flora Poilick; recitation, Dora Hayes; "Thanks," Laura Shingleton; "Children's Prayers," May McElroy; song, "My Cup Runneth Over;" "Plymouth Rock," Clara Linn; "Wait Patiently Upon the Lord," Elsie Whitney; "Treason," Nellie St. Clair; "Our Flag," Clinton Flick; "Doing Duty," Lina Whitney; song, "Here We Give Our All; address, "Why Parents Should Attend the Sunday School," Finley Cooley; "Rally Day," Leland Smith; address, "Why I Love the Sunday School," M. Fidgety people are lacking in nervous strength. The weak, care-worn, melancholy, headachy, and low-spirited men and women are easily excited, impatient, fidgety, and unable to sleep at night. Worn-out nerves must be built up, and the vitality of the whole system replenished before relief can come.

"The least bit of noise or sudden jar would nearly drive me crazy, and I was just too fidgety for anything. I was so nervous that I could not rest or sleep. The first dose of Dr. Miles' Nervine brought me sleep, and after that I got well fast."
Mrs. A. R. MORRELL, Arcola, Ills.

Few Anthracite Miners Who Came to This Locality to Work Now Remain.

Practically all the miners who came to this section of the country several weeks ago to work in the mines of the Norris Coal company at New Salisbury, have returned to their homes, or else to Pittsburg and the coal districts in the vicinity of Johnstown. There are but three or four of these miners now in this city, and it is predicted that they will remain here only a week or so longer. These miners who are remaining in the city are employed by Contractor Thomas McLaughlin on the grading work for the Cleveland & Pittsburg railroad in the vicinity of Ralston Crossing. Instead of working digging the earth these men are employed in dumping the dirt from the wagons on the river road.

Quite interesting persons these men are and they tell of conditions in the anthracite coal regions that have not been thought of. Among those who came to this part of the country at the solicitation of General Manager Burnside, of the Norris Coal company, many were not satisfied with conditions as they existed at New Salisbury, and after working there a few days left for Pittsburg and this city. One of the miners stated this morning that if they had remained there that they would have to work for at least four months before they could have any money that they could call their own. That was not all, the miner said, and he said that conditions were misreprsented to them before they left the east.

Another miner, an elderly man, is known to people in this city. He has several grown up children working in the local potteries and a daughter came here but a few months ago and secured a good position. This miner said that his wife was coming to East Liverpool, but he expected to return to the mines as soon as the strike was settled. However, the four miners working here now are well satisfied with their lot. They are hard workers, and they would make their homes here for the winter if they could get good positions in any of the local mines.

Six of the miners who were working for Mr. Laughlin left the city Tuesday for Pittsburg, where they secured work. In fact, they were promised employment before they left this city. A better set of workmen never came to this city than the miners now working on this excavation work. They mind their own business and talk very little about the conditions at their eastern homes. One miner said this morning that at his home, where a riot had been reported, there was "nothing doing" in that line at all. A crowd of non-union miners came to the town and a crowd of children gathered about them and commenced to hammer tin cans. The miner said that the next morning the eastern papers said that a riot had been in progress.

New Addition Planned.

It is expected that not less than 25 acres of the McKinnon property on Pennsylvania avenue, on the road between the city proper and the East End will be sold soon, and will be plotted and sold in lots. It is also the intention of the promoters of the scheme to have several sites laid off for factory purposes, there being several deals with this end in view. The company, which has a capital stock of $20,000, has been incorporated and is composed of S. T. Herbert, J. N. Hanley, J. T. Herbert, Willis Davidson and W. C. Supplee. This will add another connecting link between the East End and the city proper.

Cottage Prayer Meetings.

Cottage prayer meetings will be held in the homes of five members of the Second United Presbyterian church tomorrow evening. The East End has been laid out in five districts, and a meeting will be held in each at the following homes: Mr. and Mrs. Archie Searight, Pennsylvania avenue; Thompson Andrews, Sr., Pennsylvania avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ralston and Mrs. Eliza White. It is thought also that a meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mayes. These meetings give promise of being very interesting.

Dragon Boy Moved.

Michael Dragon, the injured Slav boy, with the rest of the Dragon family started on the 4 p. m. train yesterday for White Rock, Fayette county, Pa., where the father is employed. Dr. Mowen protested against the boy being moved in his feeble condition, but to no avail.

ONLY STANDING ROOM

On the East Bound Train When It Left This City This Morning.

No. 340 east this morning was crowded for standing room, when it reached this city and 150 passengers were waiting here. A large number were contented to ride in the baggage car.

Agent Hill stated the scarcity of coaches was due to the G. A. R. encampment at Washington.

At the K. T. Conclave.

Fred Croxall, of this city, has left for Dayton to attend the state conclave of the grand commandery, Knights Templar, of Ohio. Reed commandery, of Dayton, has made extensive preparations for the entertainment of the Ohio knights and the largest and best conclave in the history of Ohio is expected. Yesterday a good parade took place, in which the Eighth Regiment band took part. A grand ball was given by Reed commandery, of Dayton, last evening. Mr. Croxall is a delegate from Pilgrim commandery of this city.

PATH OF OCEAN CABLES.

Submarine Tablelands That Stretch Across the Atlantic.

There seems to be no logical reason why cables cannot be laid across any section of the oceans of the world, no matter how great the depth. Some portions of the Atlantic cables are three miles below the surface, and this is not necessarily the extreme depth, for the cable may and probably does pass from the top of one submarine hill to another without drooping materially into the deep valleys between, says Lippincott's Magazine. The greatest known depth of the sea is 40,036 feet, or 7 3-5 miles, found in the south Atlantic midway between the island of Tristan da Cunha and the mouth of the Rio de la Plata. Soundings have been made to the depth of 27,480 feet in the north Atlantic south of Newfoundland, and about 34,000 feet, or nearly 6½ miles, is reported south of the Bermudas. Even such enormous depths as these need not hinder cable laying so far as the theory is concerned, but in practice, for reasons of economy in maintenance and otherwise, it is found best to take advantage of favoring conditions in the ocean's bed. To illustrate, all of the cables between the United States and Europe run up along our coast until they reach the neighborhood of Newfoundland before starting across to their destination in Ireland or France. The reason for this is found in the range of submarine tablelands, forming an ideal cable bed, which lies between the three latter countries.

PURE SUNLIGHT AND AIR.

Places Here Which Shame the Old World's Favored Climes.

We have often heard of "sunny Italy" or the "clear light" of Egypt, says the Desert; but, believe me, there is no sunlight there compared with that which falls upon the upper peaks of the Sierra Madre or the uninhabitable wastes of the Colorado desert.

Pure sunlight requires for its existence pure air, and the old world has little of it left. When you are in Rome again and stand upon that hill where all good Romanists go at sunset, look out and see how dense is the atmosphere between you and St. Peter's dome. That same thick air is all over Europe, all around the Mediterranean, even over in Mesopotamia and by the banks of the Ganges. It has been breathed and burned and battle smoked for 10,000 years.

Ride up and over the high tablelands of Montana—one can still ride there for days without seeing a trace of humanity—and how clear and scentless, how absolutely intangible, that sky blown, sunshot atmosphere! You breathe it without feeling it, you see through it a hundred miles, and the picture is not blurred by it. Once more ride over the enchanted mesas of Arizona at sunrise or sunset, with the ragged mountains of Mexico to the south of you and the broken spurs of the great Sierra around about you, and all the glory of the old shall be as nothing to the gold and purple and burning crimson of this new world.

To my surprise it removed all pain and soreness and the injured parts were soon healed." For saly by Alvin H. Bulger.

TWELVE PAGES.

W. J. Foley, of East Palestine, Democratic candidate for congress, must be a cheerful sort of a chap. In his letter accepting the nomination he talks of "high position and great responsibilities" as glibly as if both were in sight. The honor of being sent up Salt River in November is not so great that there has been any pronounced scramble for it. Indeed, several Democrats of more or less prominence have shown a conspicuous eagerness to get away from it. But if Mr. Foley is pleased nobody should grumble.

At last a Democratic prophet has arisen who has the courage to tell the truth and speak his convictions. At a Democratic mass meeting in Youngstown the principal speaker admitted that James Kennedy would be elected to congress. There were 100 people present, but enthusiasm was lacking, as at most Ohio Democratic campaign meetings.

One district of England has shipped 100,000 tons of pig iron to the United States in the past nine months. Last year 3,500 tons were shipped in the same period, and two years previous, nothing at all. It is plain that the benefits of American prosperity, although beginning at home, do not end there.

Letting well enoug alone is well enough, but it won't do to neglect campaign work. Ohio should give a magnificient Republican majority this year, and it will if every Republican voter does his duty.

The codes with which the Ohio legislature is wrestling are now reduced to two and will doubtless reach the minimum in time to allow the legislators to go home and vote.

W. H. Truesdale, president of one of the coal roads, has no coal in his cellar and can't buy any where he lives. Poetic justice has'nt gone out of business yet, it seems.

Considering the small amount of worrying that he seems to be doing, Speaker Henderson must have a supply of coal for the winter piled away in the cellar.

General Bragg, of Wisconsin, who while consul general at Havana, wrote indiscreetly and used uncomplimentary language about the Cubans, has been deposed from his job and given another at Hong Kong. There are those who hold that the punishment does not fit the crime.

If Pennsylvania could get a new set of anthracite coal operators it might fare better. Aany change could scarcely be for the worse.

The silence of David B. Hill's platform as regards silver is as eloquent and expressive as a slap in the face of Bryan would have been.

There will be five tickets on the Ohio ballot this fall. The only close contest is who will be last in the race.

Senator Hanna refuses to help Tom Johnson attract crowds to his circus. He is not in the humbug business.

The man who has money to burn is not in it. It is the man who has coal to burn whom people now envy.

This may be the Indian summer, but it is very satisfactory to white men whatever it may be called.

Solicitors Will Start Out To Raise Funds to Pay For Property Purchased.

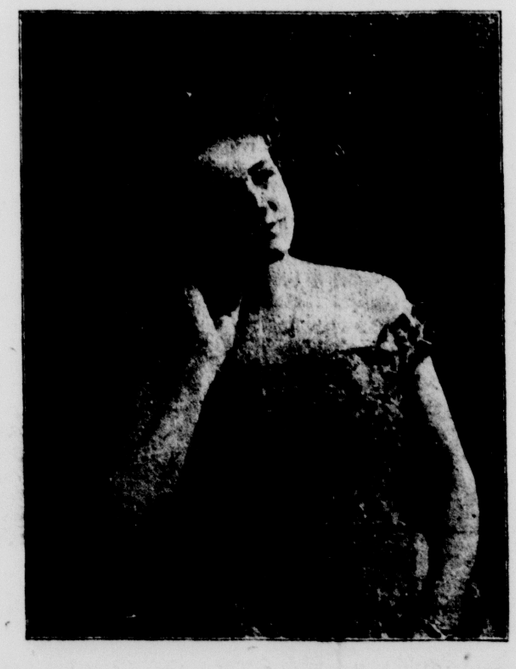

The Salvation Army, of East Liverpool, is about to build its own home on Third street. It requires $4,000 to pay for the property, of which sum about one-half is already pledged. It is for the purpose of raising the additional sum necessary that appeals are being made by the trustees and solicitors are at work.

The Army has benefitted many people in this city both by its charitable and its religious work, and confidently looks for hearty encouragement for its project of establishing a permanent home and increasing its sphere of usefulness. Solicitors will start at once to gather money to swell the building fund, and practically everybody in the city will have a chance to contribute.

AT THE THEATER

"When We Were 21," will be seen at the Grand on Monday evening, October 13. It is a pure, clean story, clever in its arrangement, interesting in its conclusions. It is well calculated to receive that attention and approval at the hands of the theater goers that is so justly deserving. One seldom witnesses a more evenly balanced company that the one in charge of the presentation of "When We Were Twenty One."

The Bennett-Moulton company gave another interesting performance at the Grand last evening, the play being "The Daughter of the South." A large audience was present and the play was quite an interesting one. The specialties were clever and pleasing. "The Pay Train" is the bill for this evening.

Brown were elected trustees of the college.

A communication was received from the Federation of Ohio churches, asking that the synod be represented at the next meeting, which is to be held in Columbus December 4. Rev. J. A. Kennedy, J. H. Hutchman and Thomas Balph were appointed delegates to attend the convention.

A motion that a young people's convention be held next year, owing to the fact that there will be no national convention, was lost.

The committee on the Allegheny Theological seminary rendered a favorable report after which the matter of electing a board of directors for the seminary was introduced to the synod. Before the election took place there was, however, a sensational happening. It was caused by Rev. Dr. Littell, of Wheeling, who, being tendered the floor made a speech which evidently did not strike a popular chord among the members of the synod, they by a vote turning down his suggestion and subsequent motion. He told the synod that, inasmuch as Dr. J. C. Taggart, of East Liverpool, Dr. W. H. Vincent, of Detroit, and W. J. W. Cowden, of Wheeling, had been members of the board for a time, he thought the time had come to oust them and elect a new board.

"It is not that I have anything against Dr. Taggart, or Dr. Vincent," said Dr. Littell, "but it is because one member of the board, Cowden, is not fit to be a member. Furthermore, I believe in the resolution adopted in Allegheny last year which advises the synod to make a change in boards, in order that each member of the synod may in time get a perfect understanding of every portion of the church work."

The doctor then made a motion that three men, naming them, be elected. Another member of the synod arose and made a motion that Drs. Taggart and Vincent and Mr. Cowden be elected. The nominations were then closed and the moderator ordered a vote taken.

Dr. Littell immediately jumped to his feet and, upon being recognized by the moderator said:

"Brethren, I think it absolutely wrong to allow the name of Mr. Cowden to come up before the convention. He is a drinking man."

At this juncture the moderator silenced the Wheeling minister by stating that the church and the time were not proper to discuss Cowen's character. Much chagrined, but with an air of content in having thrust his dagger Dr. Littell sat down and allowed the voting to continue. The result of the ballots showed Drs. Taggart and Vincent and Mr. Cowden the choice of the synod. Mr. Cowden is a prominent attorney of Wheeling.

The session of the synod of Ohio, of the United Presbyterian church, yesterday afternoon was one of the most interesting ever attended by the members of the vast army of Christian workers. Rev. J. A Kennedy, moderator, conducted the session in a manner very commendable and every feature of the program was carried out in a most satisfactory manner.

The attendance of clergymen is large and the synod meetings give promise of being most interesting and profitable.

Detroit Presbytery: W. H. Vincent, First Detroit; L. M. Campbell, Bruce; A. M. Martin, Fair Grove; L. S. Clark, Southfield; M. B. Maxwell, Birmingham; O. A. Kech, Commerce; L. G. Littell, Martin; W. H. M. Peak, Port Huron; Edwin McClintock, Second, Detroit; J. D. Palmer, J. B. Wilson and A. N. McLeod.

Mansfield Presbytery: R. J. McCrea, Avondale; J. L. Caldwell Iberia; W. H. Hubbell, Dalton; F. D. Findlay, Mansfield; J. C. Pinkerton, Ontario; W. J. McClintock, Fredericksburg; W. L. Garges, Savannah; W. A. Litteli, Wooster; David Livingston, Utica; J. C. Harby, J. A. Wilson, S. C. Habell, A. McDowell, F. M. Proctor, J. F. Frederick, Canton.

Muskingum Presbytery: I. N. White, Fairview; R. C. Wyatt, Norwich; J. C. Campbell, Northfield; J. A. Kennedy, Second, New Concord; J. S. McMuen, New Salem; J. A. Shrader, Salt Creek; E. E. Cheland, East Union; S. B. Johnston, Caledonia; J. H. Hutchman, Zanesville; William Duncan, New Concord; A. J. Hanna, Jonathan's Creek; R. W. McBride, Clear Fork; S. W. Lonier, Mt. Hermon; L. D. Edgar, First Cambridge; J. G. C. Webster, Bloomfield; G. O. Miller, Second Cambridge; L. E. Kerr, Rush Creek; W. H. McFarland, A. H. Caldwell.

Steubenville Presbytery: J. C. Taggart, East Liverpool; J. G. Madge, Carrollton; L. H. Warring, Steubenville; D. E. McKnight, Mechanicstown; L. L. Gray, Knoxville; W. B. Campbell, Calcutta; W. M. Glasgow, Wellsville; D. J. White, Pine Fork; W. R. Jamison, Scio; W. B. Gillis, Chester; W. H. Clark, New Jefferson; F. E. Dean, Salineville; R. B. Caldwell, Toronto; D. W. McQuiston, Second East Liverpool.

Wheeling Presbytery: W. G. Waddell, Unity; T. Balph, St. Clairsville; W. M. Coleman, West Alexander; W. M. Butler, Cadiz; W. M. Hopping, Uniontown; C. P. Proudfit, Bellaire; A. R. Robinson, Martin's Ferry; Morris Watson, High Ridge; Chas. H. Robinson, First Wheeling; J. H. Littell, Second Wheeling; John Atcheson, Roney's Point; W. O. Fisher, New Athens; W. S. Boice, Thomas Love.

After a business session, Rev. W. G. Waddell, D. D., was introduced and in a logical address interested the audience for an hour on the subject, "Dearth of Power in the Church." He pointed out in many ways why the church has lack of the power which it should have, but confined himself to explaining where it lacks. Rev. W. M. Butler was the next speaker and his subject was the cause of the dearth of power. To the satisfaction of his listeners Dr. Butler spoke at length and told in an able manner of the many causes to which the dearth is attributed. He was followed by Rev. J. C. Pinkerton, who well expressed himself on a remedy for the dearth. His remarks were confined strictly to the subject and were highly entertaining.

"Among the Membership," the subject chosen by Rev. W. J. McClintock, was most interesting. He gave some logical advice to his brother ministers as to what course to follow in bringing the proper results among their congregations and also demonstrated how the congregations can help in the work.

At the conclusion of the address a report from the committee on reform was read by A. R. Robinson, of Martin's Ferry. The report showed the reform work in all lines as being steadily moving forward and its progress unprecedented. The synod accepted the report and passed a flattering resolution for the manner in which it was arranged.

There was a large and attentive audience at the last evening's meeting. C. R. Watson, corresponding secretary of the National Board of Foreign Missions of the United Presbyterian church, whose residence is at Philadelphia, gave a very entertaining report. He told the delegates that the church had made satisfactory progress in the Christianizing of India. There had been 8,000 people brought from the pale of heathenism to light of Christian intelligence.

He also told of the magnificent work that had been done by the church in following up the Soudan. A number of missions have been established along that stream, the United Presbyterians having made commendable progress in pushing into the dark continent of Africa.

The gentlemen presented statistics to show the importance of the missionary movements, and greatly pleased the large audience by the manner in which the subject was presented.

Rev. R. L. Hay, of New Brighton, Pa., was another speaker whose address attracted general attention. He reported for the board of church extension, and gave interesting facts in the number of churches constructed. His report was adopted.

FOUR CASES SETTLED

Minor Suits In Common Pleas Court Disposed Of Without a Hearing.

Lisbon, October 9.—(Special)—Four cases in common pleas court were settled today without a hearing.

The case of Latitia Sheraw against J. S. Faloon, of Hanover township, was settled at the costs of the plaintiff.

The case of Letitia Sheraw against George St. Clair, of Hanoverton, was settled by each party paying his own costs, in addition to which the defendent paid the plaintiff $35. The concerned the rent of a store room.

W. J. Adams' suit against the Dungannon Creamery company was settled, the defendent paying the plaintiff $35 and costs. The suit was over a wage contract.

The cases of Stewart brothers et al. against Wernet & Wilson, in which the plaintiffs claimed that they had not been paid for bailing and hauling a quantity of hay, was dismissed at the plaintiffs' cost.

J. S. Faloon's suit against Henry J. Winter was dismissed, termes of settlement having been practically agreed upon.

ONE OF THE SMART SET

His Pugilistic Proclivities Make Him a Candidate for the Workhouse.

After consuming considerable more booze than he could carry and yet walk a straight line, George Brown, a young man of perhaps 21 years, who dropped into town several days ago from Elizabeth, N. J., created a disturbance in the Diamond last evening which will likely result in his spending time in the workhouse at Canton.

Evidently considering himself the "cock of the walk" he first made himself conspicuous by pouncing upon two local characters, Charley Hoskins and Robert Black, both of whom took pity on the youth and let him off without the usual thrashing administered to the smart set which comes to the city. Hoskins even allowed the fellow to land several blows without interfering.

While in the midst of his sport Brown was arrested by Officer Dawson and landed in the city jail. He was charged with being drunk and disorderly and fighting. The officer also inscribed on the slip, "This young man is of the smart set." He will be given a hearing this evening.

ON TO CAIRO MEETING

Great Preparations for It—Candidate James Kennedy And R. W. Tayler to Speak.

Elaborate arrangements are being perfected by the mayor and other city officials for the big public "On to Cairo" meeting which is to be held next Tuesday evening in the third floor of the city building.

An invitation has been sent to the Republican nominee for congress, James Kennedy, of Youngstown, and an effort is being made to have him present at the meeting. Congressman R. W. Tayler and other prominent men have also been invited. Mr. Tayler has consented to come and will be one of the orators of the evening. An invitation, reading as follows, has been sent by the city clerk to several of the prominent citizens of the town:

"You are hereby requested to attend an 'On to Cairo' meeting at the city hall, Wellsville, October 14, 1902, at 7 o'clock p. m., to make a short address in favor of this improvement. As this is a matter of great interest to all concerned, we think you should attend."

A representative of the Pittsburg Dispatch is expected to be present and deliver an address.

The most important issue of the evening to be discussed will be the locating of dam No. 8. It is claimed that if it is located below the city instead of above, as at first planned, both this city and East Liverpool will be improved, while if it is located at Walker the Crockery City will be the only one to be improved.

SHORTER HOURS WANTED

By the Grocery Clerks of Wellsville. No Agreement Reached.

The regular meeting of the Retail Clerks' union was held last evening in Potters' hall. The existing difficulties between the grocers and the grocery clerks was talked over, but on account of so few being present, no action was taken.

The grocery clerks want shorter hours. Under the present arrangement they start work at 6 a. m. and quit at 6:30 p. m. They hold that these hours are too long and think that the closing hour should be 6 o'clock, thus shortening their day's work one-half hour.

The grocers do not look at the matter in this light, but if the union takes action at their next meeting in favor of the clerks, the grocers will probably submit to the proposition. The next meeting will be held on the 23d of the month.

SET THREE TIMES

Fracture of Clarence McFall's Collar Bone Pronounced a Very Bad One.

Clarence McFall, who had his collar bone broken in a foot ball contest Tuesday afternoon between the Bruno Athletic club and the High School, has since that time had the bone set three different times.

Dr. Holland, who is the attending physician, says it is one of the worst breaks that he has ever had experience with. With the least motion of the left arm the broken bone slips out of place.

The Brunos are now arranging with the High School for another game next week, the proceeds of which are to go to the disabled player.

Missionary Lecture.

A missionary lecture was delivered last evening at the Second Presbyterian church in the West End by Miss Aiken, a lady missionary who belongs to the Steubenville Presbytery Missionary society and who has worked in Siam and other foreign countries. A large crowd was present, no admission being charged. The lecture was very interesting and was enjoyed by all. Miss Aiken very thoroughly explained the manners and customs of the inhabitants of Siam and also told about their religion.

Rat Killing.

A trap of five live rats were turned loose at 9 o'clock this morning on the public square. They were killed by two rat terrier pups in less than three minutes' time. Quite a crowd gathered at the square and witnessed the killing, which was quite interesting.

Street Grading Started.

Work was started this morning by Contractor Rinehart on the grading of Steubenville street, near the intersection of Kelly avenue, in accordance with an action of council a few days ago.

Run Over By a Wagon.

The 2-year-old daughter of Israel Craig, of Nevada street, was run down at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon by a horse and buggy driven by a small boy at the corner of Sixteenth and Main streets. The little girl had been playing and ran into the street directly in front of the horse. When picked up it was found that she had received a serious cut on the forehead and was otherwise shaken up. Four stitches were required to close the gash in her head.

VERY COMPLETE
Is What People Say of Our New Store.

There is one part a great many people do not know the completeness of.

It is our Carpet Department. Do you know that there are only two or three larger departments in the city of Pittsburg than you will find here within sight of your home?

If you are looking for the cheapest things you can buy we don't think that you'll make much money by coming here---you'll find them everywhere.

But if you are looking for "goods of quality," goods which have wear and style to them, goods which will cost but a trifle, if any, more than cheap stuff, and if you want to see not a few samples, but a variety, you'll find it here.

At any rate, come and see the

Mrs. E. C. Baxter went to New Cumberland yesterday afternoon to see her sister, Mrs. Lee O. Smith. She returned last night.

Mrs. Harry Chapman returned here from Mingo Junction yesterday. The family will move their household goods there today.

A Remarkable Petition.

The keeper of the menagerie at Versailles during the reign of Louis XVI. had orders to administer six bottles of burgundy every day to a dromedary which had grown feeble with old age and which the king was very anxious to keep alive. In spite of this ultra generous treatment the animal died, to the great despair of his nurse, who petitioned the king with a view of obtaining the "succession of the dromedary"—that is to say, all the advantages attached to his person.

Odd Ideas.

Some of the Virginia applicants for registration as voters give queer answers to the questions asked them. One negro thought the general assembly was "you three gentlemen sitting there," with a bow to the registrars. Another thought it was "a place in the woods where they went to worship the Lord." A third negro was asked to explain the freedom of the press. "When you get in a crowd, shove as much as you please," he replied.

Women In Command.

In several villages of Finland the woman has authority, for a religious sect exists there whose disciples are forced to marry and to take a vow to submit to the wife in all things. The women choose one of their number for governing head, whose duty it is to see that the men behave themselves and to punish them if they transgress. Similar are the "Purificants" of Liberia, who also recognize the supremacy of women.

Reward of Merit.

Papa—Where did you get that dollar?

Little Son—That's the one you gave me on my birthday.

Papa—My, my! And you haven't spent it? Here's another dollar.

Little Son—Thank you. I hope mamma won't borrow this one, like she did the other. She just paid it back.

Two Signs.

"To snuff a candle out accidentally is a sign of marriage."

"Yes, and to turn down a lamp intentionally is a sign of courtship."

MITCHELL MET QUAY AND PENROSE

Held Conference With Pennsylvania Senators. In New York.

The Senators Refused to See Reporters, After the Meeting Was Over. Mitchell Announced Receiving Word That 260 Locals Voted Unanimously to Stay Out—This Left Not More Than 40 or 50 to Hear From. Even Strikers Not Members of the Union Decided to Remain on Strike.

New York, Oct. 9.—President John Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers' association, arrived at the Pennsylvania depot in Jersey City last night, having come on a Lehigh Valley train from Wilkesbarre, Pa. With him were District Presidents Nicholls, Fahy and Duffy. They went immediately to the Ashland house, this city.

At 10 o'clock Mr. Mitchell called up Wilkesbarre by telephone, the reason being that he had expected some telegrams which he did not find awaiting him. Shortly after this he turned to the newspaper men and said:

Men Resolved to Remain Out.

"Information has been conveyed to me by 'phone that a total of 260 local unions have reported unanimous votes against resuming work. The men are not deterred from going to work through any fear of bodily harm, but are resolved to remain out until the differences between them and the operators are arbitrated, or until they are ordered to return by their leaders.

"This leaves not more than 40 or 50 local unions to hear from yet. The unanimous action includes the votes of strikers not members of the union, but who were present at the meetings and voted with the union men."

At 11 o'clock President Mitchell and two of the district presidents went from the Ashland house to the Fifth Avenue hotel, where Senators Quay and Penrose, of Pennsylvania, and Louis N. Hammerling, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., were registered.

Mitchell, Quay and Penrose Confer.

President Mitchell's conference with Senators Quay and Penrose lasted for an hour and three-quarters. At its conclusion Mr. Mitchell returned to the Ashland house. He declined to say a word as to his talk with the senators, and the latter left word with the clerk at the Fifth Avenue hotel that they would not see anyone, instructing the clerk to refuse the cards of any persons who might wish to interview them.

Manufacturers' Committee Issued Notice Coal Men Were Unable to Meet Them.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—The visit to this city of the committee representing the National Association of Manufacturers for the purpose of conferring with the presidents of the anthracite coal carrying roads, who last week met President Roosevelt and the officials of the miners' union at Washington, appears to have been fruitless. The committee arrived here early yesterday morning and spent the greater part of the day at the Manufacturers' club awaiting the appearance of the presidents, but none of the latter answered, in person at least, the request of the committee for a conference. Last night the committee issued the following vague statement:

"The committee of the National Association of Manufacturers came to Philadelphia after meeting John Mitchell and his associates at Buffalo on Tuesday, for the purpose of considering measures by which the coal strike could be ended, and this committee will meet again Oct. 14.

Baer Knew Nothing of Committee.

After the members of the committee had breakfasted they dispatched a messenger to the office of President Baer, of the Reading company, announcing that they were ready to meet the presidents. The nature of Mr. Baer's reply is not known, but in answer to a question the railroad president said: "I know nothing about the committee." He declined to make any further statement.

President Parry said invitations to meet the committee had been sent to all of the presidents who had met President Roosevelt last week and that favorable replies had been received from three of them. He would not, however, divulge their names.

During the afternoon President Parry, in an interview, said: "The strike has reached what we now believe is the crisis. We were in hopes of meeting the operators today, but owing to the short notice they received they were unable to be present."

COULD LINE FEEDER

THIS, IT IS SAID, IS THE LISBON RAILROAD'S DESTINY.

A Line from Minerva to East Liverpool a Part of Contemplated Plans.

The report that the Goulds have purchased the Lisbon road and propose to extend it to East Liverpool has been confirmed in a part at least, says a Cleveland dispatch, and now the movement is taking a new turn. It is said, for instance, that instead of making the connection with the Wheeling & Lake Erie at Steubenville, as was first announced, that a road will be built from Minerva, on one of the spurs of the Wheeling, to East Liverpool, where valuable freight connections will be made. In fact the whole line is to be a freight feeder for the Gould lines and by this connection the Goulds are hoping to get into the iron district of the valleys.

The recently purchased road brings them to New Castle, and other extensions will be built which will give them some of the iron tonnage of that district. It is also possible that a line will be built from Minerva to Navarre to complete the through line to the west. These reports are all in the rumor stage as yet not having received official confirmation of any kind. As reasonable propositions, however, they have a certain credence attached to them.

LETTER CARRIERS' MEET

Election of Officers By Local Association—Coming Social Events.

At the October meeting of the local branch of the National Association of Letter Carriers No. 577, held in its rooms in the Ikirt building, much business was transacted, among which was the election of officers for the ensuing year as follows: Alsinus Swaney, president; W. M. Carey, recording and financial secretary; P. F. McCloskey, vice-president; John W. Suter, sergeant at arms; John W. Sellers, treasurer.

By a unanimous vote of the carriers, Postmaster W. H. Surles was elected an honorary member of the branch.

The local organization has in view many social events for the coming winter, and contemplate giving its initial ball in the early part of the New Year. The boys have placed their orders for winter uniforms, caps and leggins with a firm in Cincinnati and expect to don them November 1.

PUSHING THE WORK

Force Increased on the New C. & P. Bridge at the Flint Mill.

W. M. Ford & Co., Cleveland, contractors for the new C. & P. bridge near the flint mill, are pushing the work as fast as possible. Considerable delay has been caused by the scarcity of men and the failure of the needed material to arrive.

Contractor Ford now has a force of about 50 men at work upon the masonry, but it is doubtful if the work will be finished by the first of January. Thirty-five men arrived from Pittsburg Monday morning and were put to work upon the job.

Gained Thirty Pounds in Thirty Days.

For several months our younger brother had been troubled with indigestion. He tried several remedies but got no benefit from them. We purchased some of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and he commenced taking them. Inside of thirty days he had gained forty pounds in flesh. He is now fully recovered. We have a good trade on the tablets. Holley Bros., Merchants, Long Branch, Mo. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger.

QUICKLY DECIDED TO SETTLE CLAIM

Non-Support Case From the East End Compromised By Mutual Agreement.

Having refused since the third day of July last to contribute to the support of a minor child, Frankie, aged 15 months, when he has had steady employment at good wages and is well able to do so, Jesse McBee, a cooper at an East End pottery, was arrested last evening and taken before 'Squire McCarron.

The affidavit causing his arrest was sworn to by his mother-in-law, Mrs. Sarah J. Wise, who alleged that she had taken care of the child since the date named and had not received one cent from its father. She also alleged that McBee has owed her $15 for necessaries, such as potatoes, meat, etc., for over a year. The latter claim, however, was not considered in the charge as preferred.

When arraigned McBee pleaded not guilty and attempted to show the court that he was innocent. He said that he and his wife and baby had lived at the home of his sister-in-law prior to the time that the baby was taken in charge by Mrs. Wise and that he had paid the board for all of them in full, and even paid $6 to his sister-in-law the week after his wife left, with the understanding that it suffice for the keeping of the child. He also stated that on last Saturday night he paid $1.50 to his wife, expecting her to pay it to Mrs. Wise.

Mrs. Minnie McBee, wife of the defendant, corroborated the testimony given by Mrs. Wise, and inasmuch as McBee acknowledged that he had only paid $7.50 toward the support of the child and that not to Mrs. Wise, the court held that he was guilty of felony and bound him over to common pleas court in the sum of $300.

The seriousness of the charge then became apparent to McBee and he commenced to weaken, especially after the 'squire read the law pertaining to a case of non-support. According to the revised statutes a man convicted of the crime can be sentenced to the penitentiary for three years and be made pay an enormous fine. Before giving Constable Powell orders to commit McBee to the city jail, preparatory to his being sent to the county jail at Lisbon, the 'squire informed the defendant that if he and the plaintiff could compromise the affair the case would be dropped.

McBee was only too willing to settle the matter, and when Mrs. Wise stated that she would be willing to care for the child for $1 per week he agreed to pay that much to the 'squire each week. The costs in the case amounted to $5, and McBee gave an order on the firm for which he works for the amount.

Brain Food Nonsense.

Another ridiculous food fad has been branded by the most competent authorities. They have dispelled the silly notion that one kind of food is needed for brain, another for muscles, and still another for bones. A correct diet will not only nourish a particular part of the body, but it will sustain every other part. Yet, however good your food may be, its nutriment is destroyed by indigestion or dyspepsia. You may prepare for their appearance or prevent their coming by taking regular doses of Green's August Flower, the favorite medicine of the healthy millions. A few doses aids digestion, stimulates the liver to healthy action, purifies the blood, and makes you feel buoyant and vigorous. You can get the reliable remedy at Charles F. Craig's.

Always in the Lead.

The Union Pacific was the first line to introduce Dining cars, Vestibulted cars, steam heat, Pintsch light, Buffet smoking and Library cars, Tourist cars on Trans-Continental trains west of the Missouri river, and continues to lead. Is first in equipment; first in speed; first in important improvements; first in stupendous engineering enterprises; first in historic interest; first in scenic attractions.

It again leads by introducing an electric lighted train throughout, "The Overland Limited," with Observation cars, barber shops, bath rooms and telephone service.

This famous train makes the run from Omaha to Salt Lake City 12 hours quicker, from San Francisco 16 hours quicker, and from Portland 16 hours quicker than any other train.

MILITIA IN ANTHRACITE REGION.

Whole Pennsylvania Guard Now In Strike Section—Strikers Not Disposed to Annoy Them.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—The entire national guard of Pennsylvania was camped last night in the anthracite coal regions, the last regiment from the western part of the state having arrived late yesterday afternoon.

Contrary to expectations the troops were well received and there was no disposition on the part of the strikers to annoy the soldiers. There was only one instance during the day of any show of feeling, and this was manifest at Betnlehem, when some boys stoned the second section of the train bearing the First regiment from Philadelphia.

Universal quiet reigned throughout the entire region. Brigadier General Schall, who arrived in Tamaqua yesterday afternoon, telegraphed to Major General Miller that there was no disturbance of any kind in the district. The soldiers who arrived yesterday were all scattered throughout Schuylkill, Luzerne, Carbon and Northumberland counties.

Where Troops Are Placed.

The first brigade is quartered as follows:

First regiment and a detail of Battery A, at Hazleton; Second regiment and a detail of Battery A, New Philadelphia; Third regiment, Minersville; Sixth regiment and City Troop, at Tamaqua. The latter organizations will take care of the operations in the Panther Creek valley.

The second brigade is quartered as follows: Tenth regiment, Shamokin; Fourteenth regiment, Mahanoy City; Fifth regiment, Ashland; Eighteenth regiment, Shenandoah.

The fact that all the locals throughout the anthracite region have voted unanimously to continue the strike would indicate that the presence of the troops will have but little effect upon forcing the men to return to work, and from present indications it would seem that the settlement of the strike is no nearer a solution than it has been for many weeks.

ACTION AGAINST COAL RAILWAYS

Philadelphian Wants Anthracite Roads' Combination Declared Illegal.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—Frank H. Thompson, of this city, began proceedings yesterday in the United States circuit court to have the Philadelphia and Reading railway, the Central Railroad of New Jersey, the Lehigh Valley railroad, the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad, the Delaware and Hudson railroad and the New York, Ontario and Western railroad companies declared an illegal combination, because they are engaged in an unlawful restraint of the anthracite coal supply.

Mr. Thompson also requested that the representatives of the companies "be restrained and prohibited from meeting together for the purpose of fixing the rate of coal or market price thereof."

M'KINLEY MEMORIAL TRUSTEES.

To Hold First Annual Meeting, Saturday, Oct. 25.

Cleveland, Oct. 9.—The first annual meeting of the trustees of the McKinley National Memorial association will be held in Canton, on Saturday, Oct. 25. The president of the association, former Secretary of State William R. Day, has issued the call. A full attendance of the trustees is already assured.

The association's first anniversary date is Oct. 10. On that date last year it was formally organized in the office of Senator Hanna, in this city. The annual reports of Treasurer Myron T. Herrick and Secretary Ritchie will be submitted at the coming meeting, together with reports from the auxiliary associations in the several states and territories. These reports will show the collections by divisions and in the aggregate for the country at large. Subjects of interest to the association and its work for the coming year will be discussed. The tomb of the late president will be visited and in all probability the site for the memorial will be chosen.

'TIS TRUE

The Proof Lies In East Liverpool Testimony.

It is not hard to prove the claims made for Doan's Kidney Pills. Scores of people in East Liverpool testify to their merit. Surely the evidence from friends and neighbors, plain statements of their experience, is better proof than the testimony of people residing in some far-away place. Read the following:

Mr. William Torrence, fireman at engine house No. 1 says: "For some time I was annoyed with symptons of either weakened or over-excited kidneys. I had noticed more than one recommendation made byp eople living in East Liverpool about Doan's Kidney Pills, and thinking that if the medicine performed half what it promised it might help me, I bought a box at Larkins' Drug Store. The treatment cured me."

Sold for 50 cents per box by all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

Brought About by Relief From Credit Contraction by the Banks, Tuesday.

New York, Oct. 9.—There was decided relief yesterday from the pressure of the credit contraction by the banks, and the result was a sharp recovery in the prices of stocks. The demand to cover short contracts by the bears was a considerable factor, as the recent heavy declines have made operators on that side of the market bold and quite active. There was some show of enthusiasm in the early buying and considerable gains were established.

The enthusiasm, however, did not last the day out and the bears regained some confidence and ceased their efforts to cover. Some points of strength persisted to the last, notably Union Pacific, but the market generally became somewhat apathetic and closing prices were generally below the best. A stiffening in the money rate late in the day to 15 per cent and a heavy selling movement in Amalgamated Copper helped to unsettle the late dealings.

MAY FINISH WORK TOMORROW

Ohio Legislative Conference Code Committee Worked on Bill Yesterday and Last Night.

Columbus, O., Oct. 9.—The conference committee on the municipal code bill was in session during yesterday afternoon and continued its meeting last night. The section providing for the retention of the present franchise laws, with the unconstitutional features eliminated, was accepted, as was also the curative act, as passed by the senate. This regrants the Cincinnati Traction company its franchise. The senate act, which was accepted by the committee, does not differ from that of the house, except in brevity. The prospects are that the committee will conclude its labors on the code tomorrow.

RIOT IN NEW ORLEANS.

More Than 100 Shots Fired—Incident to Street Car Strike.

New Orleans, Oct. 9.—The attempt yesterday morning of the New Orleans Railways company to start cars on its lines, which have been completely tied up for about 11 days, precipitated a long impending conflict between the strikers and those who attempted to fill their places.

Although 100 shots were fired, nobody was killed. Among those more seriously injured were six policemen, a dozen non-union men and one striker.

Mayor Capdevielle, who requested Governor Heard to order out the militia, was advised that Major General Glynn, in command of the First military district, would report to the mayor this morning. The street railways company announced its determination to run its cars today.

SOME TRI-STATE EVENTS.

Burglars blew open the safe in the ticket office of the Pittsburg and Western station, in Allegheny City, Pa., and got away with between $600 and $800. There is no clew.

The conference between representatives of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers and the American Tin Plate company, at Pittsburg, ended without any wage agreement being completed.

One negro will die and three were badly hurt as a result of a blast in the Wabash tunnel, at Pittsburg, going off prematurely.

Two borough councilmen of Bellevue, near Pittsburg, got into a fist fight and for a time pandemonium reigned in the session of the city fathers.

One Fatally Burned In Beaumont Fire.

Beaumont, Texas, Oct. 9.—Reports received yesterday estimated the loss by Tuesday night's fire in the oil fields from $100,000 to $250,000. Rumors of loss of life have proved untrue, although one man was probably fatally burned while working at the top of a derrick.

Two Negroes Lynched.

New Bern, Tenn., Oct. 6.—Garfield Burley and Curtis Brown, negroes were lynched here last night by a mob of 500 persons. Burley shot and killed D. Flatt, a well-known farmer near Dyersburg, last Saturday. Flatt had traded horses with the negro and later Burley demanded that the trade be declared off. Flatt refused and Burley killed him. Burley named Brown as his accomplice.

Harry Tod Killed by Train.

Youngstown, O., Oct. 9.—An automobile containing Harry Tod, John Cod, Frank Silver and Charles Stitt was run down by an Erie train yesterday. Harry Tod was instantly killed and Charles Stitt received slight injuries. The others escaped injury. Harry Tod was a son of Harry Tod, a prominent capitalist, and a grandson of the late Governor Tod, of Ohio.

Ohio Woman's Suffrage Association.

Cleveland, Oct. 9.—At yesterday's session of the Ohio Woman's Suffrage association the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton, Warren, president; Mrs. Sarah A. Bissell, Toledo, vice president; Dr. Carrie Chase Davis, Sandusky, recording secretary; Edith E. Root, Kinsman, corresponding secretary; Dr. Sarah M Siewers, Cincinnati, treasurer; Mrs Anna M. Hobson, Athens, auditor; Mrs. Frances M. Casement, Painesville, honorary president.

Sleeplessness and indigestion are the result of an impoverished condition of the blood. The system does not receive the proper nutrition from what little food that is forced upon the unwilling stomach, and a weakened condition in general follows. Improper digestive functions also have a depressing effect on the bowels, and quite natural constipation is added to the list, and so on troubles multiply until matters become indeed serious. It's never too late to take Wright's Celery Tea because if a cure is possible this efficient remedy will bring it about. It is a combination of the curative, healing properties of the celery plant and many other highly remedial herbs, which acts on the proper cause and restores perfect health. Pleasant to take. Claimed Killed Wife During Fit.

Traverse City, Mich., Oct. 9.—After being out 22½ hours, a jury yesterday found John A. Hargraves guilty of manslaughter. Hargraves last April choked his invalid wife and beat her to death with a club in a bedroom of their home in this city. The principal defense was that if he had killed the woman it was while he was having a fit, to which he was subject, and he could remember nothing of it.

Don't Fail to get in with the Train Loads Bound for the New City that's to be built upon Pottery by the greatest China Producing Industries in the World.

Derry, Pa.

46 miles East of Pittsburg, on main line P. R. R.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 11

THE plant of the Derry China Company, now being built, covers 20 acres of ground, networked with tracks from the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad, whose train yards are at this point, making it the congregating center for at least 1,000 railroad men. The first building the Derry China Company will have finished is 500 x 132 feet, and many other buildings will compare favorably in size with this first structure.

There will be five immense potteries to start with and 2,000 people employed. There will also be the Keeling & Ridge Brick and Tile Co.'s big works, which will employ several hundred men and turn out from 75,000 to 125,000 bricks daily besides an enormous amount of fine exterior and interior tile products. There will also be a splendid electric light plant to supply the streets and busines houses, factories and homes with illumination. There will be a number of other industries, as negotiations are in progress between the Derry Land Company and several big corporations who desire to locate in Derry.

You will understand how things are progressing when we tell you 1,000 men are now at work giving the city metropolitan improvements—streets are being sewered, graded, paved, curbed, and provided with sidewalks. Purchasers who may purchase business sites before the improvements have been finished will be guaranteed improvements in the contracts. Street cars will run from Derry to Johnstown, Blairsville, Saltsburg, Indiana, Latrobe, Greensburg, Jeannette and Pittsburg. The line is now being projected. Another thing investors, and especially home-seekers should not forget is that Derry will have the finest water supply in the state, if not in the United States. The great natural lake, fed by mountain springs, contains 178,000, gallons, enough to supply a city of 500,000 population. This is more water than Highland Reservoir No. 2 in Pittsburgh holds, and in addition to it Derry has two large mountain reservoirs. Her water supply is inexhaustable. Not only inexhaustable but pure.

Government Statistics!

YOU get a true conception of what this extensive pottery industry will do for Derry when you stop to look into the facts which built up East Liverpool. Thirty-two potteries there paid out a large volume of wages in one year than any other thirty-two industries in the United States with the same amount of money invested. This truth was incorporated in the United States Goverment Statistics for the year 1901.

Of the 4,109 voters in East Liverpool, which has a population of 21,000, 3,000 are either buying or already they own homes in which they live. But there's a tremendous difference between the opportunity at East Liverpool and the opportunity at Derry. Derry is only at the beginning of her destiny, and on this aecount real estate prices are at a depth which affords investors a chance to come in and get rich. They can buy at ground floor prices impossible in a town that is already built up, and when the works are completed they have made a profit on their lot that would take them ten years to earn, should they buy in a city that has reached its commercial supremacy.

Therefore, the future for the potter, the clay-worker, or investor, is at Derry, where he can purchase property at one-fifth the prices it is selling for at any other pottery center. and he is sure of extra good employment, because the field of labor is not overcrowded. Derry's cry for help will not go out from the throats of the artisans, but from the employers who need artisans. Who can say that such a place is not the ideal spot for a man with a little money to plant a few dollars in and then live within his cherished garden until its fruits make him independent.

When Isaac A. Harvey and Isaae A. Knowles erected the first pottery in East Liverpool, little did they dream that the town wonld grow and create the wealth that is now there. Yet every potter center that has been founded in America since that time has opened the eyes of the world and astonished the British, Austrian, and German nations, who in former years had a monopoly of the American Market.

Big Wages!

AS a rule a potter earns better wages and lives better than any other class of workmen in the United States. His hours of employment are the shortest. He starts to work at 7 A. M., stops for a second breakfast at 9:30 to 10 A. M., goes to dinner at noon, and quits work at 4 P.M. This gives him leisure moments for shopping, out door sports and and society. These leisure hours make hin the greatest liver on earth and as a consequence the greatest shopper. Where there are potteries of magnitude there are always a large number of good stores. This is a point investors and business men, who desire to locate in a new town where they can build up a splendid business, should not overlook. If you get in now you can pick some great store sites on Harvey and Owens Avenues. We are sure that any of these sites can be resold before spring at an advance of $1,000 over present prices. Very choice lots that you can purchase today at $750 will be worth not a dollar less than $3,000 by next June and may go to $4,500 or $5,000.

These statements may seem erratic, but when you look at the pottery town of Sebring, Ohio, which can never have the future that the recently discovered, unequaled natural resources will establish at Derry, you begin to realize that we are printing facts based upon precedent—statements that can be relied upon. If there be an investor who doubts the authenticity of this assertion the Derry Land Company is in a position to make the matter clearer in a personal interview, as there are projects on foot which which would take more space to print than is at our command.

TERMS

Ten per cent. down, balance three per cent. per month, ten per cent. discount for cash when paid within sixty days.

These terms and prices are subject to change on any of the lots remaining unsold after date of the FREE EXCURSION as the object of this sale is to get building operations started at once, so that the men who come to work in the Derry China Company's immense new plant will have roofs to cover them. In fact, no such quality of property was ever offered before in a positively REMARKABLE MONEY-MAKING locality at the figures that will be the sensation of this occasion.

Some business lots on Harvey and Owens avenues and a few residence lots are commanding a view of the great lake of MOUNTAIN SPRING WATER will be offered at prices a little higher than $600, but in no case will the prices asked approach the sum that the lots can be resold for after the excitement of the early hours has subsided and investors realize how subsfantial a community is to be established.

Brief Notes of a Personal Nature And of Matters About Town.

Child's Shoulder Broken—Emma, the little daughter of Daniel Woods, of Waterloo street, fell from a merry-go-round where she was playing and broke her shoulder.

To Entertain the Society—Mrs. W. H. Vodrey will entertain the members of the Girl's Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church at her home next Saturday afternoon.

For National Trustee—Among the nominations for national officers of the Daughters of Liberty convention at Cincinnati is that of J. E. Anderson, of this city, for national trustee. He is unopposed.

Camera Club Exhibit—The Camera club has been granted the lecture room of the Carnegie Public library. On November 10 the members will hold an exhibition in this room which will b free to all, and will last a week.

Attending the Fair—Mayor Davidson and quite a number of other local lovers of horse racing left this morning for Steubenville to attend the fair. Several East Liverpool horses are scheduled to race today, and it is predicted that they will come out with a good share of the prize money.

Rev. J. G. Reinartz Elected.

The eighty-eighth conference of the Pittsburg Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran church which has been in session in Pittsburg for two days, adjourned yesterday afternoon. Many interesting and instructive papers were read during the meeting. Rev. J. G. Reinartz, of this city, was elected president of the Central Mission league. Delegates to this League meeting from the local church were Miss Tillie Agner and Miss Kahrs.

Coming to Town Soon.

A new voter will soon locate in Liverpool township, coming across the border from St. Clair township, to take up his residence in the Klondike section. "Uncle" Daniel J. Smith, of Mt. Pisgah, has purchased property in the East and is now arranging to erect a modern dwelling. Work is to start soon, and it is expected that he will be able to move from the country by the first of the year.

consideration of it was postponed until next Tuesday, when it will come up for final action. The house bill making available the next year's salaries of the members and providing for an appropriation to cover the pay due the legislative attaches for services rendered during the special session was passed. Resolutions were adopted as follows: By Archer, authorizing a committee to purchase at a cost of $300 each, portraits of Lieutenant Governors Caldwell and Nippert; by Godfrey, setting apart two rooms in the relic department of the state house for the use of the state library; by Beal, urging congress to reinstate Col. William Welch, of Cadiz, to his former rank in the army. Bills were passed authorizing the trustees of the Boys' Industrial Home to grant paroles and re-hear cases to trial judges; permitting Lake Erie fishermen to catch and market black bass; correcting the lines of a special school district at Sherodsville, Carroll county. The house amendments to the Harrison library bills were concurred in.

Unless the Democrats recede from the position they have taken there will be no police court legislation at this session. The Republicans cannot pass a bill to provide for this without help from the Democrats. Unfortunately all the police court laws have been repealed, and unless the Democrats yield all such judicial districts will be abolished after November 15.

Hon. J. B. Cameron, state treasurer, will deliver an address on the subject, "Public Funds," before the Ohio State Bankers' association, which will meet in annual session at Cincinnati on October 16. A number of distinguished speakers will be present, among whom will be Former Secretary of State Daniel R. Ryan, who is connected with some of the leading business enterprises of the state.

EXCITING BOWLING MATCH

Played Last Evening By the Imperials Against a Picked Team of the City.

An exciting bowling contest was engaged in by the Imperials and a picked team on the Craig-Carnahan alleys last evening. A large crowd of fanciers of the game were present and witnessed the defeat of the picked team. The individual and total scores follow:

BIG CUT IN PIANO PRICES

The Lane & Brown Business to Close Up In Ten Days. Every Piano And Organ to be Sold Regardless of Cost. Store in Hands of Factory Agent.

The Sale Begins Today And Lasts Ten Days Only. A Rare Chance to Buy a High Grade Piano or Organ At Factory Cost.

The Kimball, Steger, Cable, Royal, Singer, Arion And Other Pianos.

Some time ago I shipped to Lane & Brown, of this city, a beautiful new stock of high grade pianos, and find, owing to Mr. Brown having accepted an engagement elsewhere, it will be either necessary to reship or close out this big stock of pianos and organs. To reship this stock would be expensive, and after looking over the situation carefully, I have decided to offer the entire stock to the citizens of East Liverpool at a price that will insure the sale of every instrument in short order.

The makers of pianos above enumerated will need no introduction. The guarantee on them is solid and perfect satisfaction will be warranted in every instance.

To assure you that I mean business, I shall offer and sell high grade first-class pianos, usually sold from $400 to $600, at $287, $293 and $337.

First-class medium pianos, regularly sold at $300 to $400, at $187 to $226.

A No. 1 upright piano regularly sold at $200 to $300, at $137.50 and $182.

Splendid six-octave organs, regular price from $75 to $135, will go from 57.50 and downwards.

Every instrument marked in plain figures, one price to all—absolutely nothing reserved.

Terms as follows: From $10 to $25 cash and $6 to $10 per month on balances on pianos; $4 and up on organs; 6 per cent. interest on deferred payments.

Sale begins today.

Navigating the Elbe.

A curious means of moving boats is employed on the river Elbe—a chain 200 miles long at the bottom of the stream, which is too swift to navigate in the usual way. The boats are 180 feet long and provided with 200 horse-power steam engines which turn a drum fastened on the deck. The chain comes in over the bow, passing along on rollers to the drum, around which it is wound three times. The chain is then carried to the stern, where it drops back into the water. The steamers tow five barges containing 1,500 tons.

STRIKERS ARE FIRM.

Anthracite Miners' Lodges Voted to Not Return to Work.

MITCHELL ANSWERS ROOSEVELT

Miners, In Resolutions, Offer to Help Maintain Peace—Praise Roosevelt's Efforts—Denounce Stone's Action. Express Confidence in Mitchell.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 9.—Unless President Mitchell's hurried visit to New York bears fruit, the end of the mine workers' strike seems a long way off and the prospects of sufficient coal being mined to satisfy the public demand is extremely poor. Every local union of the miners' organization through the length and breadth of the hard coal belt held special meetings either Tuesday night or yesterday and resolved to remain on strike until the mine owners granted them some concession.

Mitchell Replied to Roosevelt.

And while the reports of these meetings came pouring in to Wilkesbarre by telegraph, train and messenger, President Mitchell dictated a letter to the president of the United States, in which he gave his answer to the proposition that the strikers return to work and trust to have their condition improved through an investigating commission. What was the answer of the miners' chief he refuses to divulge, but it is difficult to conceive that with the replies of the local unions piled around him how he could do otherwise than respectfully decline the president's proposition. Mr. Mitchell sent his letter to Washington before he had heard from all the locals, and at 3 o'clock in the afternoon he packed his grip and, accompanied by the three district presidents, left for New York.

His Mission a Secret.

His mission there is also a secret, and his sudden departure caused much speculation. As New York is the headquarters of the coal operators a rumor spread that a settlement was in prospective, but as Mr. Mitchell and his colleagues would not say whom they expected to meet, all eyes are for the time being turned toward the metropolis.

It was a busy day for the miners, especially the officials, about headquarters. From early morning until late last night the returns came in constantly. Last evening the corps of newspaper correspondents stationed here were invited to examine the reports, and not one was found that was not couched in firm language.

Contents of Miners' Resolutions.

Briefly stated, the resolutions in these reports affirm the confidence of the men in the integrity and judgment of their president, praise President Roosevelt for his efforts to end the strike, denounce the presidents of the coal carrying railroads for their alleged abuse of the chief executive at the conference in Washington, denounce the employment of the coal and iron police, offer to assist the authorities in maintaining peace, thank all organizations and citizens throughout the country for the financial assistance given, regret the presence of the troops, denounce Governor Stone for sending them here, and some of the resolutions say the men will remain away from the mines all winter, or "until the bluebirds call again." Excepting those from the Hazleton district, which were almost identical in phraseology, the resolutions were different from one another. Nearly every one, however, contained a sentence to the effect that the men are not afraid to return to work because of the alleged lack of protection, but will remain out "though all the troops in the United States were sent here," and until they are granted some concessions.

DEMAND SEIZING OF MINES.

Philadelphia Central Labor Union Committee Tells Gov. Stone That Was Best Strike Remedy.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 9.—Formal demand was made upon Governor Stone yesterday to seize the hard coal mines in this state and operate them in the interest of the people. The governor referred the matter to Attorney General Elkin and it is expected that official will furnish the executive with a written opinion when he returns from Indiana.

The demand was made in the form of resolutions adopted by the Central Labor union of Philadelphia and was presented by a committee from that organization.

The committee told the governor that the best means of a speedy settlement of the strike was to enforce that clause of the constitution which prohibits railroad companies from mining coal.

ORDERED TO MEET GUIDI.

Paya Told to See Him at Manila, Even if He Has to Disappoint Chapelle.

Rome, Oct. 9.—Archbishop Guidi, apostolic delegate in the Philippines, on his own responsibility, has instructed Rev. Santiago Paya, provincial of the Order of Dominicans in the Philippine islands, who is at present in Spain and who intends to shortly proceed from there to Manila, to meet him on his arrival at Manila, even if he has to leave without seeing Archbishop Chapelle, the apostolic delegate to Cuba and Porto Rico, who in a recent communication begged Father Paya to await his approaching arrival in Rome, as he wished to confer with him.

Archbishop Guidi is anxious to confer with the provincials of all the orders, so as to hasten the solution of the questions concerning the friars in the Philippines as much as possible.

PITTSBURG M. E. CONFERENCE.

Seventy-Ninth Annual Session Begun In Pittsburg—Welcome Exercises Held.

Pittsburg, Oct. 9.—The Pittsburg conference of the Methodist Episcopal church opened its seventy-ninth annual session yesterday in the West End Methodist Episcopal church, of which the Rev. Dr. George W. Terbush is pastor. Little was done at the first session for the reason that only about half the ministers from the five districts embraced in the Pittsburg conference were present.

A meeting of the conference board of examiners was held in the afternoon, at which candidates for the ministry were listened to.

The conference was informally opened last night by the Rev. D. B. F. Beazell, of the Blairsville conference, who offered up a prayer. Addresses of welcome were made by the Revs. E. R. Donehoo, W. R. Thompson, R. B. Davidson, T. J. Gaehr and by John Weaver. Responses were delivered by the Rev. Bishop J. N. Fitzgerald, of St. Louis, the Revs. H. L. Chapman and J. W. Miles. Captain John A. Wood presided at the meeting.

ALTOONA MERCHANT ACQUITTED

Decision In Conspiracy Case, Caused by Wages Attachment.

Hollidaysburg, Pa., Oct. 9.—John H. Miller, an Altoona merchant, was acquitted in the Blair county court yesterday in a prosecution against him alleging conspiracy with W. W. Rogers, of Wheeling, W. Va., to attach the wages of his debtors in violation of the laws of Pennsylvania. Miller had assigned his store accounts against Pennsylvania railroad workmen to Mr. Rogers, who began attachment proceedings against the railroad in the West Virginia courts.

Sixty other merchants are being prosecuted on similar charges. This is the first trial of this character in the state. Almost 1,000 attachment cases, involving claims for $125,000, have been brought against railroad workmen who reside in this county.

PRESIDENT SAW G.A.R.

Rode In Carriage Along Line of Old Soldiers In the Parade.

Hardly a Faltering Marcher Seen In Whole Line—Providence Blessed Them With Perfect Weather—Spectators Were Enthusiastic.

Washington, Oct. 9.—The parade of the G. A. R. veterans yesterday was the climax of the thirty-sixth encampment of their order. Beginning at a few minutes past 10 o'clock, when the head of the column moved from its station at the Capitol, it was almost 5 o'clock when the last squad in the line had passed the place of disbandment, west of the White House. None of the soldiers were marching any great part of the time, for the entire line of march did not exceed two and a half miles in length, but those who composed the rear detachments were on their feet practically all day, much of the time being consumed in waiting to take their places in the line. The route of the parade was down historic Pennsylvania avenue, along which many of them marched as raw recruits in going to the war in 1861 and 1862, and many others on the occasion of the grand review after the close of the war in 1865. The participants in the imposing pageant entered with life and vigor into the spirit of the occasion. Each countenance bore evidence of the joy the experience brought to the individual, and it was plainly evident that there was in the occasion much of the restoration of youth for most of them. The "old boys" for the time being evidently were re-living the days of their youth. Not many of them exhibited traces of age in their marching. Almost without exception they walked along with alacrity and kept step with precision.

Providence Gave Perfect Weather.

Providence bestowed upon them perfect weather. The spectators were limited in numbers only by the capacity of the broad sidewalks, the stands, the parks, the windows and the house tops along the line of march to hold them. The government departments and the schools were closed for the day, and practically the entire population of Washington turned out to do honor to the veterans, along with the hundred thousand visitors to the city.

The president of the United States had himself driven up and down the line in a carriage. The unusual interest thus manifested was appreciated by the old soldiers and the president was everywhere received by them with loud applause.

More than five hours' time was consumed by the procession in passing the reviewing stand in front of the White House.

There were at least 25,000 men in line and the estimate of Commander-in-Chief Torrance ran as high as 30,000 men.

Last night the veterans held camp fires in the big tents in the White House lot.

GEN. STEWART IN THE LEAD.

Pennsylvanian May Be G. A. R. Commander—Cities Now After Encampment May Not Get It.

Washington, Oct. 9.—The three active candidates for the honor of entertaining the G. A. R., at the next annual encampment of the G. A. R. are Saratoga, Atlantic City and San Francisco. There seems to be quite a sentiment in favor of choosing some city between the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, and it is said that the encampment may go to neither of the three cities named if a city in the middle west actively pushes its claims.

The leading candidates for commander-in-chief are General Stewart, of Pennsylvania; General John C. Black, of Illinois; Colonel McElroy, of Washington, and General Daniel Sickles, of New York. General Stewart is thought to have the lead at present, though General Black's friends claim about an equal number of delegates pledged. For senior vice commander the race apparently lies between J. M. Smith, of Ohio and H. M. Orahood, of Colorado, with Mr. Shaw, of West Virginia, Assistant Adjutant General Averill, of West Virginia, and Mr. Calkins, of Oregon, contesting for the honor of being junior vice commander-in-chief.

Mitigating Circumstances.

"Are you aware of any mitigating circumstances in your case?" asked a magistrate of a negro convicted of stealing a coat.

"Yes, sah; lots ob 'em. Ef I had time, jedge, I could talk to you for a week on dat subject."

"If you know of any mitigating circumstance, please state it."

"Yes, sah; I'll tell you ob one right now, sah. How easy would it have been for me to bring my family inter disgrace and misery, sah. I jess remained single. I nebber married, sah. Anudder mitigatin' circumstance am"—

"Officer, remove the prisoner."

WHAT DO THEY FEAR?

Why Do Tom Johnson Democrats Dodge?

NO NATIONAL ISSUES ALLOWED.

Their Boss Forbids All Discussion of the Great Question Involved In Ohio's Vote For 21 Members of Congress—Nothing But His Fad to Be Talked About.

What is the matter with the great national questions, that the Ohio Democracy dodge them? Why has their new boss, just out of New York, passed the word along the line that there must be no talk about anything except his taxation theory, that is itself contrary to the constitution and statutes of the state?

Can it be that the party of Bryan and Cleveland and all the intervening shades of opinion, no longer cares to control the next congress? Perhaps the presidency itself and the preparation for the next campaign for that great office now have no attraction for the Tom Johnson Democrats. If so, why are they afraid to talk about the issues involved in the election of members of congress, 21 of them to be chosen in Ohio next month?

The "just taxation" of steam railroads and "home rule" are the only two topics about which Tom Johnson talks, or his accidental parson. Both are only state affairs, and both of these speakers in their campaign keynotes absolutely ignore all great national questions and refuse to touch upon them. The same seems to be enjoined upon the spell-binders of the Democratic party throughout the state, and we are blest with the precious spectacle of a party trying to elect candidates for congress who shall decide upon policies affecting every section of the nation and our relations with the entire world, but yet nothing said by the Ohio Democracy upon any question that will come before congress.

Home rule is a humbug in this case, for by Johnson's own words it has narrowed down to the question whether he shall be mayor of the city of Cleveland with power to do as he pleases without interference to the political machine he is building up and its $700,000 increase in the city's expenses in the past year. Home rule is a nice thing to be talked about in Ohio by a man who claimed New York as his residence less than two years ago. Home rule again is nice and proper when the mayor of Cleveland goes into the other counties of the state and dictates to their local Democracy in regard to their own candidates and tells who they shall support and who shall be bolted.

As to the just taxation of the steam railroads, the utter humbug of that was completely exposed to Johnson's face at his Columbus meeting by his own orator and advocate, "my friend, Mr. Clark," the Cleveland gold Democrat.

When the tariff is revised the work should be done by protectionists, and not by the free traders, who threw the country into a panic a few years ago.

Those who witnessed the Tom Johnson display here have come to the conclusion that it was being run simply in the interests of Tom Johnson.—Bowling Green Tribune.

We predict that 25 per cent of the Hancock county Democrats will stay at home on election day next November. They are happy as it is, and willing to let well enough alone.—Findlay Jeffersonian.

In 1890 there was $1,524,844,506 in deposits in the savings banks of the country. Last year the aggregate was $2,597,094,580. There is a prosperity argument which cannot be overcome—Toledo Blade.

While the Republican party is going ahead in all the ways of progress, the Democratic party is forever hanging onto the coattails of the world, crying "Whoa!" with all its might.—General Charles Grosvenor.

The Hon. John R. McLean of Washington and Bar Harbor, according to Tom Johnson, is a "nice man personally," and there is "no objection to him on that score," but he "stands for nothing but boodle in politics." Mr. Johnson's code of ethics seems to wabble a little.—Chicago Tribune.

The Democratic party in this state does not propose a measure by which things are to be improved, and not one of them has a probable betterment in view. The main object is: Place us in power, so that things may be done our way. Very properly the people will consider whether their officials and their way would make things better, and will say to themselves: Better let well enough alone.—Piqua Call.

TWO PERORATIONS.

From Hay's Eulogy on McKinley and Blaine's Eulogy on Garfield.

It is a curious coincidence that on Feb. 27, 1882, and on Feb. 27, 1902, a secretary of state of a murdered president delivered a eulogy of his dead chief before the houses of congress. Mr. Hay, primarily a writer, showed the essayist in his oration on McKinley. Mr. Blaine, primarily a speaker, showed the orator in his oration on Garfield. Here is the peroration of Hay's eulogy of McKinley:

There is not one of us but feels prouder of his native land because the august figure of Washington presided over its beginnings; no one but vows it a tenderer love because Lincoln poured out his blood for it; no one but must feel his devotion for his country renewed and kindled when he remembers how McKinley loved, revered and served it, showed in his life how a citizen should live and in his last hour taught us how a gentleman could die.

Blaine's oration on Garfield ended with this famous passage:

As the end drew near his early craving for the sea returned. The stately mansion of power had been to him the wearisome hospital of pain, and he begged to be taken from his prison walls, from its oppressive, stifling air, from its homelessness and its hopelessness. Gently, silently, the love of a great people bore the pale sufferer to the longed for healing of the sea to live or to die, as God should will, within sight of the heaving billows, within sound of its manifold voices. With a wan, fevered face, tenderly lifted to the cooling breeze, he looked out wistfully upon the ocean's changing wonders, on its far sails, on its restless waves rolling shoreward to break and die beneath the noonday sun; on the red clouds of evening, arching low to the horizon; on the serene and shining pathway of the stars. Let us think that his dying eyes read a mystic meaning which only the rapt and parting soul may know. Let us believe that in the silence of the receding world he heard the great waves breaking on a farther shore and felt already upon his wasted brow the breath of the eternal morning.

THE PARADISE FISH.

The oddest of all piscatorial rarities is the paradise fish of China. Like the German canary and one or two other species of bird and fish, this little finny beauty is the product of cultivation only, there being no place in the world where it is found in a wild state. In the land of the dragon they are kept and cultivated in ornamental aquariums, each succeeding generation of the little oddities exhibiting more diversified colors. The male is the larger of the two sexes, measuring when full grown three and a half inches. The body is shaped very much like that of a common pumpkin seed sunfish, its color surpassing in brilliancy any fish heretofore cultivated for the aquarium. The head of macropodus (that's his generic name) is ashy gray, mottled with irregular dark spots. The gills are azurine blue, bordered with brilliant crimson.

The eyes are yellow and red, with a black pupil. The sides of the body and the crescent shaped caudal fin are deep crimson, the former having from ten to twelve vertical blue stripes, while the latter is bordered with blue. The upper surface of the body is continually changing color—sometimes it is white, at others gray, black or blue. The dorsal and anal fins are remarkably large, hence its generic name—macro, large; podus, fin or foot. Both fins are shaped alike and are striped with brown and bordered with a bright blue. The dull colored ventral fins are protected by a brilliant scarlet colored spine, extending three-fourths of an inch behind the body of the fin. The pectoral fins are well shaped, but transparent and colorless.

Mounting a Horse.

A careful bicyclist learns to mount from either side of the wheel, since the emergency may arise at any moment, says the London Chronicle. One would think that the horseman would be equally careful to provide for possibilities and accustom himself to mounting indifferently from the off side and the near side. But if he were to venture to mount on the right side—which is the wrong side—in a hotel stable yard the hostler would probably demand the price of a gallon as the statutory fine, and the horse would collapse with surprise. What is the meaning of this convention? It appears in odd places. Not only does the trick horse in the circus canter from right to left, but the after dinner wine passes the same way. "The way of the sun" is the current explanation, which is absurd.

Willing to Go Without.

Henry Clews, perfectly bald, was once traveling on a western railroad. Sitting directly behind him was a coarse looking man with a rough shock of hair the color of brick dust.

Tapping Mr. Clews on the shoulder, the fellow remarked:

"Guess you wasn't around when they gave out the hair."

"Oh, yes," was the answer, "but I was a trifle late, and there was nothing left but that stuff you wear, so I told them I'd rather have none."—New York Times.

NOTE THE CONTRAST.

National Record of Both Parties on the Trusts.

The Law Praised as Effective, Was Formed, Passed, Signed and Executed by Republicans—Democrats Did Nothing, Even When In Full Power, and Still Block the Way.

A verbatim report of the speeches at the Tom Johnson meeting in Columbus would bring out a number of interesting points. Of course it is very easy to recall the dignified and high-toned manner of the hero of the evening when he repeatedly referred to Representative Gear, from Wyandot county, as a dirty blackguard. One scarcely wonders that one of the local Democratic papers in referring to this editorially explains to its readers that its present party leader in Ohio was not in a barroom and was sober. Evidently it fears that the demonstration of gentlemanly conduct on his part might mar his chances with the few people who still think that the dignity of George Washington better befits a presidential aspirant than such rowdy rudeness.

Among the weightier remarks of the evening that ought to be preserved in their identical language was that part of the speech of the gentleman whom Mr. Johnson called "my friend, Mr. Clark," (John H. Clark, the Gold Democrat from Cleveland, known in northeastern Ohio as one of the shrewdest lawyers of that section), in which Mr. Clark very emphatically praised the Sherman anti-trust law as so shrewdly drawn that it had defied the efforts of a number of the greatest lawyers in the country to evade its provisions. He pointed out its efficacy when vigorously enforced, and altogether showed that the statute is one of the strongest laws of the United States upon any subject.

Agreeing at once to all this, it is interesting to add to Mr. Clark's commendation some facts that he might easily have given, for he is a well informed gentleman. To summarize these briefly, we note that this was the outgrowth of official recommendations of a Republican president of the United States, Benjamin Harrison; that it was the first bill introduced in the senate of the Fifty-first congress by the great Republican leader, John Sherman of Ohio; that it was reported for immediate consideration in the House by William McKinley of Ohio; who was certainly Republican enough to satisfy the most exacting. The opposition to action upon it in the house was by the Democrats, through their great leaders all making speeches against it as impracticable and proposing the same old free trade that they are still talking about as their own and only impossible remedy for trade combinations.

July 2, 1890, President Harrison promptly signed this bill, and as expeditiously as its enforcement could be had cases under it were taken to the courts, and in several instances strong combinations were broken up by its use, the United States supreme court sustaining the prosecutions. Under President Harrison a combination of Kentucky coal mine owners and of Nashville, Tenn., coal dealers to control the trade of that city, was effectually enjoined. Under President McKinley, in the case of the United States against the Joint Traffic association, the supreme court broke up that great combination. Similar combinations were thwarted by the courts in the cases against the Addyston Pipe and Steel company and the Chesapeake and Ohio Fuel company. Under President Roosevelt cases have been commenced against the Northern Securities company to prevent that great merger of railroad systems in the Northwest, and against the beef trust, and are now in the courts for a hearing, which will be promptly secured.

Thus, under the three Republican presidents who have had to do with this law since its enactment, each of them has found it effective and has accomplished important results with it, but under the "four years of Grover," President Cleveland and the entire Democratic administration did nothing, and tried to do nothing, succeeding in this last most completely.

Mr. Clark might well have shown this very wide distinction between the two parties in their administration of this law, Republican in its origin and entirely Republican in its enactment, and absolutely Republican in its enforcement, with not a thing done by the Democrats to get it on the statute books, nor to use it after it was got there. That is the record of the two parties.

Third Wage Increase This Year.

The Columbus Railway company will increase the wages of its employes one-half cent an hour, beginning Friday. A notice to this effect was posted some time ago. This is the third increase of a similar amount this year. The men are now receiving within a small fraction of 20 cents an hour, counting the regular dividend, beside uniforms, which amount to about one-half a cent an hour. The increase adds $10,000 to the pay roll, the company claims.—Columbus Dispatch.

Tom Johnson calmly admits that he made his money by taking advantage of alleged bad laws or laws loosely enforced. Mayor Tom may inspire some retired, well fixed, burglar to start out in a crusade in favor of more stringent laws against grand and petit larceny.—Youngstown Telegram.

THE SAUERKRAUT PEDDLER.

The regular and popular visitor to the German inns and taverns of the east side is the sauerkraut man. He brings his calling with him from the old country and finds a more profitable field in New York than in Berlin or Hamburg. His equipment is quite curious. He wears a blue or white apron running from his neck nearly to the ankles, and from his shoulders is suspended a circular metal box which goes half around his waist. It has three large compartments, two of which are surrounded by hot water. In one are well cooked frankfurter sausages and in the other thoroughly boiled sauerkraut. In the third compartment is potato salad. He carries in his hand a basket in which are small plates and steel forks. One sausage and a generous spoonful of sauerkraut and potato salad cost 5 cents. All three articles are of good quality, well cooked and seasoned. He finds his best customers in the bowling alleys, where the exertion demanded by the game produces large appetites. Next to these are the taverns which do not supply food with their drink. Last of all are the halls and meeting rooms where different societies assemble. His nightly stock consists of fifty sausages, seven pounds of sauerkraut and as much more of salad. On bad evenings he takes only half as much stock as on fair ones. Some of the more fortunate peddlers have arrangements with clubs which pay them a very fair profit upon their goods. Others are free lances who visit every place where they think they can effect a sale.

The metal boxes are very ingenious and are made in Germany. The metal is some variety of pewter, and the fitting of the compartments and of the entire affair to the body is very accurate. The covers are so well hinged and snug at the edges that when the owner falls down he is not liable to spill any of the contents. The contrivance costs some $3 in Germany, and about $5 in New York. A few of the peddlers appeal to educated palates and carry with them cervelat, bock, reh, leberwurst and vienna, as well as frankfurters. These fancy sausages usually bring 10 cents instead of the regulation 5.

The forks are washed after the customer has finished his little meal, and from repeated cleansing and use are as bright as silver. The plates, on the other hand, are so banged and bruised that they might be easily mistaken for crackle wear.—New York Post.

The Wrath of the Bee.

At the end of winter most hives have exhausted their stores and become dangerous. When this is the case, woe to him who touches the hives. Smoke has lost its spell, and you shall scarce have emitted the first puffs before 20,000 acrid and enraged demons will dart from within the walls, overwhelm your hands, blind your eyes and blacken your face. No living being except, they say, the bear and the sphinx atropos, can resist the rage of the mailed legions. Above all, do not struggle. The fury would overtake the neighboring colonies. There is no means of safety other than instant flight through the bushes. The bee is less rancorous, less implacable, than the wasp and rarely pursues her enemy. If flight be impossible, absolute immobility alone might calm her or put her off the scent. She fears and attacks any too sudden movement, but at once forgives that which no longer stirs.—Harper's.

A Safe Age.

The insuring of one's life is one of those things which one is most apt to put off. There are few, however, who postpone what ought to be the inevitable until so late a period in life as did the tough old smack owner of Grimsby. When he presented himself at the insurance office, he was naturally asked his age. His reply was, "Ninety-four." "Why, my good man, we cannot insure you," said the company. "Why not?" he demanded. "Why, you are ninety-four years of age." "What of that?" the old man cried. "Look at statistics, and they will tell you that fewer men die at ninety-four than at any other age."—London Business Illustrated.

Their Branch of Service.

"To what branch of the military service do captains of industry belong?" asked the recognized yet surviving joker of the party.

"I give it up," replied his victim wearily.

"To the artillery, because they're all 'big guns.' See? Ha, ha, ho, ho!"—Syracuse Herald.

Cool Trees.

It is not shade alone that makes it cooler under a tree in the summer. The coolness of the tree itself helps, for its temperature is about 45 degrees F. at all times, as that of the human body is a fraction more than 98 degrees. So a clump of trees cools the air as a piece of ice cools the water in a pitcher.

A Cheerful Wait.

A laborer applied to the foreman at some building's workshop for a job: "Can yez do anything fur a poor fella at all in the shape ave work?"

Foreman—Oi hev nothin' the day. Cum back agen. There is a drunken carpenther workin' on the top, and Oi'm waitin' ivery minit till he falls and gits killed.

Certainly a Clever Lawyer.

The trusting shoemaker is apt to get beaten out of his boots—Philadelphia Record.

BIZET AND HALEVY.

The Story of the Origin of a Popular Air In "Carmen."

Bizet, the composer of the world famous opera "Carmen," and Halevy, his librettist, once occupied apartments whose outer doors opened on the same landing. As soon as he had finished an air Bizet would hasten to submit it to his neighbor, who subjected it to the most severe criticism. From morning to night the piano resounded in the composer's apartments. One night Bizet finished a dramatic bit in which he flattered himself he had successfully sketched the pride of a triumphant toreador after a successful bullfight. But Halevy listened in silence and showed but a moderate enthusiasm. Bizet, somewhat piqued, asked the cause of this coldness.

"It's good, I admit," said Halevy. "In fact, it's too good. It lacks movement—it lacks snap—in short, it's not popular enough."

"Not popular enough!" shouted the piqued composer. "Do you want to write for the slums?" He went out in a huff, but soon relented and in an hour returned with another air. "Listen to this," said he; "here is my toreador idea written down to your popular level." It was indeed the song of the toreador, and the only one which on the first night received an encore and seemed to move the first night audience from its torpor.—Chicago News.

He Saw Them.

SILENCE!

The instinct of modesty natural to every woman is often a great hindrance to the cure of womanly diseases. Women shrink from the personal questions of the local physician which seem indelicate. The thought of examination is abhorrent to them, and so they endure in silence a condition of disease which surely progresses from bad to worse.

It has been Dr. Pierce's privilege to cure a great many women who have found a refuge for modesty in his offer of free consultation by letter. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Doctor R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Your kind advice for home treatment helped me wonderfully. Thanks to Dr. Pierce."

ALL HE SAID FALSE.

So a Democrat Declared About Tom Johnson.

And That, Too, Was His Own Chosen Orator From His Own City and on His Own Fad of Steam Railroad Taxation.

Wrong by 20 per cent. in his statement of the tax valuation of the Nickle Plate railroad in Indiana, exaggerating it by that much; wrong again by 75 per cent. in his statement of the tax valuation of the same road in Ohio, understating it by that amount; completely and absolutely wrong in his suppression of any statement of the vital fact of the entire dispute, that the Nickle Plate road pays as many dollars of taxes per mile in Ohio as in Indiana, was Tom Johnson's record at the Democratic mass meeting held for him at Columbus the other night.

The mask was torn from him and he was openly convicted of these falsehoods by the Democratic orator who had been brought down from his own city of Cleveland especially to speak until Johnson could arrive and be ready to address the meeting. John H. Clark, who was a gold Democrat in 1896 when Johnson was opposed to Bryan's free silverism, had made his speech, had called upon the faithful to support the Johnson candidates, and was listening quietly when Johnson used the Nickel Plate road "of my friend Mr. Clark" as an illustration of his entire argument of just taxation of steam railroads.

Mr. Clark, as attorney for that corporation, was completely informed upon the subject and arose and stated that Mr. Johnson did not know what he was talking about. He said that the New York, Chicago & St. Louis road is assessed in Ohio at $22,000 per mile instead of $13,000, as quoted by Johnson; that it is assessed in Indiana at $30,000 per mile instead of $36,000 per mile, as quoted by Johnson; and that it pays as many dollars a mile taxes in Ohio as it does in Indiana.

With Johnson thus convicted openly by one of his own supporters of as many misrepresentations as he made statements in the case of this railroad, what may we fairly presume to be the size of the mistatements in which he has indulged where he had no "friend" at hand to correct him? May we not reasonably judge that this is only a sample, and probably a mild one, of the entire falsehood of his whole crusade upon this subject? If he has deceived the people in this thing what is there of truth that they can depend upon from him in regard to any matter?

"LET WELL ENOUGH ALONE."

In '94 when Cleveland signed the Wilson bill—a blight
Fell on our happy nation and depression dark as night
Drove labor and prosperity and money out of sight
And the danger of Democracy was known.

But in November '96, these hard times passed away,
For Democracy defeated, turned the darkness into day.
And labor, cash and confidence returned without delay,
And the wisdom of Republicans was shown.

Since '96 we've prospered as we never have before,
With work for all and labor high and happiness in store;
And to have these times continue and to prosper more and more,
We'll just "Let Well Enough Alone."

For six bright years the times have grown still better day by day,
And even tramps and Democratic growls have passed away,
And all Republicans who wish prosperity to stay
Will "Keep On Letting Well Enough Alone."

This year our usual victory we're very sure to score,
Next year we'll work for Hanna, and for Roo-se-velt in '4,
Then Foraker in '5 and so we'll prosper more and more;
And "We'll Keep On Letting Well Enough Alone."

Unsought, far distant lands have been committed to our care;
And where our Flag is human rights and Liberty are there;

Queer Logic.

In his Lima speech Tom L. Johnson admitted that he had been a monopolist all his life, but said that because he had taken advantage of the law in force was no reason monopoly was good for the people. In other words Johnson freely confesses monopoly is a good thing for Johnson, but not good for other people. Such logic should secure his ticket votes to the number of 0000 with all thinking people.—Youngstown Telegram.

Republicans who are not registered in the city precinct in which they live should bear it in mind and get their names on the books at the earliest opportunity.

IT MADE LEMAITRE SIGH.

A Gesture and an Accent That He Could Not Reproduce.

The Figaro relates the following anecdote about Frederic Lemaitre: "He had acted with marvelous success in a play by D'Ennery and Marc Fournier when one evening after the second or third performance he was suddenly addressed by a stranger, 'How much will you take to be ill tomorrow, the day after tomorrow and for a month?'

"Lemaitre dragged the unknown under a street lantern and looked at him. He was a well known writer. 'It is you!' said the actor. 'Why do you wish me to be ill?'

"The other hesitated slightly as he explained his strange proposition. He was inspired by an insane hatred toward Marc Fournier and had sworn to avenge himself on his enemy by all conceivable means. 'Help me to wreck his drama,' he concluded, 'and I will make you rich. I have the means to do it. You earn a great deal. I will give you ten times as much for six months longer than your piece will last. Will you agree?'

"Lemaitre had quickly recovered himself. He seized the man by the collar, shook him hard for a minute and then, with a vigorous kick, thrust him away, crying: 'How much will I take? Thirty pieces of silver, Judas!'

"An old actor who told the story added, 'How often has Frederic Lemaitre sighed in my presence when he recalled the episode, "Alas, I shall never be able to reproduce the gesture and the accent of that moment!"'"

Do Not Sleep on Your Left Side.

When a patient complains of a bad taste in his mouth every morning on waking up, says a physician, the first question I ask him is as to the position he assumes when going to sleep. An immense number of people sleep on the left side, and this is the most common cause of the unpleasant taste which is generally attributed to dyspepsia. If a meal has been taken within two or three hours of going to bed, to sleep on the left side is to give the stomach a task which it is difficult in the extreme to perform. The student of anatomy knows that all food enters and leaves the stomach on the right side, and hence sleeping on the left side soon after eating involves a sort of pumping operation which is anything but conducive to sound repose.

The action of the heart is also interfered with considerably, and the lungs are unduly compressed. It is probable that lying on the back is the most natural position, but few men can rest easily so, and hence it is best to cultivate the habit of sleeping on the right side. It is very largely a matter of habit, and the sooner it is acquired the better for the sleeper and the worse for the physician.

The Bucket Shop.

The name bucket shop is said to have originated in Chicago when legitimate brokers would not handle an order for less than 5,000 bushels, and a lot of places sprang up where men of small means could speculate on a trifling capital, as small as a dollar, and these speculators were spoken of contemptuously as buying and selling wheat by the bucket full. The term was eventually applied to all brokerage in stocks and grain when the amounts dealt in were smaller than legitimate dealers or brokers would handle and more particularly to places where there were really no legitimate transactions, but where the proprietor and customer simply bet on the market, the proprietor allowing the customer to take either end of the bet in consideration of a commission, which in reality is his percentage in the game.

Men and Salutes.

A recent writer says: "The Chinaman bends to the very ground when he salutes; the Russian, farther west, takes off his hat and scrapes with it his very path; in Prussian Konigsberg, always farther west, the passersby salute each other by taking off their hats or caps very low; in Berlin the head covering is raised but little; in Paris still less, in London not at all or with a difference. The American keeps his hat on immovably and never bends, but all civilized nations, of course, take off their hats to the ladies."

A Heathen's Idea.

A Chinaman who acted as secretary to a former Chinese minister to England has published a book in which he says:

"There is nothing which an American won't say, there is nothing which an Englishman won't eat, there is nothing an Italian won't sing, there is no measure to which a Frenchman won't dance, and there is nothing Russians won't covet."

Wouldn't Lose That Pleasure.

"So you never talk about people behind their backs?"

"No," answered the woman, with a grim expression. "If I know anything which would annoy a friend, I always tell it in her presence. I wouldn't miss seeing her embarrassment for anything."—Washington Star.

Both Were Shocked.

Little Elsie was a faithful attendant at Sunday school and had listened earnestly when plans for a coming Christian Endeavor convention were discussed, her interest increasing to enthusiasm over the mysterious affair when she learned that her auntie was to attend as a delegate.

Coming into the library one day, auntie saw the little maid busily engaged in writing a letter to a cousin with whom she kept up a juvenile correspondence. She scrawled industriously for a moment; then stopped. There was a puzzled expression on her fat, ink stained face as she dangled her short legs and wriggled uncomfortably on her high perch.

"Auntie," she said, "how do you spell 'devil?'"

"Oh, Elsie," said her auntie, "I am shocked! Why are you using such a word as that in your letter? Nice little girls never say such things."

It was Elsie's turn to be shocked.

What Adam Was Doing.

It was midnight. Suddenly in the Adam residence there was a cry, then a series of howls, and one of the neighbors, passing by, heard the head of the house use language that was calculated to loose the thunderbolts of heaven on the whole neighborhood. She stopped, ran up to the door and, pressing the button, listened eagerly at the speaking tube. "What in the world is your husband doing?" she asked as the dulcet voice of Eve inquired her errand.

"Oh," replied Eve, "he is merely raising Cain. It requires strong language to raise a child like that."

And thus an expression was coined which promises to outlast history itself.—Portland Oregonian.

"Maggie," said the housewife severely, "you don't seem to have break fast on time any more."

"No, mum," replied the girl. "'Tis hard to wake up, but if you'll cal me, mum, I could have it on time."

"But it's not my place to call you I want to be called myself."

"Yis, mum," answered the girl solemnly; "I know it, an' if you'll cal me, mum, then I'll get up an' call you.'—Chicago Post.

A Call Down.

"Pa, ain't you a director of the school board?"

"Yes, I am. What of it?"

"Well, teacher called me down today, and she was awfully impolite about it."

"Were you on the schoolhouse premises when she called you down?"

"Yes; I was on the roof."—Pittsburg Press.

Little Creatures About Our Homes

V.—A Few Bugs and Beetles.

IF a naturalist were to add a thousand new species of beetles to his collection every year, he would have to live far beyond threescore and ten years before his collection could be complete, even though he were to begin as soon as he reached the years of manhood. The exact number of species is not known, as many have not yet been classified, but it is about 100,000. The number of species of bugs is much smaller.

Bugs differ from beetles in several important particulars. Beetles have one or more sets of strong jaws for biting and masticating their food, while bugs have these mouth parts converted into a sucker for piercing and sucking up the juices of the plants or animals on which they feed. In beetles the metamorphosis is complete, while in bugs the larva and the adult insect are very much alike. In some cases the only difference is in the addition of wings, and some have no wings at any time of life. Beetles use only the hind pair of wings in flight, while bugs use all four wings. The front wings of beetles are used merely to balance the body in flight and are folded over the hind pair to protect them when at rest. In some species of each of these orders only the males have wings, while the females are wingless. The front wings of beetles are horny throughout their whole length. In bugs the fore part is horn and the remainder membranous. Some of the bugs have no hard part to any of their wings, and all are used in flying.

Many of the beetles are called bugs. The common potato bug is probably one of the best known beetles. It is the Colorado beetle, so destructive to the potato plant. This pest was hardly known until about forty years ago. It is a native of the Rocky mountain region, and up to the time of the introduction of the potato into Colorado it fed upon a species of wild potato called the sand bur, but since that time it has spread over the whole country in such numbers as to be one of the worst of the insect scourges.

The mother beetle lays from 500 to 1,000 eggs in a season. These she deposits, eight or ten in a place, on the under side of a leaf—the potato leaf, of course, for the females instinctively place their eggs where the young will find plenty of the food upon which they thrive best. Insects sometimes make mistakes in this particular. For example, flies sometimes lay eggs on the carrion plant because it has the odor of putrid meat. The eggs of the Colorado beetle hatch in six or seven days, and the larvæ at once begin to eat and keep on eating for about two weeks. They then crawl down to the ground and bury themselves for eight or ten days, during which time they pass through the pupa stage of existence. Later they come forth to continue their work of destruction in not only devouring the potato plant, but by laying more eggs for another brood. These insects hibernate, or lie dormant, during the winter and come forth the following year. They consequently increase with great rapidity. Their ravages are checked by spraying the potato plants with a diluted solution of some of the arsenic compounds.

The tumblebug is a common beetle which, the better to protect them, deposits its eggs in a ball composed of earth and dung. In rolling this ball to the hole where it is to be buried the female goes ahead and pulls and the male pushes. Their fore legs are differently made for this purpose. When the ball is buried, the female is buried with it. She eats her way to the center of the ball and there deposits her eggs. These hatch into young grubs, which feed upon the organic matter of the ball for a time.

The beautiful little ladybug, sometimes called the ladybird, is also a beetle and is very useful to man, as its larvæ live almost entirely on plant lice, scale insects and the eggs and larvæ of other insect pests. These little globular beetles, red or yellow, with black spots, should not be destroyed, as they sometimes are, under the impression that they injure the plants upon which they are found, for, on the contrary, they are there to lay their eggs where the grubs can feed on the plant lice. These larvæ use their fore legs to carry their prey to their mouths. Watching this process through a magnifier makes one feel as though he were in some tropical jungle where much larger animals of strange form were preying upon the weaker denizens of the forest.

The firefly is a very interesting beetle, of which there are several species. The female of one species has no wings, which fact probably gave rise to the name glowworm, as during the night-time she emits a bright green light to attract her mate. She has the power to make this natural torch shine or disappear at her will. The male and female of some species of fireflies differ so much in form that at one time they were thought to belong to different species. Of the fireflies of the northern part of the United States both the male and the female have wings, and both emit light, though that of the female is the brighter and of a slightly different color. In tropical America and the West Indies the firefly seems to have reached its maximum development. Eight or ten "cucuyos," as they are called by the Creoles, placed in a glass bulb will furnish enough light to read by very comfortably. The Creole women make use of them as ornaments when attending a soiree. They keep them in little wire cages and feed them on sugar cane.

Strange as it may seem, one of the beetles spends the first, or larval, stage of his life and also the imago, or perfect, stage in the water. It is called the water beetle. The pupa stage only is passed in the ground. The larvæ are carnivorous creatures and feed on insects and snails, and when hard pressed for food they will prey upon one another. This beetle is about one and a half inches long and has smooth, black, shining elytra, or fore wings. It breathes air, for which it frequently rises to the surface of the water. Like other beetles, it has no lungs, but the air circulates all over the body, even through the delicate wings, in tubes called tracheæ. These tubes are kept from collapsing by closely wound spiral fibers which form the middle layer of the walls. Beetles do not take in the air through the mouth, but through little openings along the sides of the thorax and abdomen. The veins in the wings are double tubes. The inside tube is an air tube, and the space between the two is filled with blood, and the blood is aerated there. Among the more interesting beetles are the Goliath beetles of Africa, some of which are over 5 inches long and 2 inches broad, and the little blistering beetles used by physicians to produce blisters. These are so small that it requires about 6,000 of them to weigh a pound. As they formerly came from Spain, they are commonly called Spanish flies.

The name bug means filthy and was first applied to the bedbug; but, in spite of that, there are some very interesting bugs. There are also some very destructive ones. The aphis is one of the most remarkable, one of the most interesting and at the same time one of the most destructive bugs. There are many species of plant lice. Their fecundity is extraordinary. Professor Owen, a most excellent authority, says that a single female of one species of aphis may have a progeny of a quintillion individuals in a single season. This seems improbable, but Latreille, another good authority, tells us that one female during the summer months will produce twenty-five offspring daily, all of which are females, and that these in turn do the same for seven, nine or eleven generations, according to the species. The last generation, however, is about half males and half females. The females lay the eggs, which are hatched the next spring and which produce viviparous females having the power of spontaneous reproduction for several generations. All these little creatures have compound eyes fully developed as in other insects. The wings when developed are four in number. The sucking beak springs from the under side of the head, and with this soon after birth the insect pierces the plant on which it finds itself, begins sucking its juices and keeps on sucking during nearly all the remainder of its life. Most species of aphides have on the upper part of the abdomen two little tubular processes, from which the insect ejects a sweet, sirupy fluid of which ants are very fond and which is commonly called honeydew. The rose bug is probably the best known species of aphis. Tobacco is the poison which has been most successfully used in destroying this insect. House plants may have a paper sack drawn over them, and tobacco smoke freely blown into these sacks will kill every insect.

The chinch bug is one of the worst pests the farmer has to contend against. It is said that in one year, 1864, the damage done by this little insect in the single state of Illinois amounted to nearly $75,000,000. The name of this species is devastator. The chinch bug is not longer than a grain of wheat, but the damage done by it to the wheat and corn crops is enormous. The eggs are laid in the ground, and the chinch bugs come forth to attack the wheat about the middle of June. No practical means for their extermination has yet been devised.

The bedbug and louse, two wingless species of hemiptera, or bugs, are too well known to need any description here. They are both fond of human blood, and they will probe the skin and suck away as vigorously as an aphis on a rosebud. The best preventive against them is perfect cleanliness, for they are fond of filthy places. If bedbugs do get into a bedstead, as they sometimes will despite our precautions, a free use of gasoline will usually destroy them. Corrosive sublimate will also kill them, but it is a virulent poison and should be used with great care.

The cochineal insect is a bug which feeds on the cotton plant and yields a beautiful red dye. The females are only used for this purpose. The dried bodies of 70,000 of these insects weigh only a pound.

The Wonderful Starfish.

There are scores upon scores of different forms of marine animal life that come within the category assigned to starfishes, but the most singular specimen in the whole group is the splendid astrophyton—the "sea basket" of the sailors. It is truly a wonderful specimen of marine life, having hundreds of long and short, straight, twisted and curled tentacles, and but for the geometric precision of the plan upon which the starlike "body" is fashioned might be mistaken for a miniature, circular specimen of the devilfish. The center of the creature, the "hub," from which the five stout arms radiate, is the body, head and "thinking machine" of our curious astrophyton.

The whole, not including the labyrinthine tentacles, which branch to all the points and intermediate points of the compass, looks for all the world like an animated Fourth of July firewheel. The five main arms are divided into three each within a short space from the astro's body, and these three are almost immediately subdivided into innumerable other arms and tentacles, the whole forming a net by means of which it captures its prey and holds its victims until the life has been sucked out of them.

Saws That Cut Each Other.

A proverb has been defined as "the wisdom of the many and the wit of one;" but, clever as this definition is, it is scarcely borne out by a comparison of the most familiar of our proverbs. The following are some of the most striking: "Penny wise and pound foolish" is the exact opposite of "Take care of the pence and the pounds will take care of themselves;" so "Birds of a feather flock together" and "Two of a trade never agree." "Absence makes the heart grow fonder" and "Out of sight, out of mind," are just as contradictory as "Many hands make light work" and "Too many cooks spoil the broth." So, too, "Delays are dangerous" is the flat opposite of "Second thoughts are best," while the philosopher who invented the axiom "The early bird catches the worm" had apparently never heard of King Alfonso's world renowned saying that "All things come to him who waits." On this particular subject the opinion of the worm and the bird might be worth having.

Surprised His Wife.

A story is told of a Pennsylvania farmer who wore his old suit until every one was tired of it, and his estimable wife was almost ashamed of the hustling man who had been inside it so long. But one day he went to town to sell his produce, and while there he determined to buy a new suit and, happy thought, surprise Eliza. So he bundled a neat suit into the wagon and drove homeward.

It was after night as he hurried homeward, and at a bridge over a river he stood up on the wagon and "peeled" and threw the despised old suit in the water. Then he reached for his new clothes. They were gone—had jolted out of the wagon. The night was cold and his teeth chattered as he hurried home. He surprised Eliza even more than he anticipated.

Worth Trying Again.

The impecunious author passed over the manuscript with a faltering hand. The aged but truthful editor started.

"Er—Mr. Wrightly," he said, with the air of a man who has just become saddled with a great thought, "did you ever hear that Walter Scott received the suggestion of his first successful novel while he was washing his hands?"

"I—I believe I read of it," stammered the impecunious author, slipping his hands into his pockets. A faraway look came into the face of the aged but truthful editor.

"I was merely throwing out the suggestion," he said softly.

It is true that "Blood Wine" is a wonderful medicine. Wonderful, because of its great breadth of cures. "Blood Wine," soon to be America's most widely known and popular medicine, kills the germs of disease that are in the blood. All diseases that have their origin in the blood or that are spread by germs, come under the curative powers of this great French discovery. "Blood Wine" is the medicine for you to get today; take it now, before the diseases of winter weather are upon you; before you are in the grasp of rheumatism, grip, lung trouble, kidney disorder and many other diseases so common to the American people. "Blood Wine" cures

Mrs. Irving Mack, of Cambridge, Mass., says:

"I had the grip, and it left me a perfect wreck. My appetite was all gone, my nerves were all unstrung. I was wasted to a skeleton. Everybody said to me, 'You look like a ghost.' I couldn't sleep. I struggled against my sufferings, despite their growing intensity, but I failed completely, and I made up my mind that unless I soon received help I must die. The medicines I took seemed to do me no good, and I was truly a pitiable object. I was white as a sheet and so weak I could hardly walk along the street without staggering. My friends were constantly telling me that I had consumption or some mysterious incurable disease. At length, through the blessing of Divine Providence, I heard of the disoovery of a medicine which would do wonderful things. This medicine was 'Blood Wine.' I sent for some of it and began to take it, and the result was simply marvelous. As true as I live, that medicine alone entirely cured me and made me a well woman. Lots of my neighbors who know all about it will stand by me in everything I have said. My health now is excellent and I do my work with a light heart and a strong body."

CURES RHEUMATISM

Because it removes the poisons from the blood. It abstracts the acids; dissolves the crusts about the joints and stops the pain. Read the following from Mr. F. S. Talmadge of 78 Woodside St., Springfield, Mass.

"My son Elton had suffered for a long time with an aggravated case of rheumatism, which caused him most intense pain, and which daily grew worse in spite of careful medical treatment.

"Many remedies were suggested, and were given a careful trial, but without good result. A friend recommended 'Blood Wine,' and although our experience with other preparations had been such as to cause us to doubt whether it would benefit him or not, we were delighted to find that, after Elton had taken two bottles he showed signs of improvement; and now, after having taken several bottles more, he is well and strong again. I cannot say too much in favor of 'Blood Wine,' and heartily recommend it to all suffering from rheumatism."

CURED OF CONSUMPTION

"Last winter I caught a cold which settled on my lungs, and for weeks I was unable to get out of the house. As spring drew near, the cold wore off, but left me with a rasping cough, which caused me the greatest alarm. Nothing seemed to stop it; physicians told me that I had developed consumption, and that they could do little for me, except to make my life easier unless I should go to another climate. I was very weak, my skin feverish and my appetite absolutely gone. A friend advised me to try 'Blood Wine,' and from the very first it helped me. My strength came back slowly but surely. I began to enjoy my food. Life became worth living, and today I am absolutely well."

WAS ALMOST DEAD WITH KIDNEY TROUBLE

He also had liver complaint and was a total wreck. This was the condition of J. R. Sickles of Tiffin, Ohio, when he ran across "Blood Wine." He says:

"I have been a sufferer from general debility, liver and kidney complaint, chills and fever, headache and lameness of the joints, cold hands and feet. I was a physical wreck; had been treated by some of as good doctors as could be found, and taken nearly all kinds of patent medicines, but it all availed nothing. I have spent hundreds of dollars trying to find a cure. This is a case of twenty years' standing. I got so far gone that I could not work more than six or eight hours per day, when I would become perfectly exhausted. I was recommended by Messrs. Glyne & Laroy to try 'Blood Wine,' which I am glad to state has proved very satisfactory. I have gained strength, health, vigor, and am able to carry on my daily labor with the greatest ease. I would say that if this should reach the eyes of any sufferers from such complaints they should try 'Blood Wine,' which is a safe and a sure cure, full of toning value, without danger of disturbing the action of the heart or stomach."

The Sun Myths.

It was in Bayard Taylor's day that the sun myth had its vogue. One night at a party Taylor was greatly bored by the persistent efforts of a guest to discuss sun myths. No matter what direction the conversation might take, this person would ruthlessly drag it back again to his favorite topic.

At last the distressed poet raised a very interesting question in regard to the threadbare subject. "Did you ever think," he asked, "that the name Smith, so common all over the world, is derived from sun myth?" No one had ever dreamed of such thing. Max Muller had overlooked the point completely.

"Quite possible; certainly most plausible," said Taylor. "Sun myth, Sumyth, Smyth, Smith, and some still spell the name with a y." The discussion was ended.

No Cause For Alarm.

Rev. Mr. Brown, a man of less than medium stature, possessed a high, squeaky voice. Not long ago he was invited to exchange pulpits with a minister in a neighboring city. The church in which he was to preach was much more imposing than the home chapel, says Lippincott's Magazine. Arriving early, he peered from behind the pulpit and watched what he considered an immense congregation with trepidation.

As the last notes of the organ voluntary died away his little head popped up from behind the desk, and without a word of warning he piped out, "It is I; be not afraid."
